Money, So Queer.
One Speakeasy.
Our Drink Facts.
And Our Busy Bears.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE MORE you study money, the more fantastically mysterious it becomes. Japan abandons gold, won't let any gold go out, and closes the stock exchange. Does everything collapse? It does not.

Business is better, cotton mills in Lancashire suffer because orders are switched from Britain to Japan; Japanese stocks go up, as much as $30 a share, and in spite of the comic opera war, everybody is cheerful.

IN ADDITION, you read the mystifying announcement that "France has entered China, apparently in accordance with an agreement with Tokio." This morning you are told France has a private agreement with Japan since 1926, as good, perhaps, as the agreement that Britain had with Japan, until that was traded for the Washington conference, to our cost.

FRANCE HAS NOT worried this or other nations with any details, because the wise French, unlike ourselves, believe in keeping their own counsel. And, strange as it may sound, they do not worry much about any country except FRANCE, or any people except FRENCHMEN.

WHEN YOU READ about Japan, your mind turns topsy-turvy, wondering whether it is really true that the gold standard is as lucky as the left hind leg of a graveyard rabbit, and if so, just how lucky that foot is.

China buys from England because China hates and boycotts Japan. India, with Gandhi disappointed, buys from Japan because India hates England.

Uncle Sam doesn't sell much, because we have such a "high hat" dollar. Everybody would rather buy with cheap money from England than buy from us. Even Canada, that has always bought from us, more than from any other nation, not excepting England, now turns toward Britain in her shopping.

DID YOU EVER see a New York speakeasy?

It may sound provincial, but this writer never saw one until yesterday. A friend said:

The good place seemed tightly closed, in a very fashionable part of upper New York. Double doors, with little diamond-shaped windows, were opened, after inspection of the friend.

Inside were other doors, another inspection, solid locks opened. Then you saw the modern American resort, perhaps the finest of its kind in the country. There are in New York City alone more than 50,000 more or less like it, taking the place of 20,000 saloons of other days.

It is 1 o'clock in the day, and somewhat surprised, you see every seat occupied, practically all of them by young girls, chatting with the bartenders, taking gin cocktails or "absinthe drip," if you know what that is.

No windows anywhere, cubistic lights above change, making the people look yellow, pink, purple, rose colored, a great help, probably, to the soothing effects of alcohol.

There is a balcony, and on it a triangular bar, to supplement the round bar. Young ladies sit there also. They smoke cigarets, feel quite "manly."

Then they move to little tables, and eat food, excellently cooked, reasonable in price.

The profit on alcohol makes it possible to diminish food prices.

This institution for supplying refreshments for dozens of girls in their teens is packed, not a seat vacant. Your friend informs you that the very able manager, George L., takes in at least $35,000 a week, and you believe it. You are interested, too, by the number of headwaiters that call you by your name. They used to be headwaiters in leading "legitimate" hotels and restaurants, and tell you:

"We got tired of working where there were no crowds and no tips."

THE SITUATION is perfect for Mr. L., not so perfect for those who think prohibition a success, far from perfect for men that have millions invested in hotels, now transformed into unprofitable lodging houses, whence the inmates sally forth to speakeasy addresses, supplied to them by hotel bellboys.

ENLIGHTENING ARE the facts about our drink problem, carefully developed by Cyrus H. K. Curtis, a total abstainer, who denounces prohibition because it fails and injures the country. We have now twice as many rum dealers as we had before prohibition.

Bootleggers collect eleven hundred million dollars a year MORE than the people used to pay for alcoholic drinks before prohibition.

TWO HUNDRED million gallons of whiskey are manufactured in the United States annually, poisonous stuff, all of it.

Our "hard liquor" consumption per capita is greater than before prohibition and, besides two hundred million gallons of whisky and gin manufactured

TUBE READY FOR AUTOS OFFERED

Road Would Remodel Span And Tunnel for County At Cost of $4,200,000

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad will submit to County Commissioners within the next few days a proposal to deliver to the county a completed traffic tunnel and bridge for $4,200,000.

The railroad will agree to construct the approaches, do all the necessary work to convert the present Wabash tunnel and Monongahela river bridge for motor traffic and will follow specifications already set by county engineers for the proposal.

Officials of the railroad say they have become tired of reports that the project would cost a fabulous sum to put it in shape, and it is understood that they mean to make a clear-cut offer which will answer many of the objections to the deal.

The original price for the bridge, tunnel and approaches, agreed upon by the County Commissioners, was $3,000,000. This deal was disapproved by a grand jury after arguments were heard from consulting engineers opposed to the purchase.

The railroad, by adding $1,200,000 to the price, plans to do its own construction, and will offer a complete project even, as a railroad official put it, down to the traffic signs.

It is also understood on good authority that the viaduct of the railroad over Penn avenue, not included in the original deal, may be thrown in to make an easy ramp approach from Duquesne way. A railroad official has intimated that this will be done if he can be convinced that it is necessary for a first-class approach.

13 NATIONS DEFAULT ON U. S. DEBT

Young Plan Probers Urge More Delay for Germany; Britain to Seek Revision

As 13 debtor nations today went into technical default to the United States on their final 1931 payments totaling $117,412,000, these developments brought to a climax the war-debt and reparations tangle:

1—The Young Plan Committee at Basle will recommend a further extension in Germany's moratorium on conditional reparations payments, it was learned.

2—Great Britain, shortly after, will reopen the entire question of revision with the United States and other powers.

3—President Hoover's battle for prompt ratification of the one-year moratorium opened before a House committee in Washington, with little prospect of final action until January.

BASEL, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A recommendation for a further moratorium on Germany's conditional reparations payments will be contained in the final report of the Young Plan Committee which is studying Germany's capacity to pay, it was learned from the highest authority today.

The recommendation will be accompanied by a long summary of the facts presented so the world will be able to draw its own conclusions.

Sir Walter Layton, of Great Britain; Prof. Charles Rist, of France, and Dr. Carl Melchior, of Germany, have been named as a committee to draft the report. They set to work immediately upon the basis for it which was

('Points of the President's Message—No. 5')

"If the world is to regain its standards of life, it must further decrease naval and other arms. The subject will come before the general disarmament conference which meets in Geneva on February 2nd, next."

—From the President's message to Congress.

If President Hoover did not know, when he sent his message to Congress, that the discussions at the next Geneva conference will not be limited to the single question of armaments, he knows it NOW and so do the American people.

By way of London, as so frequently happens under this administration, the United States is informed that political questions will be raised by Europe after the United States has become entangled in the Geneva conference.

A London dispatch says:

"J. L. Garvin, the well known and well informed editor of the Sunday Observer, states the world is awaiting deliverance from Hoover through total cancellation of war debts and reparations.

"His editorial declares the British government will seek to merge a financial and reparations conference with the February disarmament conference.

"High diplomtic circles here state that they have been given to understand from Washington that Secretary Stimson and President Hoover are anxious for the disarmament conference since they will be able to use it as a weapon for debt cancellation."

And the same London dispatch quotes the Referee, an independent publication, as saying:

"Hoover is busy spellbinding Congress on the subject of the moratorium. It is fairly certain he will succeed, but many hard-headed Americans strongly object to being milked in order to save private investments in Germany.

"The American public is quite the most emotional and gullible of all masses. It will doubtless respond to Hoover's latest save-the-world slogan. But it is beginning to doubt whether the term moratorium is ethically justifiable. It knows in its heart of hearts that war debts have gone forever."

In other words, the United States is to be baited to Geneva with promises of general limitation and reduction of all armaments, only to be met there by a general discussion of political questions beginning with Europe's war debts to the United States.

It is utterly repugnant to the American system of government that the American people should be compelled to get their information regarding the conduct of their foreign relations from FOREIGN governments, FOREIGN editors and diplomatic sources in FOREIGN capitals.

Under the Constitution, the final control of American foreign policy rests with the SENATE.

Under the Constitution, the duty of raising armies and of providing and maintaining a navy belongs to the CONGRESS.

Under the Constitution, this control and these duties CANNOT BE DELEGATED TO THE PRESIDENT, MUCH LESS TO FOREIGN CONFERENCES.

In view of the failure of the Hoover administration to take the American people into its confidence concerning the coming Geneva conference, Congress should not authorize a dollar for the expenses of any American delegate to that conference until Congress and the country are permitted to know more about its real purposes.

First—That the President transmit to the Committee on Foreign Relations all the correspondence in connection with the coming Geneva conference.

Second—That the President make public his instructions to the American delegation to Geneva when he nominates its members to the Senate.

SUMS FOUND IN PRIVATE ACCOUNTS

City tax funds have been found in the private checking accounts of individuals, it was reported today as the inquiry into the affairs of deposed City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley's office continued.

Personal checks of an employe of the City Treasurer's office were used in making tax refunds in cases in which taxpayers had overpaid, according to evidence gathered by the auditors of Price, Waterhouse & Co.

DEEP PROBE

The search into the records is going deep, particularly in the delinquent tax office. Auditors have now reached the point where they are inquiring into the lifting of city liens placed on real estate when taxes were unpaid.

One of the employes of the Treasurer's office, confronted by photostatic evidence of the personal check method of making tax refunds, is said to have confessed to the District Attorney that such a practice existed.

The refund in this case was said to be legitimate, and was made because a corporation had been charged with certain penalties not in effect when the bill was paid. The overcharge was checked back to the corporation from the private account. It amounted to more than $1,000. But why the money should have been in a private account and how long it would have stayed there had the error not been discovered has not been explained.

REFUNDS IN CASH

City Treasurer R. W. Thompson said that where an overpayment is found, the owner is called by telephone and the amount refunded in cash. He said few refunds have been necessary. Further than that, he refused to discuss the refund matter.

In the County Treasurer's office, overpayments are kept in a separate fund. This fund remains intact after a treasurer goes out of office and payments out of it are made only after proof of excess payment is presented to the County Controller.

City Controller J. P. Kerr announced today that on Monday he would ask Council to charge off for the Treasurer's office $2,500, which is a small part of the shortage uncovered there. As to replacing the entire shortage, now estimated at more than $50,000, the Controller said no action would be taken for the time being.

MATE OF DUTCH BRIDE MISSING

Police today are searching for Theodore Albert Robbins, who, police were told, evidently tucked a $5 bill into the purse of his yellow-haired Dutch bride of four days, and disappeared from the Fort Pitt Hotel last night.

Mrs. Robbins, who, before her marriage last Friday was Margaret Schrier, of Hague, Holland, was taken to the Y. W. C. A. by agents of the Travelers Aid Society.

The marriage occurred in New York, and culminated a romance that began on the walks of Riverside drive. The newlyweds stopped over in Pittsburgh en route to the home of Robbins' parents in Richmond, Mo.

Robbins left his bride yesterday afternoon, telling her he would return shortly. Their bus was scheduled to leave at 6:30 last night, and when her husband failed to return, the bride notified hotel authorities. Mrs. Robbins said she could not account for $5 she found in her purse.

400 Insane Flee Fire; Two Dead

CHARLOTTETOWN, Prince Edward Island, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—With two known dead and three missing persons believed also to have lost their lives in the flames, the Falconwood Hospital for the Insane was in ashes today after a spectacular fire that spread terror among the hospital's 400 patients.

The two known dead were: Don MacKenzie, 65, who fell from a top floor window as he tried to grab hold of an extension ladder and was killed instantly as his body struck the frozen ground; and Francis MacDonald, 35, who jumped from another window and died later at a hospital.

Three others believed to have perished in the flames were William McGuinn, Marshall Smith and an Indian whose name was not ascertained.

The fire, the origin of which was not determined, drove the

Dolores Del Rio Must Pay Lawyer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Gunther Lessing was awarded $20,000 out of his total claim of $31,000 against Dolores Del Rio, the fiery Mexican film star.

Lessing claimed the money was due him for past legal services rendered the star.

'Who's Who' Lists 'Barrister' Gandhi

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The name of Mahatma Gandhi appears for the first time in the British "Who's Who" for 1932. The Indian leader, who has a total space of 10 lines, is described as a "barrister."

Three prominent Americans are included for the first time. One of these is the late Senator Dwight Morrow, who died after the volume had gone to press. The others are Bobby Jones and "Bill" Tilden.

Two Warehouses Burn in Uniontown

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 15.—Two furniture warehouses were destroyed and the downtown section of the city threatened this morning by a fire on lower Arch street that entailed a loss of $75,000.

Hundreds of business houses and residents were showered with sparks. Firemen stood waist deep in a swollen creek to combat the flames.

'Ski Girl' Quits Hospital With Mother, Vanishes

MINNEOLA, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Still surrounded by mystery, Miss May Gledhill, known throughout Cana as "The Ski Girl" because of posters she posed for, left the hospital today recovered from an illness the cause of which she had told police to "try and find out."

Mrs. Anna Peel Gledhill, the girl's mother, drove up to the County Hospital in a closed car, ushered her daughter out and whisked her away so quickly that hospital officials even neglected to present their bill. They said they had no forwarding address.

Inquiries revealed that mother and daughter had not gone to the home of Mrs. William Conner, who had been keeping Miss Gledhill's 2-year-old son during her absence.

Miss Gledhill, who had been living with Mrs. Conner, collapsed November 29 after a visit from men she thought to be immigration inspectors. Officials sought to determine if she had taken poison and she told them to try and find out. Mrs. Conner told officials that her husband was the ftaher of Miss Gledhill's child.

Mrs. Gledhill arrived from Canada December 1, but so far as could be learned made no call upon Mrs. Conner or her grandchild.

CHANCE FOR REFERENDUM ON DRY LAW SEEN IN CONGRESS

MODIFICATION AT SESSION UNLIKELY

Capital Observers Doubt If Anti-Prohibition Bloc Can Muster Strength

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The new Seventy-second Congress although wetter than its predecessors, will not vote to modify the Volstead act to permit beer and light wines.

There is a chance, however, that the new Congress may see a majority vote rolled up for some sort of referendum on prohibition although it is extremely doubtful if two-thirds could be mustered for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment itself.

These are the outstanding results of a poll of Congress by International News Service—the only complete poll that ever has been made in Congress on prohibition in 10 years. Four hundred and thirty-four members of the House were canvassed and 95 members of the Senate, there being one vacancy in each branch.

VOTE ON TWO QUESTIONS

The members were asked two questions:

"One, do you favor a referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment as proposed by the American Legion?

"Two, do you favor legalizing beer?"

House of Representatives—For referendum 155, against referendum, 96, undecided or non-committal, 183. A majority of the House is 218.

Senate—For referendum 32, against referendum 29, undecided or non-committal 34. A majority of the Senate is 49.

On the beer question only 125 members of the House and 21 Senators said they would vote in favor of it, the rest being frankly hostile to the suggestion or non-committal. Many of those willing to vote for a referendum on the whole prohibition issue were unwilling to vote for beer because they do not believe such action to be consistent with the amendment itself.

From these figures it is at once apparent the ultimate fate of the referendum hinges upon those large blocs in both houses which are unwilling or unable to state now how they intend to vote upon it.

MANY UNDECIDED

In the House, this non-committal bloc numbers 183. It would require 63 votes from this bloc to give the 155 a majority. In the Senate the undecided bloc numbers 34 and 15 of them would have to join the anti-dry side to make a majority.

Many of those who preferred to be listed as non-committal are really undecided until they see what form the proposed referendum takes. Many others declined to take a position on either side of the question for publication for fear of causing political repercussions in their home districts.

A number of Democrats stated frankly they would be non-committal until "the party acts," presumably in candidate and platform at the convention next June. Southern Democrats particularly adopted this attitude in many instances.

NAVY DISPUTE UP IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—The question of building the American navy up to "full treaty strength," which provoked William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy League, to charge President Hoover was guilty of "abysmal ignorance," will be considered today by the Senate Naval Affairs Committee.

The committee meets to pass upon the bill of Senator Hale (Rep.), of Maine, authorizing a new construction program to make the American Navy the peer of any in the world. Hale sponsored the bill in direct conflict with the President's economy program.

The bill provided that "such building up shall be accomplished by new construction, replacement of over-age vessels, and alterations in and conversion of existing vessels in the manner and to the extent authorized by said treaties, and appropriations for the purposes herein designated are hereby authorized to be made."

hospital's 400 patients into the biting cold of the night. But through the remarkable order maintained by the guards, all but five of the patients were marched out of the burning buildings without a panic.

Before the guards could reach the upper floors of one of the structures, those five had been trapped by flames.

The water supply was inadequate. Available pressure was not sufficient to send a stream into the burning building. Dynamite was used to sever the west from the east wing, but the supply of the explosive was too small, and the flames leaped the narrow gap and soon were devouring the entire structure.

PROPERTY LOSS GREAT

The property lost was estimated to be between $250,000 and $500,000.

The Mayor of Falconwood and the city councillors adjourned a session of Council to join the firefighters. Premier Stewart also joined the rescuers, and city physicians and clergymen were other volunteer firemen and first aid workers.

The patients, dazed, wandered uncertainly about in the light of the fire, but there was no disorder. Many patients, after the shock of their narrow escape had passed, assisted in the work of relief to those of their number who had been injured or who faced suffering from the cold.

TILSON OFFERS RUM PLAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—A constitutional amendment "forever prohibiting the open saloon," but at the same time providing for the sale of intoxicating beverages under a dispensary system controlled by the states, was proposed in the House today by Representative Tilson (Rep.), of Connecticut.

The amendment would give Congress authority to tax the manufacture and sale of intoxicants.

Tilson, former Republican floor leader of the House, and recognized as being close to the administration on questions other than prohibition, said:

"The adoption of the proposed amendment would remove from Washington, where it does not belong, the question of dealing with this age-old problem, and bring it back to the states, where under our dual system of government it properly belongs."

FESS SOUNDS G.O.P. KEYNOTE FOR HOOVER

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Striking a high note of confidence in the administration of President Hoover, Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, in his capacity as chairman of the Republican National Committee, convened the governing body of the G. O. P. today for the purpose of selecting a convention city for 1932.

When Detroit formally withdrew, Chicago was assured of the selection, with the date set for the second week of June. Significantly, Fess told the men and women of the committee:

"Our business is to place Mr. Hoover in a position in the minds of the public which his stupendous efforts and brilliant leadership justify."

WAR BLAMED

All of the nation's current ailments were traced by Fess back to the war, and to the more serious economic conditions prevailing in other countries. He said:

"An intelligent public opinion must be formed. It is the purpose of this committee to assist in convincing the disaffected that the President is not responsible for the spots on the sun, the storms at sea, the droughts on land, nor the numerous epidemics that frequently sweep sections of the country."

Observers regarded the Fess speech as a "key-noter" for the anticipated re-nomination of Mr. Hoover as he continued:

"Seen from the long distant point of view, our country is riding the waves of an economic storm. In the midst of the confusion, both passengers and crew are aware that on the bridge stands the pilot with a poised brain and a steady hand, and they have confidence that under his leadership the ship will safely reach the port."

OHIO BATTLE

The otherwise serene surface of the committee was ruffled temporarily when Maurice Maschke, committeeman from Ohio, made an unsuccessful effort to prevent the confirmation of Mrs. Wilma Sinclair Levan, of Steubenville, as new committeewoman from his state.

Claiming that since yesterday's meeting of the Executive Committee he had "additional information" which indicated that a majority of the Ohio State Central Committee actually favored Mrs. Katharine Kennedy Brown, of Dayton, Maschke offered a motion to submit her credentials to a committee composed of himself, Senator Fess and National Treasurer J. R. Nutt, of Cleveland. The motion was defeated.

The fight over Mrs. Levan goes back to the 1928 campaign. Then she was committeewoman from Ohio and a supporter of the late Senator Frank B. Willis for the presidency in opposition to Mr. Hoover. Mrs. Levan was ejected from her post and Mrs. Elizabeth L. Clark, of Steubenville, her bitter political opponent, elected in her stead. When Mrs. Clark died, Mrs. Levan was restored to the post.

PINCHOT RAPS U. S. IN SLUMP

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot yesterday told a nation-wide radio audience that the depression is American-made and can be American-mended.

He stated that the belief that a "world-wide depression forced the depression in America is untrue." He blamed the depression on the failure to stabilize the credit system of the nation, the "orgy of speculation," and a failure of the government to curb "forces which were mismanaging our business affairs."

As a remedy for the present economic troubles he advocated that the government, as the agent of the people, take active measures to guide economic affairs of the nation.

7 ESCAPE FIRE AS CHILD CRIES

Because little Jared E. Tillotson, 3½, cried for a drink of water early today, he is a hero. His cries awakened his grandmother, Mrs. Cora Wright, sleeping in the same room on the third floor of a three-story brick apartment at 434 South Fairmount avenue. Mrs. Wright carried the child downstairs through a smoke-filled hallway.

On the second floor she aroused her daughter, Mrs. Betty Tillotson, 30, and her son-in-law, J. E. Tillotson. Tillotson battled the flames for a few minutes and then followed the women and child to the first floor. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Hazlett and their daughter, Marion, 13, living on the first floor, also left the house.

Firemen extinguished the flames and said the loss would be about $1,000. The cause was undetermined.

PINCHOT'S BOND BILL BEFORE HOUSE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The administration prosperity bond plan was placed before the House today while the General Assembly awaited Gov. Pinchot's reaction to the Talbot bill.

The McClure bill, creating the State Unemployment Relief Commission to administer funds obtained from voluntary contributions was reported for second reading passage by the House Judiciary General Committee. With the aid of Philadelphia votes, which anti-administration members had expected to be cast against it, the measure was reported favorably by a 15-12 committee vote.

Together with the Bell resolution for the enabling constitutional amendment, the McClure bill would set in operation the original Pinchot plan which specified bond issue of $35,000,000. No amount is specified in either the bill or McClure measures, but the committee rejected proposed amendments to restrict the bond total to a $15,000,000. The reporting of the McClure bill was accepted as indicating committee approval of the larger amounts.

PRO-RATED OUTLAY

The shift of the Philadelphia vote in committee accompanied the insertion of amendments which give the commission no authority to allocate the money collected and provide for disbursement of funds strictly in accord with the provisions of the Talbot bill.

Under this plan, the money voluntarily contributed to the commission would be pro-rated among the counties on the basis of unemployment statistics. The county allocation would be made to the County Treasurer and would be subdivided among poor districts by the County Commissioners, with approval of the court of Common Pleas.

The House bloc and anti-administration Senators greeted the Judiciary General Committee action by reiterating they were opposed to the prosperity bond plan and would continue their fight for enactment of the Talbot bill.

GOVERNOR GETS BILL

This measure went to the Governor before noon, after House concurrence in technical amendments made by the Senate. The House action was a formality and there were no dissenting votes.

The Talbot bill advocates declared they were now interested only in the Governor's reception of this measure. Some even expressed the belief that Pinchot might sign the much-disputed measure; all agreed both Senate and House would attempt to override a veto.

They disclaimed any interest in a reported compromise move accredited to the Governor and members of the Philadelphia delegation. The projected compromise, they said, was based on a readiness of the Philadelphia group to reach an agreement with Pinchot on a program which would provide much-needed relief for Philadelphia.

Gov. Pinchot declined today to discuss the compromise effort.

Charleroi Highway Opening Delayed

CHARLEROI, Pa., Dec. 15.—Opening of the Charleroi-Pittsburgh highway at Monongahela was again delayed today due to bad weather.

Top dressing of asphaltic oil could not be applied to the new surface. A detour through Donora is still being used. State Highway Department engineers said they expected to open the road Thursday.

Father Dies Hearing Roxy Plead for Hospital Funds

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Gustav Rothafel died last night as he sat listening to the voice of his son, Roxy, appealing for aid to hospital patients.

The radio program, broadcast over station WMCA, was being given by "Roxy and His Gang." As Roxy finished his appeal for funds to place radio sets in hospitals, he was called from the microphone to answer a telephone call.

The call was notification that his father, 78 years old, had died suddenly as he sat, seemingly in perfect health, before the radio in his Brooklyn home.

The "Radio Scandals," as the program was called, was brought to a close by the singing of a hymn.

The Elder Rothafel was born in Germany on Christmas Day. He came to America as a young man, settling in Stillwater, Minn., where he established himself as an orthopedic shoemaker.

His widow and another son, Max, survive.

Society Audience Cheers Sing Sing Minstrels

Universal Service.

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Sing Sing's chapel on the hill last night rocked with laughter and applause when the Prisoners' Mutual Welfare League presented this season's edition of "Sing Sing Minstrels."

An audience of judges and detectives and fashionably-gowned women, numbering some 1,300, paid $1.50 and $2 for their seats. The money will be spent to cheer penniless families of prisoners.

The outstanding star of the performance was Leroy Schuster, a dancing instructor of Broadway, who cut his career short when he shot his wife to death and got 20 years. Schuster's tap dancing had the audience cheering.

Russell Ryder, former Broadway playboy, was the stage manager. Ryder appeared, too, dressed in the evening clothes he always wore. The band, whose members had been musicians outside, was directed by Robert Gooding, former bandmaster in the British army. Gooding had five wives at one time.

Jack Hanley was stage director. Victor Jay Bello, cartoonist, did a chalk-talk. The settings were painted by convicts. James Robinson, once a banjoist with Cab Calloway's band, won long applause.

CHINESE STUDENTS RIOT AS PRESIDENT RESIGNS

RIVAL FACTIONS BELIEVED NEAR AGREEMENT

30 Casualties Reported In Uprising at Nanking; Soldiers Open Fire on Mob

International News Service.

NANKING, Dec. 15.—On the heels of the resignation of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek as President of China, wild rioting broke out here today, resulting in at least 30 casualties. Several rioters were killed outright when soldiers were forced to fire into the midst of a mob of demonstrators.

Chiang Kai-Shek's resignation, paving the way for a unification of the Nationalist and Cantonese factions in Chinese politics, followed an onslaught of criticism against his domestic and foreign policies, and particularly his acceptance of the League of Nation council's resolution settling the Manchurian dispute.

SEN NEW CHIEF

Lin Sen, aged head of the legislative council of the Nationalist government, was designated as acting president in the emergency pending appointment of a new chief executive acceptable both to Cantonese and Nationalist leaders. Chen Ming Shu, one of the leaders of the forces opposed to the Nationalists, was named as president of the administrative council, another post formerly held by Chiang Kai-Shek.

Simultaneously with announcement of the resignation shortly after noon today, wild rioting broke out. Students from Shanghai, Peiping, Tientsin and Nanking, who had swarmed into the capital in ever-increasing numbers during the last week, launched mass attacks against government offices.

INVADE OFFICES

The students first invaded the foreign office, wrecked the place, and then proceeded to the headquarters of the Kuomintang, the Chinese Nationalist Party. The Kuomintang offices were also devastated by the mob.

Soldiers hastily mobilized to combat the riots, first fired over the heads of the students and then blazed away into their midst. In the intense confusion that followed, an adequate check-up of the casualties was impossible.

Several students were killed outright and scores wounded in the initial clash between soldiers and students. The troops were driven back by sheer force of numbers after 40 of them had been beaten with stones and clubs in the hands of the students.

Reinforcements sent to the scene finally succeeded in dispersing the rioters.

There were grave threats of new disorders. It was estimated at least 50,000 students were storming the railway stations in Shanghai demanding immediate transportation to Nanking to aid the students' "army" already on the scene.

Chen Ming-Shu suffered at the hands of the rioters when he refused to allow the students to interview the deposed president. He received a delegation of students at the Kuomintang headquarters and, when out of fears for Chiang's personal safety he refused to allow the students to see him, he was set upon and beaten.

$2,650 Customs Bill Faces Schipa, Tenor

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Tito Schipa, Italian tenor, appearing here with the Chicago Civic Opera Company today, was faced with a bill of $2,650 from the United States Customs Bureau.

He was asked why he had failed to declare duty on a $4,000 bracelet brought into the country by Signora Schipa in 1926. Schipa replied he had considered Italy his legal residence, but the government contends that his purchase of a Florida home in 1923 constituted establishment of legal residence in this country.

Bootleggers Feted Leaving for Prison

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 15.—A farewell banquet was tendered here last night to William (Bill) Lias, liquor runner and racketeer, and his two aides, Joe Fragle and Theodore Prosses, who must surrender to Federal Judge W. E. Baker, at Elkins, to be assigned to prison. Lias must serve two years and pay a fine of $10,000 and the others are to serve 18 months and pay $1,000 each.

BANDITS FLEE VIGILANTES

HIGHLAND, Ind., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Three bandits looted the Highland State Bank of $3,000 today and walked out to face a group of vigilantes armed with shotguns. They exchanged fire with the citizens, reached their automobile and fled over the Illinois line, a mile away, closely pursued.

An alarm given by the Rev. W. B. Young, who saw the robbers in the bank, gave the police and officers from Hammond, 10 miles away, time to organize and they arrived only a moment after the trio had shot their way out of town.

Car loads of officers and armed citizens raced out of town in pursuit, following the fugitives through Lancing, Ill.

Cash, Auto Stolen From Pair in Park

Highwaymen last last night robbed Catherine Zugates, of 4816 Hatfield street, of $5.25 and robbed her escort, John Daurora, of 34 Vine street, of $35 and his automobile in Schenley Park.

They were in the automobile parked near the Westinghouse memorial, they told police, when the three men approached them, and forced them to alight from their machine. One of the bandits, they said, was armed. After robbing the couple of their money, the trio drove away in Daurora's machine.

Trace Poison Rum After Woman Dies

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—With one woman dead and two other persons dying allegedly from poison whisky, police today launched a drive against drinkeries to prevent sales of the poison to Buffalo's holiday trade.

The dead woman is Mrs. Eva Funnell, 55, a widow. In an adjoining apartment police found Robert Barnes, 35, and his wife, Margaret, 41, both unconscious. They were reported in serious condition.

LEAVENWORTH GUARDED TO AVERT RIOTS

Armed Keepers on Alert as Convicts Murmur Threats; Aged Fugitive in Hospital

International News Service.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 15.—Beneath the calm, gray surface of prison routine today a murmur of suppressed resentment ran through the ranks of the Federal Penitentiary's 3,000 convicts.

Although the institution's officials maintained complete control of the troublous situation, the vigilance of the guards was sharpened to quell any further rebellious outbreaks such as disturbed the prison yesterday.

In the prison hospital lay Earl Thayer, 65-year-old mail train robber, whose fugitive liberty outlasted that of his younger companions who participated in last Friday's bloody break for freedom. The aged prisoner was battling for life against the ravages of pneumonia caused by the hunger and exposure of his three-day liberation. He was also suffering from the effects of drinking denatured alcohol when he was captured by G. S. Masterson and Ray Dougherty to whom he had tried to sell his rifle for enough money to buy food.

When informed of the fate of his six accomplices, three of whom died by their own hands in a besieged farmhouse, the remaining three being captured and returned after a gun battle, he said:

Meanwhile, the investigation of Friday's break proceeded under a heavy cloak of secrecy. Supervising the inquiry was Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, who came here from Washington with his assistant, A. H. MacCormick.

Bates and MacCormick were within the prison's confines when the din of convicts' shouts and curses filled the cells and workhouses. The outbreak originated in one of the boiler rooms when a crew of 20 inmates suddenly refused to work, loudly complaining about the food. The boiler crew was quickly subdued. All convicts were locked in and all work suspended as heavily-armed guard reinforcements patrolled the tiers.

The disorders spread from the boiler-room to other sections of the huge prison. Violent screams and threats intermittently punctuated the yammering of sullen convicts until the bedlam finally exhausted itself.

Supt. Bates today announced that Warden Thomas B. White, who was wounded in Friday's outbreak, was "recovering rapidly and, barring setbacks will not lose his arm."

W. VA. DENTIST ON TRIAL AS SLAYER

Andre Charged With Death Of Woman on Auto Ride; Reno Gaiety May Be Aired

RENO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Dr. Carl Pierre Andre, 29, a dentist, was to be called to trial in District Court today for the death of Mrs. Martha Hutchinson, former deputy clerk of Marion County, W. Va., whom he is charged with having killed following a quarrel at Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.'s Lazy Me dude ranch south of Reno.

Unusual interest has been evidenced in the case because much of the testimony is expected to deal with life in Reno's divorce colony.

Thirty witnesses have been subpenaed by prosecution and defense, but it is unlikely any of them will testify before tomorrow, as most of today was expected to be given over to selecting a jury and to opening statements of counsel.

Omar J. Andre, father of the young dentist, arrived here yesterday from Charleston, W. Va., to attend the trial.

Mrs. Hutchinson, a widow, was killed early the evening of September 13 by a fall from Dr. Andre's speeding automobile. District Attorney M. F. Jepson asserts Andre had cause to murder her. The defense will contend her death was accidental.

Both Andre and Mrs. Hutchinson came here from Fairmont, W. Va. Andre had planned to divorce Dorothea Howard Andre and then marry Mrs. Hutchinson. She assertedly financed his trip here, but on coming to Reno herself found Andre's love for her had waned.

RAIDS ON MOOSE NEWS TO DAVIS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—His position as director general of the order was said yesterday by Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, to preclude knowledge on his part of alleged conditions revealed in raids by prohibition agents of several Moose lodges in Pennsylvania.

Asked to comment on newspaper reports of the raids, Davis said:

"There are more than 2,800 lodges in the Loyal Order of Moose and in view of this fact, it is obvious that no one man can be thoroughly familiar with every detail of their activities."

Davis said he has acted in an honorary capacity in the organization since entering public life, 10 years ago, and in addition disclaimed any jurisdiction, "in the affairs of local clubs."

Citing "humanitarian and charitable projects" of the order as his chief concern, Davis added the Moose had spent "more than $10,000,000 in charity work alone, including $250,000 which is being provided in Pennsylvania this year."

PIN REMOVED, BABY HOME

Anna Lois Miller, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Miller, 6383 Ebdy street, was back home today recovering from an operation made necessary after she swallowed an open safety pin.

Physicians at West Penn Hospital, where she was confined for 10 days, were forced to operate after the pin worked its way into the stomach.

Anna Lois last year won two contests, the one sponsored by the Jewish Home for Babies and the Kroger Grocery and Bakery Company.

Abandoned Baby Truck Unclaimed

The truck in which an abandoned 2-month-old infant was found Saturday night remained unclaimed today in a garage where police had towed it. Police say it is owned by Mario Riccotti, of 138 Middle street, Wilmerding. The baby was turned over to Roselia Foundling Asylum. Police said they could not locate Riccotti. The truck was parked in Cliff street when Roxie Long's son, Clarence, 16, found the baby in it.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that caused the rain over the eastern states yesterday is now in the far Northeast. High pressure covers practically all of the interior of the country, with centers over Kentucky, Tennessee and the lower portion of the Rocky Mountains. A low is centered over Manitoba, and there is a southern center in Western Mexico, but they are not producing much cloudiness. There was a marked drop in temperature over the states east of the Mississippi River while over the plains states temperatures are rising. Temperatures are at freezing or below over all except the Middle Atlantic Coast and southern states, while over the Rocky Mountains they are at zero or below.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 8.3 feet. Parkers Landing 9.6. Lock No. 7, 21.4. Lock No. 4, 22.0. Pittsburgh, 21.3. Dam No. 4, 21.8. Dam No. 6, 23.9. Dam No. 10, 25, and Dam No. 12, 26. The highest stage reached at Pittsburgh was 21.5 feet, about midnight. The crest at Wheeling, W. Va., will be about 25 feet on the old Wheeling gage by 6 p. m. today.

Hoover Again Poses For Portrait Painter

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—President Hoover is having another portrait painted, posing before Wayman Adams, of New York, commissioned to make the painting by the National Academy of Design, New York City. CHURCHILL HAS QUIET NIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Winston Churchill, English statesman and writer, was reported improved today at Lenox Hill Hospital from the attack of simple pleurisy that set in after he was injured when hit by an automobile while crossing Fifth avenue.

He spent a peaceful night, doctors said.

Churchill's wife and daughter visited him at the hospital. Hundreds of inquiries were received concerning his condition, including radio telephone calls from England.

Squire Morgan Mum On Reno Divorce

Mrs. Margaret Morgan, justice of the peace of Sewickley, today said the divorce obtained yesterday in Reno by her husband, Stewart McKee Morgan, World War veteran, was a "closed book" and declined to comment.

Her desire for a professional career was given by Morgan's attorney as one of the reasons for their separation.

Morgan said he had provided a trust fund yielding $1,800 yearly for his former wife and son.

Radicals Forestall New Spanish Cabinet

MADRID, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Faced with the refusal of the Radicals, second strongest party in the Cortes, to participate in a cabinet in which Socialists predominate, Premier Manuel Azana today offered to relinquish his efforts to form a Spanish government.

President Niceto Alcala Zamora informed that the Republican alliance formed by the Radicals and the Socialists had been shattered, insisted that Azana continue with his efforts.

LEAD OF LENZ IN BRIDGE WAR SLASHED

Culbertsons Cut Margin To 15 Points by Winning Six Straight Rubbers

Following is a description of last night's play in the contract bridge match between Mrs. Josephine Culbertson and her husband, Ely, and Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, written expressly for International News Service.

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON, World's Greatest Woman Bridge Player. (Copyright, 1931, International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Last night we started our sixth session and thirty-fourth rubber with 4,840 points against us and although Messrs. Lenz and Jacoby are powerful opponents, we were not even worried.

In this match of 150 rubbers, which will determine the respective merits of the Culbertson and the Lenz systems, even a lead of 10,000 points is not particularly serious, for cards, like a mob, have sudden panicky fits.

We started the play with the modest hope of chiseling down our opponents' lead by a couple of thousand points and would have been satisfied had we gained a few hundred—and then we won six straight rubbers, which wiped out the 4,840-point lead and with the help of Mr. Jacoby's set of two on the first hand of the last rubber, gave us plus 845. It was an exciting moment for the newspapermen and exalted kibitzers.

Again I felt a commotion behind the sacred screen, excited whispers sounded almost like a roar and once more my husband ordered the room cleared. The brave old master, Mr. Lenz, cracked a few jokes and I almost wished that they would win a little rubber.

CULBERTSON WARNS

Before the next deal my husband, with his uncanny perception of what is going on in another's mind, scribbled a note which he passed to me. It read:

"Darling, you are wonderful, but a la guerre, comme a la guerre—do not be demoralized by success."

NORTH
(Mr. Lenz)
Hearts—A, J.
Diamonds—K, 9, 8, 6, 5, 4.
Clubs—A.

WEST (Mr. Culbertson)	EAST (Mrs. Culbertson)
Spades—10, 5, 4, 3.	Spades—9, 6, 4, 2.
Hearts—8, 6, 5.	Hearts—K, Q, 9.
Diamonds—A, Q.	Diamonds—J, 10, 3, 2.
Clubs—9, 8.	Clubs—K, Q, 6, 5.

SOUTH
(Mr. Jacoby)
Spades—A, K, 3.
Hearts—10, 7, 2.
Diamonds—7.

The biddling:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 diamond	Double	1 clubs
1 hearts	1 spades	Pass	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	Pass	3 clubs
Pass	Pass	Pass

When this hand came up, our opponents had scored a game and were 60 on their second game. We had a partial score of 90. Mr. Culbertson passed, Mr. Lenz bid a diamond and I doubled. Mr. Jacoby bid two clubs and Mr.

Reed Offers Bill For War Memorial

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Senator Reed introduced a bill yesterday that sought commemoration of a French and Indian War engagement in which George Washington participated.

The bill would have the federal government provide for a memorial tablet at Jumonville Camp, Pa., where Colonial forces under Washington, then a major, and French forces under Jumonville fought on May 28, 1754. The Secretary of War would be authorized to accept donation of an acre of ground and erect a $1,000 tablet.

Earthquakes Cause Panics in Italy

FLORENCE, Italy, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—A series of violent earthquakes threw the entire population of Borgo San Lorenzo into a panic today, although no casualties were reported.

Townspeople rushed to the streets as the temblors shook their homes. The last quake was unusually violent. The disturbances also were felt throughout the entire district of Mugello.

Baby Bridge Expert Spurns Systems, Wants Cards

Whether guests at his mother's home at 5635 Hobart street want to play rummy, "500," fantan, checkers or bridge, it's just a matter of choice with Bertram Levine, 4, who has experimented with the games of grownups since he was just 2.

Bertram, member of Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Klub, said today, however, while playing honeymoon bridge with his mother, Mrs. Irving Levine, that he would much rather play bridge. Asked about his system, Bertram said:

"I don't know much about any system. We play auction and when I get the cards I'm all right. It's just the idea of getting the right cards."

His mother, interested in his explanation, trumped her own trick. Bertram interrupted her play with:

Threat of a flood had passed today as the rivers were slowly receding after reaching 21.5 feet at the Point around midnight, 3.5 feet below the flood mark.

A few partly submersed automobiles were seen along the wharves this morning as the waters began falling. No damage of consequence was reported.

Fair and warmer weather was predicted for tomorrow by Forecaster W. S. Brown. Clear skies prevailed over virtually the entire country. The official low temperature overnight was 30 degrees. Tonight's minimum will be about the same.

Associated Press.

Streams overflowed their banks in Southern Ohio, tornadic winds and heavy rain claimed six lives in Southwestern Arkansas and Northern Louisiana, snow covered outling northern sections of Los Angeles and San Fernando Valley, and winds of gale force whistled up and down the Atlantic Coast.

Young Plan Probers to Ask More Delay for Germany; Britain to Seek Revision drafted by the "Big Three" of the committee, Layton, Walter W. Stewart, American representative, and Prof. Rist, in accord with Dr. Melchior.

A majority of the committee favored cancellation of reparations payments, but in view of the fact that the Young Plan denies the right to recommend measures outside the plan itself, the committee was said to be practically certain to bow to strict adherence to this provision.

If anything beyond this limit is admitted in the report it was said, it will be by implication only.

Britain to Seek Revision After Young Plan Report

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—The British government intends to open the question of revision of war debts and reparations shortly after the Young Plan Advisory Committee now meeting at Basel, Switzerland, reports on Germany's capacity to pay.

The exact manner in which Great Britain will address itself to the United States and other powers has not been determined. But Great Britain will ask what she considers "an equitable readjustment," fully realizing that her move will encounter bitter opposition in the United States.

This information was received from an authoritative source at the same time that it was disclosed the Treasury fully intended paying to the United States today the $94,000,000 installment due on the British war debt, despite assurances from Washington such payment was unnecessary pending congressional approval of the Hoover debt moratorium.

The Treasury intended to make this payment as "a gesture of good faith" and to maintain British "honor and credit." Actually the step was intended to influence American opinion in favor of debt revision by demonstrating Britain's integrity and maintaining a semblance of her willingness to pay under any conditions.

Battle for Moratorium Approval On in House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—The administration's battle for prompt ratification of the one-year moratorium on foreign debts opened before the House Ways and Means Committee today with little prospect of final action before January.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills was prepared to tell the committee that the postponement of inter-government debts and the moratorium on German reparations already had stabilized a tottering economic structure in Central Europe.

Two militant members of Congress—Representatives McFadden (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Banking Committee in the last session, and Rankin (Dem.), of Mississippi—were to appear in opposition.

Both will protest against the program of Chairman Collier (Dem.), of Mississippi, to rush ratification of the moratorium through the House after committee hearings lasting but a day and a half.

intelligently upon the nominations of the delegates the President proposes to send to the conference.

Unless the Senate gets this correspondence NOW, the chances are it will NOT GET IT AT ALL.

The Senate ought to know THAT from the fact that Mr. Hoover REFUSED to give to the Committee on Foreign Relations some of the most important exchanges leading up to the London naval conference.

And the Senate can bear witness to the further fact that had the American delegation to the London conference been publicly instructed to make the surrenders which it did make in order to bring back a treaty, that treaty would not have been ratified by the Senate. PUBLIC SENTIMENT IN THIS COUNTRY WOULD HAVE PREVENTED RATIFICATION.

There is good American precedent for the President's publishing in full his instructions to the American delegation to the Geneva conference before the delegation leaves American shores.

In the early days of the republic when Benjamin Franklin was sent to France, his instructions were made public. That precedent should be followed now. Congress should insist upon it and the President should be required to adhere to it.

BRITON URGES VOIDING DEBTS

longer so. They arouse all the usual opposition yet cannot kindle that normal enthusiasm of the people which all representative legislatures must obey.

"President Hoover, in his message last week to an unfriendly Congress, foreshadowed an unavoidable extension of his year's moratorium for Germany. But, like France—though for very different reasons—he seems to maintain that the principle of war debts, and therefore of reparations, must be indefinitely continued.

"We well understand this at the present initial stage as negotiating for position which is not to be prematurely surrendered by any wise American statesman dealing with European conditions as they are. Yet President Hoover's only way to imperishable honor and fame in American history and world history leads toward his appeal to America to stand for the total removal from 'the business and bosoms' of mankind the war debts and war reparations together.

"Even the political effect in the United States might be immediately triumphant. If not, then the world's deliverance would be forever connected with the President's name."

After some other discussion, Garvin continues:

"In the midst of confusion and recrimination between the American parties and sections today, no more can be confidently expected than that the Hoover moratorium will be prolonged for another year. But even that would improve the atmosphere and give time for thought to mature on the larger question.

"Will the President suggest a historic offer in connection with the disarmament conference? This kind of a suggestion would seem to be the most likely way and indeed the only way for advancing memorably the cause he has most at heart and of saving the conference from nullity."

Another Cab Driver Injured By Brick

Another brick was hurled in the many months-old strike of taxicab drivers early today, and Joseph D. Haley, 27, of 1507 Haberman avenue, driver of a Yellow cab, was treated at Mercy Hospital for lacerations to his forehead. The attack occurred in Mt. Oliver.

IF coffee steals your sleep—upsets your digestion—or frays your nerves—remember this: It's not coffee, but the caffein in coffee that does the harm.

Remove caffein—and you've removed the only reason why you cannot enjoy coffee's full, rich flavor and steaming fragrance.

So stop making a martyr of yourself. Drink Sanka Coffee—real coffee that has 97% of the caffein removed. You can enjoy Sanka Coffee—without fear.

For proof—make the night-test. Drink your first cup of Sanka Coffee at night. Next morning you'll know that here, at last, is a delicious coffee you can enjoy—without regret!

And how you will enjoy Sanka Coffee! It's a blend of choice Central and South American coffees—tempting in fragrance—rich and satisfying in flavor. Sold, ground or in the bean, vacuum-sealed, with the guarantee of absolute satisfaction—or your money back.

Once again, don't make a martyr of yourself by giving up coffee. Start enjoying Sanka Coffee this very day!

LENZ, JACOBY LEAD CUT TO 15 POINTS

Culbertson two hearts. Mr. Lenz then bid two spades, which I passed and which Mr. Jacoby passed, but Ely skated over thin ice and bid three hearts.

POOR DEFENSE

Mr. Jacoby, however, bid three spades and all passed. I opened with the king of hearts. Upon analysis I should have perhaps opened a trump, but Ely could have saved the situation. Mr. Lenz won with the ace and returned his knave, which I won with the queen. This established the ten of hearts in the dummy on which I felt Mr. Lenz had very cleverly planned to get a discard.

Fearing that he intended to get rid of a losing club, I led a club instead of a trump. This Mr. Lenz took with his singleton ace and led a low diamond, which I could have taken with my ten spot. Mr. Culbertson, however, overtook my ten spot with his queen, for some mysterious reason. He also failed to lead a trump, but returned a club.

I made a mental note and added this hand to my stock of ammunition, to use when Ely presents his "crime sheet," in which he inscribes all of my errors of bidding and play and a few of his.

All factors being equal, the odds against winning five straight rubbers are 31 to 1. In the sixth rubber we lost the rubber premium but our penalty points were so large that technically we won the rubber by more than 300 points. We then lost the seventh and last rubber, which gave our opponents a lead of 15 points, after a total play of 40 rubbers, a remarkable result.

HONORS NEARLY EVEN

The most remarkable feature of last night's session was that honor cards broke almost even. Opponents led us with aces, while we led with kings. The gods of distribution, however, favored us and the types of hands fitted in perfectly with our approach-forcing system.

Our opponents made, as a rule, the most of their hands by clever play and aggressive defensive bidding.

On the first deal of rubber 38 we could have set our opponents' five diamond contract by one trick, or at most two tricks, which doubled would have given us only 100 or 200 points. I felt that, in view of the bidding, we had a fine chance for game and that the game was worth more than the penalty. After my partner's penalty double, therefore, I bid five spades. The hand follows:

Dealer, West. Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH (Mr. Lenz)
Spades—8-3-2.
Hearts—J-10-9.
Diamonds—J-9-5-3-2.
Clubs—A-4.

WEST (Mr. Culbertson)	EAST (Mrs. Culbertson)
Spades—K-6-5.	Spades—A-Q-J-10-7-4
Hearts—A-8-6.	Hearts—7-4-2.
Diamonds—A-6.	Diamonds—4.
Clubs—Q-J-10-9-8.	Clubs—K-6-3.

SOUTH (Mr. Jacoby)
Spades—9.
Hearts—K-Q-5-3.
Diamonds—K-Q-10-8-7.
Clubs—7-5-2.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 diamonds	1 club	Pass	1 spade
3 diamonds	3 spades	3 diamonds	4 spades
Pass	Double	Pass	5 spades
	Pass	Pass

Had Mr. Jacoby chosen the king of diamonds as his opening lead, instead of the heart king, we would have made our game.

KIBITZERS BLAMED

In the following hand, Ely made a very subtle bid but was blamed by Kibitzers who were too obvious:

NORTH (Mr. Lenz)
S—K-J-7-6-2.
H—4.
D—4-2.
C—A-K-10-7-2.

WEST (Mr. Culbertson)	EAST (Mrs. Culbertson)
S—Q.	S—10-9-8-5-4-3.
H—K-Q-J-7-5.	H—None.
D—K-8-7-6-5-3.	D—A-9.
C—5.	C—Q-J-9-8-6.

S—A.
H—A-10-9-8-6-3-2.
D—Q-J-10.
C—4-3.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 hearts	2 diamonds	Pass	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	4 diamonds
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opponents were vulnerable and the question was asked:

"Why didn't Mr. Culbertson double Mr. Jacoby's four heart bid? Was he afraid of spades?"

It seemed almost certain that I had all the spades. My husband quite properly abstained from doubling. Not because he feared that opponents might bid four spades, but because he feared that I might leave in his double of four hearts and having obviously nothing but distributional values, would bid five diamonds.

Our opponents, especially Mr. Lenz, played at least as fine a game, if not better, under adversity, than we did at previous sessions.

The Good Old-Fashioned Christmas Spirit

fills the air here, and extends its contagious cheeriness and good will to the daily multiplying Christmas crowds. But there is nothing old-fashioned about the great stocks of lovely and distinctive gift suggestions here, from every part of the world, adding to the fame of Horne's for nice things. And, especially is there nothing old-fashioned about the extremely popular prices, here this season—most agreeably gauged to present pocketbook limitations.

Another 800 of Those Lovely

Flannel Robes

A sell-out each time we've advertised them! They're such unusual values at this low price—and such welcome gifts—that their popularity is more than justified.

Plain-color robes in good-looking two-tone combinations of green, blue, rose and violet—particularly well-tailored of excellent all-wool flannels—with double collars and fringed self belts. Small, medium and large sizes.

Glove-Silk Pajamas

The pajamas girls like to flaunt at dormitory parties . . . soft, "slinky" glove silk, in clinging one-piece styles with wide, full trousers . . . in lovely two and three-tone effects. Choose them in green, rose, orchid or blue $3.95

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Baby Dresses and Creepers

Their Extraordinary Value Will Be Apparent on Sight

$1.45

Infants' dresses of the sheerest white nainsook, beautifully hand-embroidered at top and bottom.

. . . Infants' Shop, Third Floor . . .

Boys' High Boots

$3.95

The kind of boots that are always sold at a higher price . . . Sturdy boots that come to within a few inches of a boy's knees. Of heavy elk-skin, with long-wearing Goodyear soles — and suede tongues that keep out snow and slush. Black and brown —in sizes 1 to 6.

. . . Horne's, Third Floor . . .

Louise Andre Dusting Powder

This fragrant dusting powder has long been considered one of the most delightful accessories on a smart dressing table!

This Christmas it comes in a gay new box, round—covered with chintz paper in a sprightly floral design, and topped with a perky green or lavender bow. Choose it for gifts —and for prizes at Christmas bridge parties.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Cretonne-Boxed Stationery

The box is padded, and covered with cretonne. Right now it holds 24 folded sheets of paper, 24 gilt-edge correspondence cards, and 48 envelopes . . . and long after you've given it, and the paper is used—it will hold hosiery, or gloves, or handkerchiefs—and be a worth while gift for years! $1.00.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Make-Up Boxes

You'll know they are very new—for, while the boxes themselves are of enameled wood—they are encased in shining non-tarnishable metal —which makes a very stunning modern effect!

On the lids are delicate, glass-covered prints. Three roomy compartments inside, and a large clear mirror on the hinged lid. $1.00.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Children's Hosiery

Popular ¾ length socks of excellent quality lisles—in plain colors with gay-patterned cuffs, and in a variety of all-over designs.

Neutral colors, heathery mixtures, diamond patterns, plaids. Sizes 6 to 9½, for children from 2 to 15 years. 5 pairs, $1.00.

. . . Horne's, Third Floor . . .

Mesh Hosiery

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Dew Drop Crystals

The novel cut of these crystals lends a sparkle to every costume! Hand-cut, in lantern or round designs—they are strung on choker length chromium chains, to make them long-lived! $1.00.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Turkish Towel Bath Sets

Two bath towels and two wash cloths of heavy turkish toweling . . . in reversible design . . . neatly packaged in cellophane — a showy and practical gift. These sets are available in rose, lavender, green, gold or blue. $1.00.

. . . Horne's, Fourth Floor . . .

A Real Plant You Can Mail

A gaily wrapped package that in three weeks will become a full-grown lily of the valley —what a gift to send to a sick friend or someone far away at Christmas. When exposed to the light and heat, the plant blooms without any watering or care. Mailing cartons come with the plants. $1.00.

. . . Horne's, Fifth Floor . . .

Candles

All colors — and especially red, green and white, so much in demand during the holidays. These are 10-inch candles—the wanted size for buffet and table use. $1.00 dozen.

. . . Horne's, Fifth Floor . . .

Think of the Fun You'll ALL Have If You Give the Boy a

Pool Table

$3.95

He'll be thoroughly delighted with it himself . . . he'll be the envy of his whole "Gang" . . . and he probably won't see through the fact that you're really expecting to have considerable fun with it, yourself!

Tables are 26 inches high, with 22½x43-inch felt-covered tops . . . and they're built to stand plenty of use. Complete with cues, balls, and frame.

8-Tube Radiotrope Superheterodyne

A Special Christmas Value!

$55

This set has everything the average family wants in a good radio — the super-selectivity of modern superheterodyne, tone of exceptional beauty and realism, sensitivity that brings in weak signals with full, rounded volume, and all the new improvements that really matter.

All These Features—for $55 Complete!

8 Tubes, including the new Pentode and Multi-Mu Tubes.

Automatic Volume Control.

Full-Vision Dial.

Tone Blender.

40-inch Walnut Veneer Cabinet.

Convenient Payments Arranged

. . . Horne's, Radios, Balcony . . .

Canary Birds

Lusty Voiced Rollers

$2.95

A fresh, new shipment of healthy male birds . . . from the Hartz mountains, where the best singers of the bird world receive their early training.

These birds already know the trills and notes that will make a joyful song in your home at Christmas. All guaranteed singers. Choppers, $3.95.

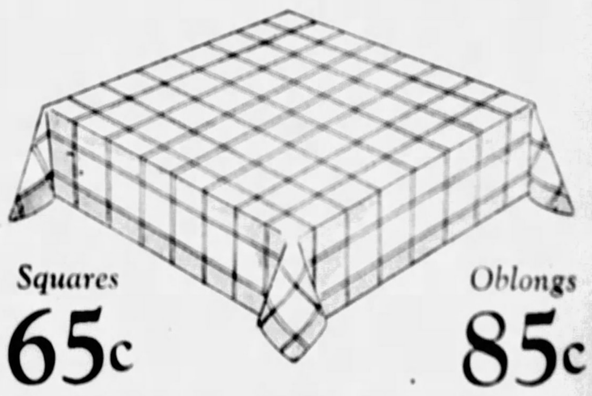
For the Bird's Home . . .

Bird Cage and Stand, $9.95

A special price for this indoor bird house—a Hendryx made cage with drawer bottom. The cage is completely equipped with perches and dishes . . . and may be chosen in green, red or black enamel with brass decorations.

. . . Horne's, Fifth Floor . . .

Linen Luncheon and Breakfast Cloths



Squares 65c

Oblongs 85c

Pretty enough for the table Christmas morning are these linen crash cloths with attractively colored borders. We imported them ourselves, hence the unusually low price. Boxed with a half-dozen or a dozen napkins to match they make a warmly received gift.

Napkins, $1.00 Dozen

. . . Horne's, Fourth Floor . . .

32-Pc. Porcelain Ware Breakfast Sets

$3.95

This combination of dishes is called a breakfast set . . . but it is just as appropriate for luncheon or family dinner.

Plates, cups, saucers, bread-and-butter plates and dessert saucers for six . . . and vegetable dish and platter are the pieces in the set. The design is a floral pattern done in beautiful colors.

Our "noble experiment" is a costly experiment.

If that be so, President Hoover possesses interesting information. It includes methods of bears circulating rumors to injure the credit and standing of property, doing everything to depress the public mind, increase pessimism and injure the country.

The whole picture will interest the President considerably.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE says it will now adopt a policy of frankness and tell us all about short sales.

It is safe to predict that Congress will be equally frank and tell the stock exchange what it thinks about gambling on the short side, especially in such times as these.

THE COUNTRY regrets the accident to Winston Churchill, brilliant English statesman, now in New York. Unfortunately, not observing perhaps not understanding the meaning of our traffic lights, he was struck by a taxicab and his condition worries physicians.

With typical fairness and good nature he exonerated the taxicab driver from blame.

All Americans will wish for him a speedy recovery, and hope that he will continue his course of lectures. He is a Britisher who has something to say and knows how to say it.

MR. HITLER, the German pseudo-Fascist, proposes to kill off or otherwise dispose of the Jews in Germany, sterilize those of non-Nordic blood, and do other interesting things.

The venerable Hindenburg, who has no queer plans but considerable character, proposes to put Mr. Hitler in jail.

THE SUGAR MEN of Paris are seeking a way to help their industry. Raw sugar now sells at $1.11 per hundred pounds. The proposition is to cut down production, especially in Java.

A better plan, if it were possible, would be to enable the people of the earth to consume the sugar in their cake, coffee, tea, good plain candy for children, and above all in preserving fruits that now go to waste.

CONGRESS WILL vote gladly, good times or bad times, the $60,000,000 that President Hoover wants to help the states building good roads, and the $20,000,000 for building. More than 300,000 men have been working on roads for the past year, and the government has recently constructed, in cooperation with the states, 11,000 miles of excellent roads.

These will be a great blessing to this country when it recovers from its present childish fright, and gets back to business.

Detective Claims 'Clue' to Powers

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Chief of Police Clarence Duckworth today received a telegram from J. G. Connell, private detective of Chinock, Alberta, Canada, asking if there was a reward for Harry F. Powers. Connell said he had trace of Powers.

Powers is in jail here, having been convicted of the killing of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke and is sentenced to hang March 18. Powers was tried last week.

Greentree to Hear Tunnel Project Talk

H. H. Temple, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, will speak on the Wabash bridge and tunnel project at a meeting of the Greentree Advancement League in the Greentree Municipal Building Thursday night. Following the address there will be a discussion of unemployment relief in the borough.

Christmas Cheer For Invalid Vets

Christmas cheer will be carried to the United States Marine and Veterans' Hospitals here by a committee of the Veterans' Hospital Committee of Allegheny County, which will begin placing decorations this week. A final appeal is being made for funds to carry on the work. Among features of their program will be distribution of 600 boxes for bed-ridden veterans in local hospitals.

France Acts to Curb Unemployed Aliens

PARIS, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—All Americans and other foreigners in Paris are being summoned to police stations, where their papers are closely scrutinized.

While the authorities insist their check is a normal proceeding, they do not deny that, owing to growing unemployment, they are looking for foreign workers without proper contracts with a view to their elimination from the labor market.

Dr. Le Bon, Noted Psychologist, Dies

PARIS, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Dr. Gustave Le Bon, sociologist and philosopher, widely known for his knowledge of the psychology of crowds, died today at Marne-La-Coquette, near here, at the age of 91.

Dr. Le Bon, whose works have been used as texts on physchology throughout the world, was professor of psychology and allied sciences at the University of Paris.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

HOPE FOR GOOD TIMES VOICED BY JOHN D.

By ROBERT L. FALCONNIER

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Dec. 15.—"A Happy Christmas to Everybody."

John D. Rockefeller's Yuletide greeting to the American people was expressed in an interview given to Universal Service exclusively here by the 93-year-old oil magnate and philanthropist.

It was the first real interview Rockefeller has granted for years and it was filled with human sympathy—especially sympathy for the unemployed.

Rockefeller talked of the things that are worrying the people of this country. He discussed them while waiting for a golf partner, who failed to show up. He golfed alone.

A note of sadness in his voice, he said:

"These are troublesome times, with plenty of want and suffering. It is my ardent wish that it ends soon. I don't know how it will end, though. All I hope is that things get better so that our people can get back into a happy state again."

SEES BRIGHTER DAYS

At this point Mr. Rockefeller expressed the belief that conditions might turn brighter almost any time, although he did not say on what he based such a faith.

Smiles wreathed his face when the matter of what he had done through his institutional work was brought up. He said this work had brought real sunshine into his life and expressed the wish that he could have done more. He said:

"Hardly a day passes in which I do not get a letter from someone who has been helped in this way and it makes my heart glad."

INTERESTED IN OTHERS

In reply to questioning about the Yuletide season, he said:

"Yes, I think I will have a happy Christmas, but I am more interested in the other folk. I suppose this will be a limited Christmas for many, but I certainly wish the best possible Yuletide for everyone."

He continued:

"Newspaper work must be a very wonderful profession. You are to be congratulated for choosing such a career. Be frugal, save, and always be kind to and thoughtful of others."

Of the future his comment was:

2 SHOPS BURN IN WILMERDING

A barber shop, a shoe rebuilding concern and two unoccupied storerooms were swept by flames last night when a fire raged through a one-story frame building in Westinghouse avenue, Wilmerding, and threatened an adjoining four-story office building.

Combined forces of the Wilmerding and Westinghouse Airbrake fire departments combated the flames for nearly three hours, and succeeded in keeping them away from buildings occupied by the Westinghouse Home Building Company. The loss was estimated at several thousand dollars.

H. M. Miller, chief of the Airbrake department, said the fire started in an unknown manner in rear of the Modern Shoe Rebuilding Company and spread rapidly through Quadbotti's barber shop and the two adjoining empty storerooms.

Aged Sturgeon Man Hit By Auto, Dies

Celestine Lemal, 70, of Sturgeon, Pa., died in Allegheny General Hospital early today of injuries suffered Sunday when struck by an automobile in old Noblestown road. John W. Gillis, of Burgettstown, alleged driver of the automobile, will be brought before the Coroner to post bond.

Hiring of 2 Men Irks Budget Cutters

Two new elevator operators have been appointed to posts recently vacated in the City-County Building. It is understood that these appointments were made in the Bureau of City Property after consultation with the Mayor's office.

The naming of the men has caused discussion among the members of Council who have been struggling with the 1932 budget. It is pointed out that elevator operators could have been brought from the Diamond Market, which is already overmanned, according to surveys made by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board and the Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers Association.

2 Boys Make Long Trip Here on $7

West Homestead police last night committed Charles Drake, 14, and his brother, Edwin, 11, to the care of their mother, Mrs. Marie Drake, of 126 North Whitfield street, East Liberty, while awaiting word from Grand Rapids (Mich.) police.

Motorcycle Patrolman Harold Russell arrested the two boys in Eighth avenue, West Homestead, yesterday afternoon. Police said the boys, who live with their father in Grand Rapids, wanted to visit their mother here. Charles said they had left home with $7.

M. A. MUSMANNO KEEPS UP FIGHT FOR U. S. LOAN

Insists Assembly Act on Petition Urging Congress To Vote Bonds for Works

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—Determined to force action on his resolution that the General Assembly petition Congress to approve the $5,000,000,000 prosperity bond issue suggested by William R. Hearst, Representative M. A. Musmanno, of Allegheny County, today was prepared to refer it to the Federal Relations Committee of the House.

The House last night, 115 to 77, refused to recall the resolution from the Rules Committee for action on the floor.

Defeat of the resolution followed the contention of Representative W. S. Haws, of Philadelphia, that under the rules of the House it is not permitted to discuss the merit of a resolution.

JOBLESS STARVING

In answer to the Philadelphian, Musmanno said:

"Is it any wonder that nothing is accomplished? You come here Monday after Monday and accomplish what? You meet for 40 or 45 minutes and then adjourn, and in the meantime the unemployed of the state are starving."

He continued:

"The American people are living today in as much fear as they were during the World War. Only the Federal government has the power to declare war, and it is time now to declare war on the depression.

"The military cost of the World War was $24,000,000,000; we loaned foreign governments $11,000,000,000.

BILLIONS FOR WAR

"If we can spend $35,000,000,000 for a war to save democracy, we ought to be willing to spend $5,000,000,0000, to save the people.

"Unemployment is something that affects the entire population of America, and we cannot permanently cure it in Pennsylvania unless the rest of the country is cured at the same time. Every state must, of course, do its part, but it must do it in co-operation with other states, and the central government must take command. Only the central government has the power properly and adequately to meet this emergency.

"We have seen how with all the most laudable intentions the Governor has called us into extraordinary session to do something about the unemployment situation, and what has been done? Let every legislator search his heart and determine if he is satisfied with the results obtained. I dare say that not a single representative is entirely content. He cannot be.

URGES ACTION

"One of the members of the rules committee opposing the release of my resolution said he desired the committee should wait until a program is formulated. How long must we wait? We are now entering the sixth week of a session that was to have lasted only four weeks. When that program is formulated, if it ever is, we will pass on it.

"The depression is a national problem—even an international one. Let us not blind our eyes to the facts. We can give partial temporary relief through the distribution of funds, and I certainly hope that that is done, but that is not curing the disease, that is not readjusting conditions that are horribly out of joint, that is not normalizing things, that is not driving out the enemy.

"The fact of the matter is, America today is living under conditions comparable to those of a state conquered by a foreign army."

Coxey, Wife File Damage Suit Here

Jacob S. Coxey, Sr., and his wife, Mrs. Henrietta Coxey, of Massillon, O., filed a suit for $80,000 damages in Federal Court, against Harry M. Miller, of Mercer, Pa., the action growing out of an automobile collision. Mrs. Coxey seeks $75,000 damages and her husband $5,000.

The bill of complaint alleges that Mrs. Coxey was injured when a machine in which she was a passenger was struck by an automobile driven by the defendant, at the corner of Home and Wood streets, Youngstown, O., April 4. Miller is charged with negligence and carelessness.

17th Ward Elects Reilly Chairman

Seventeenth Ward Republican leaders were absent last night when voters elected P. J. Reilly as ward chairman, succeeding the late Joseph G. Armstrong. The meeting, held in Thirteenth Street Turner Hall, was attended by about 73 of the 92 members of the Republican organization.

Republican leaders, including State Senator Joseph G. Armstrong, son of the former Commissioner; Dr. James P. Kerr, controller, and John P. Kearcher were not present. Reilly, the chairman-elect, has been active in Republican affairs in the South Side for many years.

G. A. R. Post Head, Hit by Auto, Dies

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A. Judson Pugh, 88, commander of Harrisburg Post 58, G. A. R., died yesterday from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile. Pugh was elected to the commandership of the local G. A. R. Post last June.

Postpone Action Against Treasurer

BRADFORD, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The grand jury yesterday postponed until the February term of court its action in the case of Webster G. Drew, former City Treasurer.

Drew, charged with embezzling nearly $90,000 in city funds, waived preliminary hearing Saturday and was freed on $20,000 bail. He also is accused of embezzling $122,000 of school funds.

North Side Store Looted by Burglars

When Howard Pfeiffer, manager, opened the Kroger store at 1202 Federal street today he discovered that robbers had taken $10 in cash and a small quantity of merchandise.

Employe Killed In Fall at Dam

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 14—Walter Rose, 27, married, Centerville, Pa., was accidentally killed yesterday in a fall of 25 feet from a concrete car while working on new subsidiary dam being built in Bedford County, Pa., for the city of Cumberland.

Death Takes Child Of Screen Actor

MINE CRUELTY BRINGS FINES

With three prosecutions resulting so far, agents for the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society are continuing their inspection of coal mines in the county to verify complaints that horses and mules are being treated cruelly. Numerous complaints have been received, according to E. M. Smith, chief agent, that horses suffering from lameness and sore shoulders are being caused unnecessary pain by hard labor.

Mike Chess and John Vanzneo, employes of the Peters Creek Coal Company, at Piney Creek, were fined $10 and costs each after they pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace John O'Rourke, of Broughton, and Edward Flinick, of the National Mining Company, at before Justice of the Peace Philip Morgan, was given a similar fine Hillen, of Bridgeville.

SEAL PAYMENT SPEED URGED

Appeal was made today to all persons receiving Christmas Seals mailed from the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh to return their checks as soon as possible to assist the workers in keeping records up to date.

Chairman John F. Casey cited that, while there are tardy cases, the indication is that the seal sale will be a success. In appealing for purchase of the seals, Casey explained that persons who received no allotments by mail can order them from the league headquarters, Bedford avenue and Wandless street, or purchase them from booths established in prominent locations throughout the city.

WOMEN SPARED BY BEEBE PLEA

Thanks to Police Inspector Albert Beebe, six women arrested in a raid on Patsy Colangelo's Crown Hotel in Wylie avenue were free today, having been granted a second hearing in Morals Court.

Beebe asked Magistrate Thomas D. Jones for the second hearing. At first the women had been sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse as vagrants. Beebe testified about their activities. Then he explained the charge should be changed and the women were arraigned again, fined $50 and allowed to walk out.

It was not brought out who had asked Beebe to request a second hearing.

Pullman Bookings For Florida Heavy

Pittsburgh's first through sleeping cars to Florida for the present winter season were 80 per cent booked 24 hours ahead of tonight's inaugural starting time, according to R. M. Flocker, passenger traffic manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Cars go out tonight on the first through trip on the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Statesman," via Washington. Advance reservations are running as heavy as this time last year, Flocker said.

DRIVE FOR HOME FUNDS PUSHED

The eighteenth annual membership drive of the Parting of the Ways Home, 216 East Stockton avenue, North Side, is under way, the fund committee announced today. Receiving no state or municipal aid, funds to carry on the work of the home are realized only from its membership drive. Any contributor automatically becomes a member.

More than 15,000 former prisoners have been cared for by the home since it was established 18 years ago, officials said. Of this number, 80 per cent, according to home records, have made good. All assistance, including food, lodging and clothing until the former prisoner obtains employment, is given free of charge. Only those exhibiting prison discharge papers are received in the home.

Baptized in Same Dress Father Wore

The same dress that his father wore when he was baptized, 27 years ago, was worn by James Abraham, 2 months old, who was baptized in his home, 341 Hawkins avenue, Clairton, by the Rev. John Koury, of the Greek Orthodox Church of Monessen. The father is a city employe of Clairton.

Street Signs Found In Student's Room

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Police reported today that they had "raided" a room occupied by Edward J. Williams, Chester, W. Va., a student at West Virginia University, and that they had recovered two street signs and a torch used as a night signal on street construction jobs.

Dry Agents Seize Moonshine Truck

A truck and 13 five-gallon cans of moonshine whisky were seized at 7 o'clock this morning on Woodland avenue, North Side, by prohibition agents. Adolph Marino, 26, alleged driver of the truck, was arrested. He will be arraigned before the United States Commissioner.

NEW DRAMA -:- Professional Players' Presentation Here -:- TURN TO TUNES -:- Movies to Go Musical Again in 1932

By GEORGE SEIBEL

How easy it would be to poke fun at "The House Beautiful" as a play, if it were a play, as Channing Pollock has called it—but it would be difficult to stick any label on the performance at the Alvin Theater last night. It might be described as one-third "Everyman," one-third "Pilgrim's Progress" and one-third Henry Ward Beecher. It is a sermon mixed with an allegory and presented as a series of tableaux. Somewhere in the wings hover the gentle ghosts of Little Nell and Tiny Tim, and occasionally we hear the accents of Oliver Optic and Horatio Alger. Some of the acting is so amateurish that you would think this was the Little Theater of West Hills, N. J., where the 29 years of the drama are ticked off by an audible Seth Thomas clock.

George Seibel

Now we all admired Henry Ward Beecher, and we all used to be afraid of Giant Despair in Bunyan's long hike, and there is deep truth in the old mystery play of "Everyman." But somehow they do not fuse with real estate schemes, and oil bonds, and zoning laws, and automobile accidents, and radio jazz. And while there are serpents in Channing Pollock's Jersey paradise, they are such amateurish serpents that they couldn't dispose of an apple a day to keep the sheriff away.

There is no doubt that the ethics of this drama are absolutely pure and undefiled, even though the hero does open two bottles of home-made wine to celebrate his election as mayor. We hear in the first act that "honesty is the best policy" and that "woman's place is in the home." We won't dispute it.

BUT DOUBT CREEPS IN

In spite of all our faith, some doubts creep in. For instance when we see a magnificent student lamp which would have cost 25 of Uncle Samuel's pesetas in the days of "Godey's Ladies' Book," and we hear that the young couple got that lamp for cigaret coupons we are aghast at the number of cigarets they must have smoked. And as we witness an election where from minute to minute each side knows how many votes they are ahead or behind, and the hero even knows that 21 wops are coming on the next train to vote for the villain, we wonder at the guileless democracy of New Jersey.

They have a zoning law there. It has been in operation for 27 years—and the hero can become rich if he will help to repeal it—but, glory to Sir Galahad, the zoning law still stands.

Sir Galahad in shining armor makes his appearance every now and then in a near-stage tableau, and in the third act the spirit of the hero makes a brief appearance in the shadows to speak to his son with the voice of conscience.

It all savored very much of the old Christmas pantomime in which the good fairy smote the bad dragon with a candy cane upon his solar plexus.

We were all on the side of the good fairy, but we knew the bad dragon was a harmless insect.

LIFE OF PLAIN MAN

Channing Pollock has not hidden his purpose under a bushel—he has set about to make drama of the life of a plain man who is a failure in the eye of the world. He rather weakens the force of his own faith by having the plain man's son cash in on the real estate after the plain man has gone to his reward in a better place than New Jersey. Besides the evils that afflict the plain man are as inexplicable as the boils of Job. Why should his son be hurt by an automobile, even though poetic justice might let the jazz who sneered at Sir Galahad lose her own husband?

We approve the moral, but we don't believe the tale. If this be life in New Jersey, no wonder the mosquitoes run amuck. We approve the sentiment, but too often it gushes over into sentimentality. And we knew as soon as the successful son had become the father of a seven-pound baby boy that the heroine was going to ascend through a shining gate into Sir Galahad's glittering embrace. Then we suddenly remembered that we had seen that heroine before—she was Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" grown up like Topsy.

To name the actors, 10 or 11 of them, who present this Jersey version of Everyman, is hardly necessary. Though they have sincere moments, not one of them does distinguished work. That is not their fault. The House Beautiful" is not a drama. It is an interesting allegorical sermon in tableaux vivants with three curtains. And nobody slept.

Fannie Hurst Finishes Movie Story

The long-awaited new story by Fannie Hurst, "Symphony of Six Million," is finished and down on the Hollywood calendar for production the first week in January. Gregory La Cava will direct.

Anne Austin is one of the featured performers with the Ted Shawn Dancers, who will appear in Syria Mosque Saturday night.

Talkie Town Scoreless For Week

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

(Copyright, 1931, by International News Service.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.—The past week has been an exceptionally quiet one in the movie colony. There have been no elopements, no divorces and no marriages, which gives this picture village a clean score of no runs, no hits and no errors.

Things have been so slow that even Mary Nolan was only sued a couple of times.

This was very thoughtful of Miss Nolan, she probably wanted to give the sheriff's a chance to do their Christmas shopping.

As a rule, she's in the courtroom so often that the city is thinking seriously of painting her name on the door.

She's even receiving fan mail at the marshal's office.

Hollywood doesn't seem like Hollywood unless there are a couple of big film weddings going on. Of course, the stars can't get married just to please the tourists, but that's better than no reason at all.

Even betrothals are falling off. One fellow got sore last week and called in three solitaires.

FROM FINGER TO FINGER

Film folks are fickle, and the way that engagement rings are leaping from finger to finger lately you'd think that the swains were using warts instead of diamonds.

The sweet nothings that they whisper in each other's ears soon turn sour. But it's Cupid's fault; he's shooting couples with poisoned arrows.

A few romances, however, are weathering the test of time. Roscoe Arbuckle and Addie McPhail insist that they will be married in the spring. They probably know what they're doing, but that seems like a funny place to hold a wedding.

WEDS TWO MEN

Miss McPhail is a very lucky girl. Arbuckle will make an all around husband, and when she marries him she will be getting two of the finest men in the world.

Ernst Lubitsch and Ona Munson are also madly in love and are looking forward to an early marriage. Ernst is so crazy about Ona that even the doctors in Oregon and Washington are picking up his heart-beats on their stethoscopes.

Miss Munson recently flew out here from New York just to see her fiance for a couple of days. Eddie Buzzell, ex-husband of Ona, says that Lubitsch should feel flattered, because when she was married to him (Buzzell), she wouldn't even come out on the front porch to see him.

And that the only trouble with Cupid's darts is that they hurt more coming out.

Star Talent to Appear In Comedy Film

Edna May Oliver, Robert Woolsey and Rosco Ates will be headlined in a second all-star feature comedy, titled "Hold 'Em Jail." At least six other star comedians will be added to the cast before the picture goes into production late in February, it is stated.

Raise a Thirst At Munich Cinema

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Seidel and Stein and Maass overflow with foaming barley-blood in the picture at the German Cinema this week. It is called "Bockbierfest," and for those who have not celebrated the mysteries of Gambrinus in Munich it may be well to explain that in the spring the beer is so potent that only a butting goat is the appropriate symbol of every thirst parlor.

"Bock Beer Festival" opens with a convention of Anti-Alcoholists, the German equivalent of our Anti-Saloon League. Trouble brews when the daughter of the dry president falls in love with the owner of a brewery. More trouble follows when the president's old sweetheart turns up with another daughter he had forgotten about.

The unacknowledged daughter also finds a sweetheart, but this chap wants to meet her father—a sea captain, they tell him. Finally the foe of the saloon is obliged to go to the Bockbierfest in the uniform of a captain, and there he finds the beer so potent that he forgets all about being dry, and finally falls into a tank in which his old sweetheart enacts the role of diving Venus.

It is all joyous, uproarious burlesque—with the atmosphere of Munich and no reverence for Volstead. It doesn't just sparkle, but it foams and overflows with fun.

Irving Berlin Will Star Ona Munson

Ona Munson will open Christmas Eve at the Amsterdam Theater in New York in an Irving Berlin stage production as yet untitled. Miss Munson is being starred with Jack Whiting playing opposite her. Miss Munson, who has been rehearsing in New York for several weeks, returned to Hollywood for a few days' visit, but expects to go East shortly.

Studio Plans to Co-Feature Jeannette MacDonald And Jack Oakie

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.—Treading cautiously as yet, the studios have begun to plan a modest crop of musicals for 1932. One of the first of these, I learn, will be a Paramount original, co-featuring Jeanette MacDonald and Jack Oakie.

The story by Gertrude Purcell and Arthur Sheekman is called "Temporary Fiancee," but a change in title is imminent.

This will be the first time Oakie and Jeanette have appeared together since the rather undistinguished "Let's Go Native." Frank Tuttle will direct their new effort.

Jack Oakie

In the meanwhile, Paramount will have to prepare a musical score and the two stars will have to fulfill other engagements—Jeanette in the final scenes of the Chevalier picture and Oakie in "Dancers in the Dark."

The studio figures to start the tune-film in January.

Ian Keith and Fern Andra are very much that way. At one time he was married to Ethel Clayton, and she to Baron Von Welcke. Keith opens here soon in "Grand Hotel" . . . Much has been made of the fact that Director Roland Brown once worked as a laborer at Fox. He reveals this portion of his career was limited to three days . . . Saw Alex Francis and his wife lunching at Levy's. He looks fine . . . Well, I see the wrecking crews are at work on most of the surviving miniature golf courses. It's the only money that's been made off them in some time . . . After the holiday season is over, Harold Lloyd and Mildred Harris always plant Mildred Gloria's Christmas trees. They buy live cedars in boxes. Six of these former Xmas trees now are growing around Mildred Gloria's playhouse . . . Hard luck for Ruth Chatterton. She has a birthday on December 24 . . . Edgar Wallace is making addresses to journalism classes in local schools. And he admits himself he once was fired off a London paper for writing a libelous article. But he's been on several others since . . . George and Ira Gershwin have written a new number for the R-K-O film version of "Girl Crazy." It's called "You've Got What Gets Me." Bert Wheeler and Dorothy Lee will sing it.

IN THE NEWS

Universal officials come out of a huddle to announce that Norman Foster, June Clyde and Zasu Pitts will be in Earl Snell's story, "Cobblestones."

Monday will see Director Edward Luddy get under way on this picture about a truck driver who becomes a prize fighter.

Fields' Review In Academy

A series of specialties and scenes of the revue type is what Nat Fields has brought to the Academy Theater in his latest Columbia burlesque contribution, "Playin' Around." Doris Birmingham, titian-tressed singer and dancer, tops the cast. The supporting list includes Hap (Boob) Freyer and Al (Dutch) Ferris, comedians; Frank McConville, tenor; Bobby Birch, illusionist; Gabby Fields, prima donna; Nan Bryant and Boots Rush, ingenues, also are prominent. Joe and Ernestine contribute a dancing specialty, and as an extra feature, "Najda," mystery girl, sings in both Russian and English behind a black mask. Dottie (Sunshine) Vaughn and Wanita Casino appear on the runway. A chorus and the 12 singing and dancing usherettes also are present.

Downtown 'Y' to Offer Pollock Drama

The Dramatic Club of the Downtown Branch Y. M. C. A. throughout the winter and spring months will present a series of plays. The initial production will be "The Enemy," a four-act drama by Channing Pollock. It will be offered Friday and Saturday evenings, December 18 and 19, in the theater of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. The proceeds will be used as a "Fund for Needy Boys." The cast will largely be composed of the members of the cast of "In the Zone," the winning play of the 1931 Pittsburgh Drama League Contest. Players include I. O. Arneson, Olive Brown, Betty Blanack, Bud Cobbett, Stephen C. Graves, Karl F. Roschy, Edward McRoberts, Sylvia Hykes, Buddy Baer and R. C. Sauer.

WIFE TO AVENGE GANG SHOOTING

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Mrs. Anna Lonergan Lovett Martin, whose dark star has faintly glimmered over several gangster murders on the Brooklyn waterfront, today vowed vengeance as she stood by the hospital bed on which her husband, Matthew Martin, hovered between life and death.

Martin was the newest victim of the two decades of terrorism along Brooklyn's waterfront which already has taken from Mrs. Martin her first husband, "Wild Bill" Lovett, and her brother, "Peg Leg" Lonergan, and in which a score of gangsters were killed. She moaned:

"If I find out who shot you I'll clean out that gang, if I have to do it single handed."

Detectives believed he engaged in a gun duel with Richard Tanner in an argument over the succession to Wild Bill Lovett's rule, which Martin assumed when he married the latter's widow after Lovett's violent death. Tanner was in another hospital today, a wound in his arm.

JOB GIVEN BOY CRUSADER SHOT

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—When Herman Knol, 17, and unemployed, was shot three weeks ago, he had no idea the shooting was a stroke of good fortune for him.

But H. E. Paul, superintendent of the hospital to which Knol was taken, announced today that the boy was ready to be returned to his home and that as soon as he was convalesced, he would give him a job.

Young Knol was shot by Daniel S. Gilna, head of the Englewood Law and Order League, who since has been indicted on a charge of assault to murder.

POLA BELIEVED ENGAGED

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—"If I ever marry again I shall marry an American."

Despite this statement of Pola Negri, Polish screen actress, Hollywood speculated today over a report that Pola was engaged to marry Capt. John Loder, English actor, now playing motion picture roles. A studio official said:

"Yes, Pola's pretty friendly with Loder, all right, and they've been seen together almost daily for weeks, but whether they're engaged is a private matter of which we have no knowledge."

Miss Negri has been married and divorced three times. Her three husbands were not Americans. When Rudolph Valentino, her fiance, died, Miss Negri brought his body from New York to Hollywood. She said then:

"I'll never marry again. It is the end."

THIRD HOLDUP AT GAS STATION

For the second time within two weeks and the third time within six months, the Bigelow service station of the Atlantic Refining Company, Bigelow boulevard and Telegraph square, was held up early today by gunmen.

One of two gunmen forced Donald Malcolm, of 1007 Bluff street, the attendant, to give the contents of the safe, but the youth stood firm in the face of the intruder's threats and refused to reveal the hiding place of yesterday's receipts that he had hidden in another part of the station.

From the safe the thief took $50, and $15 from Malcolm's change container. Warning Malcolm to give him plenty of time to elude pursuit, the bandit joined his lookout outside, and the two sped away in an automobile.

WCAE LINKED TO SUN-TELEGRAPH

casting Company, from coast to coast.

Listeners were pleased today with "The Globe Trotter," who interpreted spot news events with accuracy and vivid color.

Tonight at 7 o'clock George Seibel, playwright and critic, will discuss "Plays and Players" on WCAE. He will be introduced by Judge Frank P. Patterson, of Common Pleas Court, who years ago was dramatic critic of the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

'NIGHT CLUB' OPENING

A fanfare of trumpets and the martial swing of "Siamese Patrol" will herald the Sun-Telegraph Night Club of the Air on WCAE at 11 o'clock tonight. This will be the first of a special series of late programs to be presented on WCAE every night but Sunday.

Jack Keough, master of ceremonies, has booked an excellent floor show for the initial performance. Keough comes to Pittsburgh with all the praise of the Pacific Coast on his shoulders and Sun-Telegraph Night Club patrons will find him a genial m. c.

VARIETY OF FEATURES

From there on it's a great show. "Barnacle Bill the Sailor" will attend as well as the "Lady of Spain." Ray Griffin, bass, will go "Deep in the Cellar" for something. Kay Cronick, blues singer, will tell what happens "When the Rest of the Crowd Goes Home," and those who yearn for sentiment will be transported to "Moon-light on the Ganges" by a novelty trio.

The Lawson Sisters say "Good-night, Sweetheart" and the whole thing winds up in a question mark, "Who Am I?" Neal Mowry, tenor, will take the part of the girl in "Barnacle Bill" and Ray Griffin will be the tough old sailor.

It looks like a great evening, friends! Assemble before the loud-speaker tonight at 11. WCAE and enjoy the Sun-Telegraph Night Club of the Air.

We can't guarantee that Al Jolson will be there, but we will guarantee that any message you have to give the m. c. will be delivered if you call Atlantic 5184.

Arrange for Duel Over U. S. Woman

BORDIGHERA, Italy, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Velko de Raditchevitch, who claims to be a Montenegrin count and who is the husband of the former Winifred Smith Murray, of Bridgeton, N. J., today was selecting a second for a duel with the Marques Ruguino de Lassaleta, wealthy wine merchant of Seville.

The wealthy Spaniard challenged De Ratitchevitch after the latter allegedly attacked him and Mrs. Raditchevitch, whom he was escorting along the water front here. Police were called to stop the fisticuffs.

Vick Plan Helps Mothers Solve Problem of Colds

Mothers Adopt Plan By the Makers of Vicks VapoRub for Better "Control-of-Colds" in the Home.

Made Possible By New Product Based On New Idea for Preventing Colds — Reduces the Family's "Colds-Tax," in Money, Loss of Time and Health.

Every mother is taxed with the problem of colds — especially the frequent colds of children. And the family budget is taxed by their costs—in money, lost time and health. It is good news indeed, then, that the makers of Vicks VapoRub have perfected a Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. The Plan means fewer, less severe colds—and real reduction of the burdensome family "Colds-Tax."

Trial Offer to Vick Users

The Vick Plan is introduced along with the new Vicks Nose and Throat Drops, based on a new idea for "preventing" colds—companion product to Vicks VapoRub, the modern, external way of "treating" colds. Get a bottle of the new preparation and use it with VapoRub as directed below. Unless you are delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to return your money.

1.—Before a Cold Starts

When children come in sniffling and sneezing, apply a few Vicks Drops up each nostril. Use the Drops yourself at that first scratchy, sneezy irritation of the nose or upper throat—Nature's warning that you are "catching cold." If you or the children catch cold easily, use the Drops after exposure to any condition you know is apt to be followed by a cold—dry, over-heated rooms—indoor crowds—sudden changes, wet or cold—dust and smoke—etc., etc.—and there is the slightest stuffiness. Used in time, many colds can be avoided.

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave bedclothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long. During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Drops as needed for ease and comfort. This gives you full 24-hour treatment—and without the risks of constant internal "dosing," so often upsetting to digestion, especially the delicate digestions of children.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Diction on the radio continues to excite a large number of people. It must be good news to that venerable institution known as the American Academy of Arts and Letters. The academy, you may recall, was the first to bring the subject into the news pages.

It did the job well, you may also recall. It blew long blasts on the trumpets, dangled its medals conspicuously. It was the medal-dangling rather than the trumpet-blowing that focused attention on radio diction.

Too much attention, if you ask us. For one thing, it has caused the majority of announcers of the leading stations to become the most solemn of men outside, probably, a League of Nations meeting. In their desire to win the approving nods of the academy they have become, for the most part, a group of self-conscious purists, sacrificing naturalness and ease for the stiltedness and pomposness of the average elocution school.

And the tendency grows, grows even in the face of the amazing action of the academy this year in awarding its medal to an announcer whose voice is practically unknown to the carpet-slippered gentry who do their listening at night.

* * *

The monarchs of the microphones, too, have helped along the trend by laying down hard and fast rules governing their announcers. They standardize the speech of their attention-callers, give little hospitality to those who talk with the soft drawl of mammyland or the breezy accents of the West or the familiar twang of New England.

Of all the announcers on the air there is only one, nationally known, who in his speech symbolizes a definite section of the land. It is Bill Munday, but even he is confined almost exclusively to a few football broadcasts.

Hartford, Conn., is the Tastyeast Jesters' capital . . . all three of the boys married girls from that city . . . Dwight Latham already has a girl there and the other boys, Wamp Carlson and Guy Bonham, met their future wives through him . . .

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Should a Fellow Help His Wife With Housework?

Should papa lend a hand around the house, or are the domestic chores all up to ma?

That's a question that's causing plenty of riot in plenty of families these days. And it's a question, too, that leads to another:

Who works the hardest, mamma or her sister who bends over a set of books or clacks a typewriter all day in the office?

"Discontented" is sure that mamma does, and that Slick Secretary gets a better break from the boss than mamma does from the papa.

HAD TO WORK

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I've been a constant reader of your column and now I'm coming to you with my own problem. Maybe it will be just one of many to you, but to me it is terribly serious, and I don't know what to do.

"I am 27 and the mother of two baby girls. I lost my own mother when I was 12 and had to cope with a foster-mother when I was 13. I had no love or understanding then. It was just 'hand over your pay envelope' from that time till I was 21.

"Then the man came along. We have been married five years, and until the babies came, I was happy. I guess because I felt that someone really loved me, at last. They say that children make a marriage more binding, but I wonder. Since our children came (they're 3 and 1, now) we have not been able to understand each other at all.

"My husband is a 'good provider.' He loves the children and all, but at times he is so unreasonable. I cook, keep a five-room flat, wash and care for the kiddies and don't get any help whatsoever from any source. I just keep doing it, with the thought that some day the children will outgrow babyhood.

"But my husband has caused me so much unhappiness lately, by criticizing me and objecting me about like I were just a house servant. 'Why don't you do this. Why don't you do that.' But when I ask him for a helping hand with the little ones I get—I won't do it!' I worked hard all day, etc. I am getting close to the end of my rope.

"After having had a good position in an office I know the difference between being an independent working girl and a husband's household drudge, for that is what I am. And believe me it sure gets me burned up. When I hear some of these smart office girls tell the married women they don't run their houses right, and they're 'lazy—well!

"Certainly an office girl works hard, but a wife works harder! And, at least, the boss treats the office girl like a human being.

SHOULD HE HELP?

"Do you think a wife is asking too much when she asks her husband for a hand now and then? If he would help me occasionally, I could spend a little more time keeping myself decent looking and interesting, but he can't see it.

"DISCONTENTED."

Well! There's the problem. What's your answer?

Is the work in a five-room house, and the care of two children too much for a healthy young woman's strength? And should Dad jump in after his day's work, and swing the dish mop?

Then, when you've answered all that, how about her next claim—that the Stenogs get the best of it?

By FAY KING

According to modern feministic notions, it is nothing less than a crime for a wife to cry or be the least bit clinging vine-ish.

Try as I may I cannot agree with this viewpoint. I've seen too many of those "good sport" "fifty-fifty" marriages dissolved in heartaches hidden by smiles, when a tear in time could have saved them.

Of course, no one approves of a perpetually weeping wife. But it is silly for a woman to smile when she has reasons for weeping.

And she does cry—when she is alone. But the fact that she didn't cry when she should have makes the husband think she didn't care.

Premature Arrival of Veritzens Causes Riot of Excitement

We were not left long in suspense as to the identity of the car whose horn we had just heard at the farmyard gate, although, indeed, I think Katherine and Lillian were as despondently sure as I that it was the luxurious limousine of Philip Veritzen with the faithful if saturnine Otto at the wheel. Since the alarm of the Chinese, the farmyard gates are always closed at night, and it is impossible for any car to get through them without passing the inspection of Jim or of the guard in my father's employ.

All three of us had rushed to the open window at the sound of the horn, and behind the shelter of the curtains were eagerly and shamelessly listening for the first sound of voices.

"Oh!" That was Jim's stolid voice. "It's you, Otto! Wait just a second. I'll unlock the gates."

"Wait!" That was Philip Veritzen's deep voice, like a 'cello, even with the imperative note which it held. "Is the family in residence?"

Lillian giggled convulsively. "Isn't that old Phil for you?" she whispered. "He isn't saying that as a joke, either, you know. He just naturally talks that way, always visualizing himself and his friends as part of that old royalty-nobility regime of which he counts himself a member, even if left handed."

"They're all at home," Jim said, and we had the hysterical impression that under his breath he was adding, "if that's what you mean."

"Then we'll come in," Mr. Veritzen decided. "Noel, if you'll attend to our guests, I'll go ahead to apologize for this call, although I cannot call it unexpected. Did Mrs. Graham receive my telegram yesterday, Jim?"

"I don't think any telegram came to the house yesterday," Jim answered, "but there was one late this afternoon."

Lillian caught me by the shoulder as I turned quickly from the window.

"That's the answer," she said. "Somewhere in the shuffle that wire was lost for a day. But how will we get our answer back?"

But even the possible consequences of our deceiving telegram to Philip Veritzen paled in my mind beside the urge in my mind to get hold of Mary. If my deductions were worth anything, and I knew of no other explanation of the elder Veritzen's injunction to Noel to look after the guests, the girl of Noel's letter would appear in the living room in a minute or two. I would not permit Mary to have that meeting thrust upon her unwarned.

"Mary!" I said frantically, shaking off Lillian's hand. "I must get Mary out of the way before those people come in."

"I'll have her here in a second," Katherine promised, skimming past me, and I sat down heavily in the nearest chair, relieved of one dread because of her promise, but aghast at the complications which this premature arrival of Philip Veritzen might cause.

"Don't you dare slump!" Lillian's low tones were imperative. "Remember, you're the hostess. You've got to get down those stairs, pronto. Luckily you didn't change anything but your dress and shoes when you came upstairs. Get into them again, while I send Katie down to answer the door and stall for you till you get down."

She hurried out of the door to the little veranda where Katie sat, ready to call us if the baby should need anything, and was back again before Katie's running feet had reached the staircase.

"They haven't knocked yet, have they?" she asked, and I shook my head as it emerged through the top of the gown I was putting on.

"Then Katie'll be in time," she said. "The youngsters are so taken up with the dancing that they wouldn't look up if Joshua and his trumpeters marched around the farmhouse, mistaking it for Jericho. And Harry and Dicky are probably taking their usual evening tramp, combining heavy patrol duty with the thing they like best to do. And here's Mary! Ah! Katrina, let's get into some glad rags!"

"Not I," Katherine said firmly. "Thank heaven that isn't part of my job." I heard that much as she took her hand from Mary's arm, and Lillian looked at me wonderingly as I closed the door.

"Why all the hush! hush!" she asked curiously.

"Because," I said, stooping to fasten my shoes so that I would not have to look at her, "there are some unexpected guests at the door, and I wanted you to know about them before you saw them."

"Unexpected guests," she repeated, "and I am to be warned. Does that mean that Veritzen pere et son fils sont arrives?"

"Not only arrived, but accompanied," I answered gravely.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Week-End Trip

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We, my girl friend and I, and the two young men we go about with, are going away for a week-end. These young men have already made reservations, as a surprise to us, and everything is set so far as they are concerned.

However, as we have never taken trips with our friends previously, other than day trips, we would appreciate your advising us just what part of this expense we should bear.

WE TWO, AGED 21.

More important than this, dear girls, is the question as to whether or not you really should take this trip. Is some older person going with you, or a married couple? If not, then of course you cannot go and escape criticism. Have you talked it over with your parents?

If there is to be a chaperon, then it will be all right to plan this trip and in this case it would be best for each of you to pay your own way.

How to Keep Well -:-

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A Fear of Surgery Often Delays Goiter Treatment

At some time or other, I am sure you have noticed somebody who had a marked swelling in the neck. Perhaps you have even diagnosed the trouble and called it goiter. That is what it is.

Dr. Copeland

The victim may be scared at this growth, yet he avoids all medical advice. Perhaps this is because of the impression that an operation will be necessary. He fears the operation more than the growth. This is unfortunate because many enlargements in the neck are due to a simple form of goiter and do not require surgery for their cure.

Goitre is not so common in America as it is abroad. We are particularly fortunate in this respect.

It is now believed that enlargement of the glands in the neck, an enlargement which results in goitre, is due to one of two things. It may be due to the consumption of too little iodine, or it may be caused by the entire absence of the iodine which is necessary for the protection of the thyroid gland.

If there is a failure, either in the amount of the iodine or in the form it reaches the body, the thyroid gland enlarges. This is looked upon as the direct cause of goitre.

There are other factors which are incidental and which may be considered as indirect causes. For example, infections, poisonings, faulty diets and severe periods of stress, particularly in the females—during puberty, pregnancy, or change of life—these are some of the factors that enter into the matter. It is because of these that goiter is found more frequently in females than in males.

There has been too much carelessness regarding goiter. The victim of this condition should be under the personal supervision of a physician who will determine what to do. He will advise the patient as to diet and manner of living.

In considering the prevention of this disease, it has been found that certain foods which are rich in iodine will often prevent goiter. For example, certain sea foods, particularly deep sea fish, notably the salmon, and lobsters, are very rich in iodine.

It has been found that iodine added to certain water supplies has acted as a preventive of this disease. This method of control has been used in the Great Lakes district and other parts of America. This has been used in what is called the Goiter Belt, where the iodine content of the water is particularly low.

In certain of these communities, school children are given periodically certain medicines containing iodine. This measure has been remarkably successful and no doubt has prevented many cases of goiter which otherwise would have developed.

Goiter is not a disease to become alarmed about, nor does it necessarily mean operation. It is unwise for you to neglect it and you should not do so.

Contract Bridge -:-

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

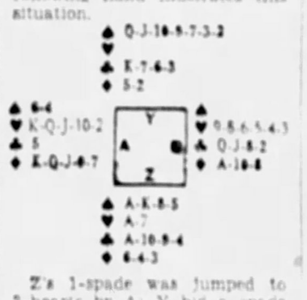
By E. V. SHEPARD

Business Doubles

Wise doubles are as great point gainers as thoughtless doubles are point losers. Promptness to double for penalties quickly put the brakes upon reckless overcalls. Double any game bid upon probable ability to defeat it by one trick; unless fulfillment of an undoubled contract means game do not double unless able to probably defeat the contract by more than one trick; doubling out an adversary is one of the things that partner finds hard to forgive. Another thing that greatly disturbs a partner is doubling an adverse bid instead of first helping him when well able to do so. Do not double one declaration that you can defeat unless prepared to also double any shift of make. Of course you may double any contract that you can defeat for greater gain than from going game, provided you can also double any shift for similar gains, without first supporting your partner's make. Maximum scores are the goal, whether those scores are made through the collection of penalties or through winning games, slams and rubbers.

Never shift your partner's make merely because he has been doubled, only shift when either you would have done so or could have reasonably done so had he not been doubled. Sometimes your only chance for game lies in having your contract doubled; both you and your partner will feel disturbed in case you shift him from a doubled contract that would mean game into an undoubled contract that fails to go game.

Two situations require your continuance of bidding over partner's business double. The first sound reason for overcalling such a double is a reasonable certainty that your goal of game, overtricks or slam will score more points than will result from letting the double stand for a penalty. The second reason for overcalling your partner's business double is the conviction that opponents will fulfill their doubled contract because your partner expects you to win one or more defensive tricks that you do not hold. The following hand illustrates this situation.



Z's 1-spade was jumped to 3-hearts by A; Y bid a spade game; B went 5-hearts, which Z doubled. Y knew that Z must expect to win at least one spade trick that could not be taken. Y went 5-spades, which was doubled and made because A led a heart, giving Y one discard of a diamond. Z guessed right on clubs and lost only one trick. An opening diamond lead would have defeated the bid.

"HERE'S THE GIFT I WOULD WANT"

Christmas Terms ONLY $6.25 DOWN Balance Monthly

What better gift could you give your wife for Christmas than the cleaner which more than 3,000,000 housewives have chosen for their own use?

The Hoover has overwhelming preference among women over all other electric cleaners. The reason is not far to seek—it gives the greatest helpfulness.

Not only does it do the most to lighten household labor; of all cleaners, it cleans most efficiently—33⅓% better than the next best electric cleaner.

And remember, its purchase is made remarkably easy; just a few dollars down; the balance in small monthly amounts, with a liberal allowance for old electric cleaners. Christmas Hoovers come in special holiday cartons, ready for presentation.

POLITICS
Mellon Championing Of Coyne Not Favored
By MARK SHIELDS

The retirements of W. L. Mellon from politics are much like the farewell tours of Adelina Patti and Sarah Bernhardt. One succeeds the other, and there seems to be no permanency to seclusion.

Mr. Mellon's latest effort, to make Senator James J. Coyne Republican county chairman as successor to the late Joseph G. Armstrong, comes after it had been understood that he finally had definitely quit political direction at the instance of his two uncles, Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon and R. B. Mellon.

Mr. Shields

This championship of Coyne has not been favorably received in general political circles. Sections where the Senator is dominant naturally are enthusiastic, but they are restricted. Those who oppose Coyne strictly on a party basis point out that his most recent political enterprise was an effort to elect a Democrat to the Board of County Commissioners.

But the greatest objection comes from groups who do not approve his general attitude toward the responsibilities of public officials to the public as a whole. It is as strong in organization circles as among independents. If the latest Mellon movement is successful, in its train will come a period of internal party warfare making recent eruptions seem mild.

Independents seeking to elect legislators and national delegates will use Coyne as a target. They will contend that the type of government he and Mayor Kline exemplify was repudiated by the voters, and will be able to stir energy against a party leadership under such banners.

Senator Davis' Friends Oppose Coyne Selection

Friends of Senator James J. Davis, who must run again next year, will oppose the Coyne selection. Coyne was a Grundy leader in the last senatorial primary, and would have no sympathy for Davis in 1932.

The renewed prominence of Coyne comes at a time when many organization leaders were advising that their associates should pursue a subdued course for at least a year or two.

They realize that independent movements are made possible only when the misdeeds of the organization present a shining mark against which public antipathy can be rallied. If machine leaders now should remain in the background, reorganizing quietly, and if the city administration through council showed a spirit of humility, the zeal of Independents would cool.

Pushing Coyne has set the fires anew.

Stories of City Council, that major part which has been blindly loyal to the Mayor, now going to war with him because there are too many people on the payroll, should be taken with a grain of salt. The story has been that the Coyne-influenced Councilmen laid down the law to the Mayor on the necessity for reducing jobs. It is good window-dressing, but not deceptive.

Coyne has no desire to reduce publicly employed personnel. As a political leader he depends on jobs to satisfy his people. He and the Mayor are not as friendly as they were, and he certainly could swing a majority against Kline after the first of the year, but it would require more than the mere question of jobs to induce such a break. The only way jobs would figure would be if Coyne people were being discriminated against.

Something of Panic In Controlling Circles

If Council should now desert the Mayor, to what leader would it rally? It could not convincingly do a right-about after the way it has flouted the public. Conceivably much of the present by-play is jockeying for position should the Mayor resign, as he has been pressed to do.

Some of his friends fear he may become further involved in existing investigations, and that the indictments now against him are not at all the trouble in store. Truth is, there is something of panic in the circles which so long have controlled the city, and men are reaching for straws, no matter how inconsistent this reaching is with their past actions.

It is years since public officials have faced the troubles now abroad in the city, and hysteria is the result. Political houses which were thought secure against any attack, public offices which had come to be looked on as private sinecures, are tottering.

Senator David A. Reed's defiance to Secretary Mellon on the scaling down of war debts owed the U. S. has aroused much discussion because of the close bond which exists between the two Pittsburghers. On many occasions in the Senate, Reed has acted as though he were an advocate of the Secretary rather than a legislator, but those occasions have turned about matters which were personal with Mr. Mellon, rather than political or economic issues of first magnitude.

The present refusal of the Senator to go along with the Secretary and President Hoover is not the first time Reed has defied Mellon and a president. Mellon at the instance of former President Coolidge brought Reed before the then President for assistance in defeating a proposed postal pay raise.

Very bluntly Reed said he was for the raise, and that not Mr. Mellon, Mr. Coolidge, nor any one else could change his mind. And he remained firm despite extreme pressure.

Toy Mission Busy Filling Santa's Bag for Needy

WELFARE DRIVE EXTENDED, SUCCESS SEEN

MISSION ASKS GIFT OF TOYS FOR NEEDY
Workers Facing Increased Problem This Year With 20,000 Children Listed

A task greater than that of any previous season faces the workers of the Toy Mission, 213 Market street, in playing Santa to approximately 20,000 children of the Pittsburgh district this Christmas. In previous years toys were furnished to 16,000 youngsters but the estimate this year indicates at least 20,000 children who should be given toys.

George L. Bond, head of the toy mission, says all the children will be provided with a suitable gift. It is the proud boast of the workers that in the 37 previous years the mission has been conducted, every child reported to them was remembered on Christmas.

MANY DONATORS

So far this year the toys have been coming in in large numbers. Chauffeurs of the wealthy bring in many gifts, and others of less fortunate circumstances are bringing in their packages of slightly worn toys. The "biggest need at present, Bond said, is for toys or gifts suitable for boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 14 years.

Many persons who wish to spend a few dollars for toys to give to the mission, have in mind making happy a boy or girl. They then buy one or two gifts. These contributors are urged by Bond to buy wisely. Instead of purchasing one or two costly gifts, when money is given to the mission, Bond or one of his helpers for a few dollars can buy in bulk and make several children happy.

BULK PURCHASES

If new toys are to be given, it is better to give the money to the mission and let one of the workers who knows what is needed, buy toys in lots.

Greater co-operation is being shown this season by the schools. Teachers are sending the names of their pupils and others reported to them to the mission, which saves the workers from making investigations in all parts of the city. Hundreds of toys are being shipped to the various schools where they will be given on the day before Christmas to pupils who are unlikely to receive other gifts.

MALONE'S SON WEDS NURSE

Miss Helen Black, West Penn Hospital graduate nurse, and Attorney James F. Malone, Jr., son of the former Secretary of Property and Supplies and prominent in state politics, were married at the Penn Grove Hotel, in Grove City, yesterday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. E. Purvis, of Grove City College.

They will reside in Iowa street, Pittsburgh, following their return from an eastern wedding trip.

The bride is a daughter of A. G. Black, of Grove City. For the past few weeks she has been state nurse in Mercer County. Malone is a graduate of Duquesne University.

Mail Clerk's Fumble Bares 'Brandy Loaf'

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A clerk in the Philadelphia Postoffice dropped a package that had been mailed in Germany. A thin stream trickled from the broken package. Its wrappings were torn off and a loaf of bread was found. Inside the bread was a bottle of brandy. Two other packages similarly wrapped were found in the mails and two bottles of brandy removed from bread.

Authorities said the intended recipient, a Philadelphian, would be notified his packages were held up, and no action would be taken against him.

Sleuths Seek Owners Of 109 Slot Machines Confiscated in Raid

County detectives today still were seeking the identity of the owners of the 109 slot machines confiscated at 288 Fleet street, Rankin, yesterday, in one of the largest seizures ever made in Allegheny County. The machines were brought to the Courthouse, where they were destroyed along with six others by attaches of the Detective Bureau.

One man was taken into custody during the raid. He was Giuseppe Brescinti, 65, who said he had rented the basement of the building to a Mr. Smith on December 1, for $10 a month. The machines were stored in the building Sunday night.

Sam Rost, of Rankin, said by a confessing prisoner to have been the owner of slot machines, has been listed by District Attorney Andrew T. Park for trial early in January on an indictment charging conducting a lottery in connection with the numbers racket.

Rost was called for trial in September, but the case was postponed when he presented a physician's certificate declaring his father was near death and he was needed at the bedside. He is now said to be in Hot Springs, Ark., but is under heavy bail, which requires him to report in court when called.

District Attorney Park, asked if Rost was the owner of the slot machines taken in a raid in Rankin yesterday, said he had not learned yet who was the owner. Park said people living in the vicinity were being questioned to learn who was seen going in and out of the place.

No Moratorium For Home Folks; Income Tax Due
By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

If Washington wants to steam up a good moratorium, why not give us one on that income tax today?

We have to lay that on the line just 10 days from Christmas. It knocks the whiskers off Santa Claus.

United States has been very strict with Europe on the war debt. It won't take no for an answer. It prefers maybe or perhaps.

But when the time comes for a citizen to cough up that fourth installment he had better spray his throat with red pepper and start sneezing.

Just a coincidence that the war payments fall on December 15 along with the income plaster. The resemblance stops there, for we must pay ours.

Why doesn't the government skip that tax today and consider it's a war loan?

If it doesn't, the next time you see us we will be walking arm in arm with Mahatma Gandhi.

And both of us will be dressed alike.

HUSBAND HURT IN FAMILY ROW

Shoved down the stairs by his estranged wife, last night, it is alleged, James J. Young, 43, who lives in a houseboat in the Ohio river at the foot of Pennsylvania avenue, collapsed following a hearing in North Side Police Court today.

At the Allegheny General Hospital his condition was described as serious from a possible skull fracture, head lacerations and sprained back.

Apparently in a daze when arraigned before Magistrate Ray Schneider on a drunkenness charge, Young said little. His wife testified she had pushed him away from the front door of her home in Gironde street where she lives with her four children and later had him arrested. He was behind in payments for support of herself and children, she said.

At the hospital Young told police, they said, that he went to his wife's home to see his children and was shoved down the steps, suffering his injuries. A homicide detective was detailed to question Mrs. Young at her home. Disposition of Young's case was held up.

Oakland Building Damaged By Fire

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HARBIN, Dec. 15.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This is Harbin. It's 32 below. Vodka is not a beverage, but a necessity. Wild dog fur is Kolensky. The American consul general is the emperor of Manchuria. I got on a fur hat that looks like Daniel Boone. And what do you think I found? A war? A revolution? No! "Abie's Irish Rose!" Played by Russians and Chinese. What more cause could there be for a war? But don't miss this town.

Yours, WILL.

CHURCH SUES WATER FIRM

Charging the basement floor was ruined and the furnace damaged by sewage backing through a four-inch main, the Methodist Episcopal Church Union of Pittsburgh, on behalf of the Becks Run Methodist Episcopal Church, Sixteenth Ward, asked $2,500 damages from the South Pittsburgh Water Company in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. The company damaged a manhole in laying a main last summer, the suit charged.

Jacob Slinger, tenant at 2012 Center avenue, filed suit against his landlord, Harry Katz, seeking $25,000 damages for injuries. Slinger alleged that while seated on his doorstep June 29 last the fire escape fell on his head.

HURLEY SECOND IN GRID VOTE

John P. Hurley, Jr., of 238 Reifert street, Pitsburgh, won second prize in the nation-wide football ballot conducted by a nationally known clothing company, it was announced yesterday. There were 18,000 contestants entered in the contest, according to the announcement made by Frank & Seder, Pittsburgh headquarters for the clothing firm. The ballot was conducted to select an all-American football team.

$564,000 STILL TO BE RAISED IN DISTRICT
Campaign to Close Jan. 14 After Complete Re-canvass For Increased Donations

With the campaign of the Welfare Fund and Allegheny County Emergency Association short of its $6,000,000 goal by $564,000, leaders today declared the drive will not be discontinued. The next report meeting, which is scheduled for January 14, should be marked by the success of the drive, officials said.

Although general meetings have been discontinued until January 14, workers in all divisions will complete resolicitation and members of the special gifts division and corporations divisions will meet at regular intervals to report progress.

Requests for additional subscriptions will be submitted to boards of directors of corporations, all of which are being thoroughly recanvassed, campaign leaders said.

Division totals for the entire drive to date stand as follows: special division, $1,325,797.02; corporation division, $1,111,840.84; Sewickley division, $238,890.33; central division, $604,603.04; employee division, $836,905.21; unit division, $385,124.94; city neighborhood division, $84,125.76; county neighborhood division, $61,589.80.

Subscriptions reported yesterday include: employes of Haugh and Keenan Company, $150; employes of the City Ice and Fuel Company, $278.50; employes of Byrnes and Kiefer, 1135 Penn avenue, $275.

WINS PAROLE IN POSTAL FRAUD

James W. Johnston, Ross Township commissioner and former assistant postmaster at Laurel Gardens, pleaded guilty in Federal Court today to defrauding the government of $310 and falsifying postoffice records. He was paroled for three years by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker with the understanding that he make restitution in six months.

Questioned by Assistant United States Attorney Zeno Fritz, Johnston denied having boasted he would not go to jail. He said he was expecting a State Highway Department job.

Postal authorities testified Postmaster John J. Yost, of Laurel Gardens, was innocent of any connection with Johnston's false returns on stamp cancellations.

Vandergrift Man Faces Arson Charge

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Dec. 15.—Joe Sack, 40, was held for court without bail when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Samuel K. Hunger on charges of arson, preferred by E. W. Faber, deputy state fire marshal, and a serious charge preferred by County Detective Jack Hasson on behalf of a 15-year-old girl. Faber charged that, following a fire in a two-story building owned by Sack, firemen found evidence of incendiarism. Sack denied both charges.

Truck Dashes Down Hill, Driver Hurt

Mother, Girl Arrested as Shoplifters

A mother and daughter who did their Christmas shopping early and, according to police, too early, were held for court today on charges of larceny after a Morals Court hearing.

Detectives of a downtown store testified Mrs. Mary Balla, 38, of 1119 Maryland avenue, Duquesne, and her daughter, Betty, stole neckties, shirts and women's underwear from the counters.

Police said Betty admitted taking the merchandise, which was valued at about $45, to give relatives as Christmas presents.

2 Gas Strikes Made In Washington Co.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—A well drilled in on the H. B. Brownlee farm in East Finley Township by the Carnegie Natural Gas Company has an initial flow of gas estimated at 4,000,000 feet daily. The pressure was so strong that the tools were blown out of the hole when the gas was struck. On the adjoining Asbury Stout farm the Natural Gas Company of West Virginia, drilled in its No. 2 well with a 3,000,000 foot flow, and is expecting its No. 3 well in today.

Both strikes were made in the Gordon sand, heretofore almost unproductive in Southwestern Washington County.

Judge Shuns Tradition As Wife Accuses Mate

Judge Thomas M. Marshall, Allegheny County's newest jurist, trying his first murder case in Criminal Court, shattered the tradition of old English law that a wife cannot testify against her husband. A Supreme Court decision upheld him.

Mike Drabinsin, 63, of Universal, is on trial for the murder of his son, Mike Drabinsin, Jr., 20, who was stabbed through the heart in a fight in their cellar, June 10. The father is a little man, not over 115 pounds, while the son weighed 190 pounds.

Testimony was that he complained because there was no bread and his father told him he could get some of the stale bread, kept for rabbits, in the cellar. The father went to get it and the mother, siding with her son, followed to remonstrate, it was testified. The husband fought with her and tore her dress, it was testified. Then the son, coming to her aid, was stabbed.

Under a ruling that if a wife has been attacked by her husband she can testify against him, District Attorney John F. Haggerty called the woman to the witness stand. Attorney George Varady, for the defendant, objected, but was overruled. The woman told practically the same story as the other witnesses.

WE NOW PRESENT

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

TO CREATE THE proper environment for the Sun-Telegraph Night Club of the Air on WCAE at 11 o'clock tonight, Jack Keough, master of ceremonies, has had the studio decorated in typical night club atmosphere with tables, glasses, trays 'n' everything . . . we understand Al Jolson, Ted Lewis and other famous night club stars have deluged Jack with telegrams of congratulation . . . if you wish to call the night club, merely ask for ATlantic 5184 and an attendant will take your message . . .

Darrell V. Martin

When Walter Winchell says "OKay, London" at 10 o'clock tonight, we expect to hear Jack Hylton's Orchestra from the city of fog and bridges . . . earlier in the evening (WJAS at 8:45) Winchell is to present Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson as guest stars on that perfume program . . . Courtney Ryley Cooper on KDKA at 8, William Green, president of the Federation of Labor, on KDKA at 9, Ben Bernie on WJAS at the same hour, and Charles Hackett, tenor, on WJAS at 10 are other choice morsels.

Don Here Until May

Don Bestor and his touring musicians moored yesterday at a downtown hotel where they are to play starting Monday, December 21 . . . meanwhile playing dates in the tri-state territory. No arrangements have been made for any orchestra to succeed Don, the hotel management anticipating that Pittsburgh's favorite musical son will hold the crowds until the rows come home in May, the time Jimmie Joy is scheduled to return for the opening of the William Penn Urban Room.

Question a Day:

Is it true that the sponsor of Sacred Songs pays for her time on the air? I have been told that the networks and individual stations, too, donate time to churches and sacred features of this nature.—Gertrude D., Montier street, Wilkinsburg.

Answer—The sponsor pays for her time on KDKA. Her annual expense for time and talent is said to approximate $24,000. The networks donate the time for all religious features. The talent is paid for by sectarian organizations.

Millions gargle uselessly while colds hang on

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that can't kill germs unless used full strength. Pepsodent Antiseptic kills germs in 10 seconds, even when diluted with two parts of water. It goes 3 times as far as other antiseptics. Thus $1 worth does the work of $3 spent for ordinary kinds.

A NATION of garglers! Lusty garglers. Gambling—75% of them—with mouth antiseptics that can't kill germs when mixed with water. You may fool yourself that way. But always remember—you can't fool a cold. You can't fool sore throat. You can't fool bad breath. If you dilute your antiseptic—as 3 out of 4 do—you must choose one that still kills germs when diluted with water.

A new discovery, safe yet powerful

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 1 or even 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in your fight against colds!

New security against bad breath (Halitosis)

And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for colds you are doing double duty by also fighting bad breath. For Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use—95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs is still reduced by 80%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics.

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix such antiseptics with water is a waste of money. Contrariwise, Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size, the more for your money.

Combating colds and checking bad breath are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool a cold.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and throat irritations. For at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

DR. CALLAHAN RAPS CRITICS

Undisturbed by the critics taking exception to his explanation for trisecting an angle, the Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University, today questioned the knowledge of geometry of those contradicting the process.

Father Callahan declared he simply gave a construction that will trisect any angle. It was but a pointer or hint from which the true mathematician can follow through, he said, pointing out:

"I gave the converse of the problem, 'To trisect an angle.' If it were put in the form of a proposition it would read something like this:

"The diagonal and base of a rhombus are the trisectors of an angle, one of whose sides is the leg of the rhombus adjacent the intersection of the diagonal and base, the other side a line parallel to a line equal to the diagonal and intersecting it so as to make two isosceles triangles.

"This completely disproves the contention of those that have claimed trisection impossible by geometric means. The angle is trisected or it is not. If it is trisected, it can be done."

Taxi Union Leader Reports Bomb Attack

2 SOCIETY MEN HELD IN ATTACK

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15 (INS.)—Two socially prominent young men today were held under $2,500 bond while a Lansdowne police lieutenant lay in a Delaware County hospital in a serious condition as the result of a beating allegedly administered by the young socialites following complaints of two girls that the officer had molested them.

The injured man is Lieut. Hugh Weston. Doctors said he was suffering from concussion of the brain. The accused pair are James H., 30, and Maury Walton, 28, sons of George T. Walton, wealthy retired manufacturer and inventor.

According to police, Weston was set upon by the brothers in front of the Walton home after Theresa Ennis and Mary Cumberland, both 17, had entered the Walton home and told members of the family they were being followed by a man in an automobile while distributing calendars.

11 Colleges to Hold Disarm Parley

The colleges participating will be Bethany, West Virginia, Fairmont State Teachers, Marshall, Edinboro, Waynesburg, Grove City, Westminster, Washington and Jefferson, Georgetown Junior Center and Allegheny. The group will study the Geneva Conference in detail.

Co-Eds Dare Reno Men to Debate Divorce

They challenged the men's debate team at the University of Nevada to a debate on the question: "Should the divorce laws of Nevada be condemned?" Came the reply:

"There ins no affirmative to the question, Nevada's divorce laws can't be beat."

The women, undaunted, wired back today they're prepared to debate the affirmative themselves and asking whether the Nevada team will meet them.

DIME DONATION DRIVE GOES ON

Response to the appeal for dime contributions made by the National Prohibition Board of Strategy in Washington has been so widespread, the Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin, of Pittsburgh, national treasurer, today announced the appeal will be continued.

The board has been formed through the National Conference of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment. The conference represents the 33 leading prohibition organizations. Work of the board will be centered in fighting for dry candidates and dry planks in the national political parties for next year, Dr. Martin explained.

He said approximately a million requests have been made for the special dime folders through which the funds are being raised to carry on the work.

POLICE SHAKE-UP IN MT. LEBANON

Director of Public Safety William J. Kane, of Mt. Lebanon, announced acceptance of the resignations of a policeman and a fireman and three changes in the rank of the township's police department. Kane, in making public the changes, said they were for the good of the service.

The resignations of Patrolman A. A. Geary and Fireman William Geary Jr., his brother, were accepted.

Capt. Charles W. Senn was demoted to day turn motorcycle officer. Lieut. John Swoager was appointed acting captain and Patrolman Ted Carrington was made acting lieutenant. The vacancies will be filled after January 1.

Lang Asks $25,000 For Repair of Ramp

The Duquesne Ramp on the Manchester Bridge approach can be put into good condition at an estimated cost of $30,000, Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, informed City Council.

The wooden structure has been the basis of a number of complaints to the Public Works Department and Council, and as a result, Lang made a survey to determine the cost of repair. An agreement has been reached with the Pittsburgh Railways Company whereby $5,000 of the cost will be borne by the traction company. Lang asked Council for permission to award a contract for the work.

FIVE SENTENCED UNDER DRY LAW

Upon their conviction yesterday in Federal Court for violating the prohibition law, Nick Mordick, 32, was sentenced by Judge Nelson McVicar to pay a $300 fine and serve four months in jail, Frank E. Gilmor, 52, two months in jail, and Pete Bumbaco, 30, three months in jail. John Valeri, 49, a co-defendant who pleaded guilty, received a two months' jail sentence.

They were arrested when prohibition agents raided a moonshine whisky distillery on a farm at Imperial December 26, 1930. Gilmor testified at the trial that he had visited the farm to purchase some chickens, but the jury found him guilty with the two other defendants.

Harry Bachir, of Pittsburgh, pleaded guilty of violating the liquor law and was fined $100 and sentenced to serve four months in jail.

Woman Finds Egg With 3 Yokes, 19 With 2

Mrs. Minnie Hunter, of 1405 Merrick avenue, Brookline, while cooking today found an egg with three yolks.

In the same lot of eggs Mrs. Hunter found 19, each with two yolks.

Mrs. Hunter said she bought three dozen from a Gibsonia farmer. So far she has used 20, and the score stands 19 doubles and one triple.

Engineer Killed In Louisiana Wreck

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—J. W. Gorman, 55, of Marshall, Tex., engineer on a southbound Texas and Pacific passenger train, was killed last night when the engine and four cars went off the tracks 18 miles south of here. Railroad officials said the train was derailed near a switch which had been tampered with.

ADMIT HOLDUP, DENY LOTTERY

The reported holdup on the third floor of 518 Wylie avenue yesterday was admitted today by the proprietor, Meyer Schwartz, 26. He insisted it wasn't a numbers station, but a tailor shop.

Patrolman Hugh Lavery told of visiting the place after hearing of the raid, and finding Schwartz and four others, all of whom he arrested, playing poker. Schwartz admitted having once been in the numbers racket.

He said two stickup men took $50 from him and ignored his four friends. Lavery said there was nothing to indicate the room was a tailor shop, although there is such a shop adjoining.

PUTS DYNAMITE IN FIRE, BURNED

Hurling a dynamite cap into the open fireplace in his home may cost John Peters, 10, of Tarentum the sight of his left eye. When the cap exploded live coals were hurled about the room, slightly burning his mother, Mrs. Frank Peters, and his brother, Walter, two months old. Holes were burned in the furniture and rug. John said he found the caps on a hill nearby and carried them home, leaving 25 on the back porch.

Peddler Held Up, Bound by Bandits

NEW MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Three armed, but unmasked bandits, last night forced George Peters, 45, itinerant peddler, from his automobile and robbed him of $208 in cash and a quantity of merchandise. The highwaymen then bound Peters with one of his own blankets and fled in his automobile.

U. S. MOLLIFIES ANGRY ENVOYS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Diplomatic negotiations which almost ended because one delegation saw President Hoover before another were ready today for resumption after mediators had done their work.

Paraguayan delegates to the Chaco non-aggression pact discussions accepted a State Department explanation that no affront was intended and that it was just a mistake that sent the Bolivian group through a more privileged White House door.

Both delegations were assembled in the East room. A White House aide asked the Bolivian delegates to go into the room where the diplomatic corps was assembled. He failed to see the Paraguayan delegates.

PHILA. WORKERS PAID IN SCRIP

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Because of insufficient funds in the treasury, city employes today were paid off in individual warrants to be cashed by whoever would honor them.

This situation in the city's jumbled financial condition was brought about by the refusal of bankers to lend the city $3,500,000 for the December payrolls.

It is expected that a similar set of warrants will be prepared for the 26,000 employes in advance of Christmas for the last half of December.

The financial situation was partly brought about by the uncertainty of the city tax rate for next year. Early today City Council adjourned until Thursday without definitely fixing the rate. Today was the last under the city charter it could be fixed. Therefore, the 1931 rate automatically becomes effective for next year.

Erie Cuts Wages To Bring Tax Cut

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—A 10 per cent wage cut for all city employes, effective January 4, was ordered today as Council announced the city tax levy here for 1932 will be 13.5 mills, .3 of a mill lower than the current levy.

Prussian Bishops Oppose Communists

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Prussian Catholic Bishops' Conference has addressed a protest to the Prussian Ministry of Culture against Communists who, the conference said, were carrying on "high-handed" propaganda in the public schools.

Communist "cells" had been formed in the schools of large German cities, the conference charged, and the pupils were being incited against "religion, social reconciliation and Christian upbringing."

Diamond's Lawyer Bars Movie Goers

TROY, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(Universal.)—If you ever saw a gangster movie or read a novel about killers you are not wanted on the jury which will try "Legs" Diamond, New York racketeer, now on trial for torturing a farmer.

"Legs'" counsel, in three days of court, has accepted only eight jurors. He put the question about gangster movies and gangster novels to every juror grilled. Those who said "yes" were excused.

Death Leap Ends In Lobby of Hotel

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Harold G. Curtis, a lawyer, committed suicide today by leaping from a window of his suite on the fourth floor of the Hotel Devon. The body crashed through an inner skylight and fell on the floor of the lobby, where a dozen of the hotel's guests were lounging.

Dry Agents Raid Home in Bellevue

Prohibition agents and constables raided a moonshine plant on the second floor of a dwelling in Roosevelt avenue, Bellevue today, and reported seizing a 150-gallon still, six gallons of moonshine and 42 barrels of mash. Catherine Gormes, 36, was arrested, charged with violating the dry laws.

Taxation Making Dogs Scarce in Germany

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A "dog's life" in the worst sense of the word is in store for Berlin's canines.

Super-taxation is decimating them. The annual tax of 60 marks ($15) represents a real sacrifice to most citizens. Many dog-loving families are surrendering their pets.

In 1924, when the tax was only 20 marks, Berlin had a dog population of 180,000; today there are 40,000 less. Pessimists are predicting dogs will soon be rarities.

COAL RUSHED TO INDIANS

GALLUP, N. M., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Coal trucks are plying over a snowpacked highway between Gallup and the Presbyterian Navajo Missior, at Ganado, Ariz., to fill the bins emptied soon after a blizzard swept the region last Wednesday.

Salvaged wood, however, was burned to heat the mission while the coal reserve was built up as insurance for the comfort of the 350 residents, including 125 children. The trail was broken by two trucks, which reached Ganado Sunday night.

Dr. C. G. Salsbury, head of the mission, said there was no suffering among the Indians. All of the children have been placed in one warm dormintory, he said.

DEATH DRIVER TO STAND TRIAL

Henry Buckholtz, 50, of 1918 Carson street, a former employe of the county works department, was held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter after a coroner's inquest today.

The charge grew out of the death of Frederick Richards, 52, of South Twentieth street, a county road inspector, on December 1.

Richards was killed by an auto driven by Buckholtz as he was unloading lumber from a freight car near the Parkview county warehouse.

Buchholtz, who said he had gone to see Richards about regaining his job with the county, testified he had offered to give assistance after the accident. Witnesses branded him as a "hit-and-run" driver.

CHINESE JAILED FOR DOPE

Three Chinese were sentenced to six months in jail today for concealing and possessing 300 grains of opium at 529 Second avenue, where they were arrested in a raid by narcotic agents. A fourth, Gee Wing, was sentenced to one day.

Yee Ah Hoon, Yee Hong Chong and Wing were convicted December 2. Yee Quong Young pleaded guilty.

HITLER BLAST MODERATED

MUNICH, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Adolf Hitler's lengthy reply to Chancellor Bruening, which was to have been forwarded last night, is being toned down by his advisors, but probably will be dispatched tonight.

Hitler submitted the letter to members of the Fascist Council here to make certain its violated none of the government's recent drastic emergency decrees. Some doubts were expressed as to sharp phrases he had used and he consented to a revision of several paragraphs.

Civil War Pilot On Ohio Dies at 90

COVINGTON, Ky., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Former owner of the Cincinnati - Portsmouth - Big Sandy and Pomeroy Packet Company, Capt. Frederick A. Laidley, 90, picturesque river pilot, died at his home here yesterday.

Capt. Laidley piloted federal troops and supplies down the Ohio during the Civil War. He sold his packet holdings in 1918 to J. W. Hubbard, Pittsburgh.

15 Men Lose Jobs For Saving of $2,250

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Washington County Commissioners launched their economy program yesterday with the announcement that 15 road workers had been cut from the payrolls. The county will save $2,250 by the action, the Commissioners said.

PINCHOT URGES BOWMAN FOR STATE BODY

Falk Also Recommended for Greater Penna. Council; Other Appointments Asked

Appointment of Chancellor John G. Bowman of the University of Pittsburgh and Leo Falk, Jr., as members of the Greater Pennsylvania Council was recommended to the Senate by Gov. Pinchot last night. John Ihlder and E. T. Leech were also recommended for the council.

Selection of W. T. Root, William B. Rodgers and Edwin C. May, all of Pittsburgh, to be members of the board of trustees of Western State Penitentiary was confirmed by the Senate.

Dr. Charles W. Boyd, Sewickley, state board of Veterinary Medical Examiners.

POLE PROPOSES NEW BANK RULE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A means of removing incompetent national bank officials was urged by John W. Pole, Comptroller of the Currency, in his annual report.

In addition, he renewed his recommendation that Congress permit branch banking by national banks to strengthen the nation's financial system.

He said one of the greatest difficulties of his office was to get the management of some banks to correct various practices which, if continued, might lead to disaster to the banks and their depositors. He added:

"There should unquestionably be power lodged in a proper body to require a change in the character of the management of a going national bank where the officers and directors refused to correct conditions."

The Comptroller suggested that such power could be placed in a group composed of the Secretary of the Treasury, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board and the Comptroller.

NEW AUTO TAGS SHOW DROP

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—(AP)—License plates for 428,741 passenger and 66,545 commercial motor vehicles have been issued for 1932, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles announced. These tags may be used today.

Last year at this time license plates had been issued for 476,152 passenger cars and 76,434 commercial vehicles. Receipts from 1931 registrations at this time last year were $8,119,388. Yesterday the receipts from 1932 registrations are $7,151,875, a decrease of $967,512.

Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, said that 1931 plates will be invalid on and after January 1, 1932.

Machine Swerves Onto Walk; Strikes Second; Auto-Car Crash Hurts 2

After striking John Wolisik, 45, of 3033 Brereton avenue, and injuring him fatally, a truck swerved on the sidewalk at Twenty-eighth street and Penn avenue, last night and injured Frank Steffanowicz, 16, of 2812 Penn avenue. Wolisik died today in the West Penn Hospital.

The driver of the truck, James Allota, of 125 Twenty-fourth street, employed in the Otto Milk Company, told police he drove his truck on the sidewalk to avoid hitting Wolisik. He is being held for the Coroner.

WOMEN INJURED

Mrs. Emma Strong, 44, of 412 Thirty-fifth street, and Mrs. Ella Boston, 35, of Cumberland, Md., were recovering in South Side Hospital from cuts and bruises received when an automobile in which they were riding collided head on, with a street car at the north end of the Twenty-second Street Bridge yesterday.

The driver of the automobile, Jarhold Alm, 2805 Beaver street, McKeesport, was passing a street car on the left side when he crashed with another street car, the police report said.

HIT ON BOULEVARD

Struck by an automobile while crossing the Boulevard of the Allies, at Bates street, last night, Max Cohen, 70, of 617 Boulevard of the Allies, was injured. Mrs. Fannie Morgan, 50, of 412 Maple avenue, Edgewood, the driver, was arrested. Cohen was taken to Mercy Hospital, suffering from cuts.

J. B. Mason, 73, of 102 North Euclid avenue, was injured last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Davis Grant of 200 South Fairmont avenue, at Penn and Euclid avenues. He was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital, where it was said he was suffering from a fractured skull.

Ben Silverman, 28, of 5806 Jackson street, was injured slightly early today when the automobile in which he was riding was in collision with a machine driven by G. M. Thompson, 36, of 319 South Lang avenue, at Hays and North Negley avenue. Both drivers were arrested on charges of reckless driving.

Link Opera School In Alien Smuggling

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Carmen Ferraro, Sr., head of the International Grand Opera School of Chicago, was indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The indictment alleged he advertised widely he could get aliens into the country as non-quota citizens by representing them as students of opera.

FATHER HOGAN FUNERAL SET FOR FRIDAY

Four Priests to Take Part in Requiem Mass; Burial at Springdale

Four priests, chosen by the Rev. Wilham M. Hogan, 50, before his death Sunday night, will take part in the solemn requiem mass in St. Alphonso's Roman Catholic Church, Springdale, at 10 a. m. Friday. A solemn high mass will be said tomorrow morning in St. Patrick's Church, Seventeenth street, after which the body will be taken to Springdale, to the church where he was pastor.

Father Hogan, former A. E. F. chaplain in France, and well-known in Pittsburgh, died in St. Joseph's Hospital.

He studied and was ordained from St. Vincent's College and Seminary, and served as assistant pastor at St. Catherine's, Beechview; St. Leonard's, Monessen; Holy Innocents, Sheraden, and then became chaplain, serving overseas. Following the war he was chaplain in St. Joseph's Hospital, pastor of St. Michael's, Avella, and last July was given the pastorate of St. Alphonso's.

The body reposed today in St. Patrick's rectory. It will be moved into the church tomorrow morning for the requiem. The Rev. James R. Cox will celebrate the mass, assisted by Revs. Leo Sebringer, of Overbrook, and Aloysius Angel, of Castle Shannon.

The mass in St. Alphonso's Church Friday will be celebrated by Father William Kelly, of Crafton, assisted by the Rev. Albert Wigley, of St. John the Baptist Church, Thirty-fourth street; the Rev. Thomas Bryson, of Mt. Lebanon, and the Rev. Ralph Hayes, of Beechview.

Leopold-Loeb Expert Joins Coroner Staff

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Dr. James Whitney Hall, widely known as a psychiatrist, has announced his acceptance of an appointment as criminologist on the staff of Coroner Frank Walsh.

Dr. Hall made a study of the defendants in the Loeb-Leopold murder case, describing the killers of Bobby Franks as "psychopathic inferiors."

Kiwanian Heads Inter-Club Body

Ed Ludwig, past president of the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh, today was the newly elected president of the Inter-Club Council of Pittsburgh, assuming duties at the January meeting. M. Nirdlinger, architect, was named vice president, and William Coyle re-elected secretary-treasurer. The club is composed of past presidents of eight service clubs.

Pupils Use Bank Savings to Keep Schools Open

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—School children in suburban Oak Park are taking their savings out of banks in order to buy tax anticipation warrants which are being sold to raise funds to keep the schools open.

Like Chicago, Oak Park has been having trouble getting money to run the schools due to a tax muddle, resulting from a property reassessment.

Delay Retrial Plea For 'Dream Slayer'

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Argument for a new trial in the case of Mrs. Evelyn Harader, 45, so-called "dream slayer" by Judge A. G. Hughes, Mrs. of Cecil F. Michael, has been postponed "until after the holidays" Harader was convicted of first degree murder last Saturday.

COUNCIL BEGINS 3RD WEEK ON BUDGET JOB

Reductions Total $660,000; Heated Disputes Feature Slashing $70,000 Sum

Budget estimates totaling $660,000 for 1932 had been slashed by Council today as the third week of appropriation activities opened.

More than $70,000 was pared from departmental and bureau requests at a heated session yesterday, featured by arguments among the various members of Council. Of this amount, the largest reduction was for temporary employes of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers. The appropriation for this type of labor was slashed from $100,000 to $75,000.

The plan to dispense with horse teams in the bureau was frowned upon temporarily when Harry J. Neely, chief clerk of the bureau, informed Council the change from teams to trucks would necessitate an additional outlay of nearly $1,800 for 1932.

Council, after hearing the decision on its plan which was thought might result in a reduction in the budget, ordered Public Works Director Edward G. Lang to report on the feasibility of the idea at once. His report is likely to be received and acted upon this morning.

Superintendents of the Leech Farm Tuberculosis Sanitarium and the Municipal Hospital were instructed to take an immediate inventory of their foodstuffs stocks and report their findings to Council. Chairman W. Y. English of the budget committee, said this was to be done in an effort to reduce the hospital and sanitarium appropriations. An inventory by Dr. James S. Hammers, superintendent at Mayview, disclosed that enough supplies were on hand to reduce his appropriation for next year, $87,500.

"DOPE.."

Did you say there was DOPE in some cough syrups?"

"Barry caught a 'party cough.' Too much ice-cream, too much excitement. I gave him Smith Brothers'. It was wonderful. One hour—and he was all well again—not a sign of a cough left!" Mrs. F. McMenamin, N. Y.

YES—so says the chemist's report. He found Chloroform, Ether, Opium, and other drugs in many cough syrups . . . Are you using a dope-drugged syrup? Check up! If the syrup contains dope it says so on the label (that's the law!). Read that label—and decide if you want to give your child such medicine.

Smith Brothers Cough Syrup contains NO DOPE. It doesn't have to. A new scientific discovery, "Triple Action," stops coughs quickly—without dope or drugs. Smith Brothers' is safe for children. It can't upset little stomachs. Children gobble it up like candy—it tastes so good. Only 35c.

SOUND PRICING PRESENT NEED

Crediting present conditions with bringing the better things of life to a greater number of people

Mr. Hirschmann

Declaring the stores now offer individual, highly styled clothes in the best taste at prices that are within reach of everyone, he said:

"Advertisers are learning many things. Daily sales figures, the need for quick returns on retail advertising, make is difficult to get away with much. Since price as the major factor is impelling people to buy, assuming quality and style are there, it is examined as never before. We must have sound pricing, not cut pricing. A customer must be given her money's worth in a declining market and she must have it presented to her intelligently and sincerely. The customer's common sense has been sharpened."

Killer Pleads Guilty, Awaits Sentence

After he had been placed on trial in Criminal Court for murder before Judge Harry H. Rowand, James W. Craig, 45, of 745 Wymore street, West End, changed his plea to guilty of voluntary manslaughter, and will be sentenced January 4. He was accused by A. W. Garnett, said Ballard, of slaying Stephen Landser, 51, apparently died from inhaling fight. Landser died from a fractured skull. Craig said he had been drinking and that he only remembered hitting Landser once.

Wrecked Auto Fumes Kill Passenger

MADISON, W. Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Omer Ballard, 31, of Danville, was killed yesterday when he was thrown from an overturned automobile and fell with his face near the end of the wrecked car's exhaust pipe. Prosecuting Attorney A. W. Garnett said Ballard died from inhaling monoxide fumes. Walter Hedrick, Turtle Creek farmer, driver of the car, was arrested and held under $500 bond charged with involuntary manslaughter.

JINGLES GIVE POLICEMAN PRAISE

Greensburg Entrant Wins $5 'Last Line' Award; No. 34 for Rhymesters

If the traffic policemen of Pittsburgh and nearby cities could read all the word bouquets handed to them by the hundreds of Sun-Telegraph readers who sent in last lines of Christmas Jingle No. 27, they would feel well repaid for the courtesies they accord pedestrians and motorists.

Gertrude McCarthy, 528 West Newton avenue, Greensburg, according to the judges, seemed to get the most interesting slant at the problem, and was awarded the Sun-Telegraph check for $5 for her Christmas shopping. Here is how she completed the Jingle: A traffic policeman named Yost Was sure to be found at his post;

Be the day wet or fair
His good nature was there
The most for the least was his boast.

The five $1 prize winners were: C. O. Leach, 510 Glenn street, Wilmerding; Mrs. Paul C. Lottes, 719 Savannah avenue, Wilkinsburg; Mrs. B. R. Bruce, 416 Ohio avenue, Rochester; Mrs. Selma B. Hessinger, 1627 Brownsville road, and E. J. Hess, 119 Third avenue, Clarion.

Try your hand on No. 34, appearing on this page today. The "last line" judged the best will win $5 and the next five $1 each.

All readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, with the exception of employes, are invited to enter the "Christmas Jingle" contest. You can send in as many last lines as you like. Equal awards will be paid to readers whose answers are tied in the judging. You do not have to buy a Sun-elegraph to enter this contest. You may examine the files of this newspaper at the public library or at any one of the offices of the Sun-Telegraph, where you may make a tracing of the "Christmas Jingles" blank if you wish.

Each Sun-Telegraph "Christmas Jingle" will be consecutively numbered.

BETHLEHEM JOB AID LAUDED

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has volunteered to "give work relief to all employes on its Lackawanna payroll who are receiving less than a living wage," Jesse Isidor Straus, chairman of the temporary emergency relief administration, announced today.

Straus said that Eugene Grace, president, and the entire Bethlehem management had co-operated fully in relieving the situation in Lackawanna, one of the so-called "black spots" where unemployment suffering was most serious. Straus said:

"I only hope that other industrial organizations will see fit, whenever they are financially able, to follow this lead. It not only is to be praised from a humanitarian viewpoint, but, in my judgment, this type of endeavor will also do much to stimulate and encourage the revival of purchasing power and in this way, perhaps, assist in the general economic recovery."

FIVE WILDWOOD RIOTERS APPEAL

Joseph Soich, Thomas Meyerscough, Mike Federoff, Robert Young and Kitty Priselac, five of the 16 persons convicted a month ago, in Criminal Court, on charges of inciting to riot and rioting in connection with the disorder at the Wildwood mine last June, filed appeals from their conviction and sentences in the Pennsylvania Superior Court yesterday.

Young and Meyerscough were sentenced to two years in the workhouse, and the other appellants also received workhouse sentences. Meyerscough was a candidate for District Attorney on the Communist ticket. The disorder was charged to the National Miners' Union.

$750 Spanking Held Too Costly For Teacher

CROOKSTON, Minn., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A good old fashioned spanking may be worth something, but not $750.

Judge William Watts so decided in granting a new trial to John A. Hughes, Red Lake Falls, (Minn.) superintendent of schools against whom a jury assessed $750 damages for spanking Vay Rewarts a pupil for the proverbial offense of putting a tack on a seat used by a girl student.

Judge Watts held the amount of the verdict was too high and that the law of the state permitted the use of violence in a reasonable manner by a teacher to correct pupils.

5 PHILA. BANKS LIQUIDATED

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Announcement of liquidation of five Philadelphia banks, together with Littlestown and Harrisburg institutions, was made yesterday by State Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon.

He said the Franklin Trust Company, second largest of the 33 banks in the Philadelphia district to close within the last year, and the Merian Title and Trust Company would be liquidated.

Depositors of the Manheim Title and Trust Company will be mailed checks in time to cash them for Christmas, Gordon said, while dividends from the County Trust Company and the Wharton Title and Trust Company wil be distributed December 23. Dividends for all three institutions will be 10 per cent.

Checks for 10 per cent payment to depositors of the closed Security Trust Company, Harrisburg, and for 20 per cent dividends from the Littlestown Savings institution will be ready December 23, Gordon said.

4 Bank Officials Face 87 Indictments

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The grand jury has returned 87 indictments against four officials of the closed Girard Avenue Title and Trust Company, charging embezzlements aggregating $441,750.

Edward A. McVeigh, treasurer and secretary, was charged with false entries, forgeries and embezzlements amounting to $46,412. John F. Gibbons, Jr., his assistant, was named in 26 similar counts involving $103,970. George M. Ryan, assistant treasurer and son of the bank president, was charged with peculations of $191,266, and Edwin J. Logue, teller and bookkeeper, with $35,000.

Hickory Bank Pays 25 Per Cent Dividend

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—Checks for 25 per cent of their deposits were being received today by depositors of the closed Farmers National Bank of Hickory.

Eight hundred and forty-five persons were to receive the dividend, which totals $108,220.91.

Chicago Banks Free Funds for Christmas

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—There's going to be a Santa Claus this Christmas for depositors of 14 closed Cook County banks, it was indicated today. State auditor Oscar Nelson signed an order by which the banks are expected to turn over $5,000,000 to depositors before Christmas.

Marion, Ohio, Bank Fails to Open Doors

MARION, O., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Marion National Bank with resources of $1,911,422 failed to open today and was placed in the hands of the comptroller of currency for liquidation. The bank, one of the oldest in this section, had capital of $200,000, surplus of $100,000 and deposits of $1,143,094.

Commissioner Loses Trousers to Thief

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—County Commissioner John P. Kilgore, of Southwest Greensburg, surprised a burglar ransacking his room, and, although he gave chase, the burglar escaped with a pair of trousers belonging to the county official.

The burglar had removed all electric light bulbs from the first floor of the home, and his escape was made easier.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

University Enjoined In Finance Dispute

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—A temporary court injunction has been granted to former officials of the Atlantic University, at Virginia Beach, preventing the institution's officials from disposing of assets pending hearing on their petition for receiverships.

The petition was filed by Dr. Holly E. Cunningham and W. L. Taylor, dismissed officials of the school. They declared the institution established last year by Dr. William M. Brofn, defeated anti-Smith gubernatorial candidate in 1929, is "hopelessly insolvent."

DOLL LADY

Is Bringing to Hundreds of Little Girls of Pittsburgh and Vicinity With Her Adorable

"HONEYBUNCH"

...the Welcome Playmate and the Aristocrat of All Dolls...

Dear Little Girls:—

I am not going to write much of a letter today. They say that pictures tell a story better than words. So I am going to let the picture above tell today's story of "Honeybunch" for me. To my mind, there is no greater happiness than looking into the face of a happy child. I want you all to look at this little girl's picture. Isn't she happy? Doesn't her face express supreme pleasure and satisfaction? And look at her "Honeybunch." Doesn't this dolly really look as though she was also happy—happy because she has found such a lovely little girl for a playmate? And isn't "Honeybunch" almost as big as the little girl? She surely is.

It was my pleasure to meet this little girl. Her name is Peggy Lou McCarthy and she lives on Elizabeth Street, Homestead Park. She is five years old. She came into the Doll Lady's headquarters, all excited, Saturday morning and when she saw "Honeybunch" she almost danced with joy. Now I have often thought that the most of the little girls who get my big doll give her a new name like Ruth, Marie, Alice, Esther, or Patricia, or anyone of scores of names. So I asked this little girl what she was going to name her doll and without hesitation, although sweetly shyly, she quickly replied, "Honeybunch." So, perhaps, the little girls will not change the name of "Honeybunch" after all. I hope not because I love that name and I thought for a long, long time before I gave her this pretty name. It seems to just fit this big bunch of loveliness and sweetness.

Now it isn't too late for you to get a "Honeybunch" before Christmas. I have lots of these beautiful big dolls on hand. They are waiting for you. Send me your name and address and the coupon in this announcement and I'll write and tell you how you can get a "Honeybunch" all to yourself.

Here are the names of some of the little girls of Pittsburgh who have already secured "Honeybunch" for a playmate—Louise Reimers, 1115 Blackadore Ave.; Gene Hlowati, 618 Chestnut St.; Agnes Schmitt, 6516 Dean St.; Margaret McBride, 7101 Upland St.; Peggy Lou McCarthy, Elizabeth St.; Angeline Butera, 430 Justus Ave.; Mrs. F. Hoffman, 809 Madison Ave.; Clara Kubisiak, 1910 Larkins Way, Loretta Manella, 5230 Hillcrest St.; Irene Andiorio, 4204 Stanley St.; Mary C. Monteverde, 364 West Penn Place; Ruby Rogers, 46 Manilla St.; Dorothy Koska, 1518 Valentine St.; Rose Rubenstein, 1610 Bedford Ave.

SEE HUGE AUTO MARKET HERE

Surveys showing that the Pittsburgh area will be in the market for the purchase of 152,600 new automobiles in 1932, because of reduced buying during the past two years, will be presented to Detroit automobile officials here tomorrow.

Mr. Pierpoint

William R. Tracy, sales executive of the Hudson Motor Car Company, will head the Detroit party which will confer with J. R. Pierpoint of the Pierpoint Motor Company, distributors of Hudson and Essex cars and with the heads of local sales organizations in this territory. Representatives of about 80 selling organizations will attend the meeting and be given a private preview of the new 1932 Hudson and Essex models.

In announcing the meeting Mr. Pierpoint said:

Mr. Tracy

"Our surveys shows that for the past two years owners have purchased new automobiles only when absolutely necessary. Normal purchases of new automobiles in this territory usually approximate 104,100 each year. However, approximately only 160,600 cars were bought during 1930 and 1931, leaving a deficiency of approximately 48,500 cars for these two years. This deficiency, plus normal purchases, makes an unprecedented potential market for the sale of approximately 152,600 new automobiles in this territory in 1932."

In addition to local dealers, heads of approximately 30 sales organizations in Wheeling and Youngstown will attend the meeting.

COAL SALE PLAN HIT BY UNION

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—No protection to the public from unfair coal prices and to the miners from unfair wages and working conditions is provided by the plan to stabilize the bituminous coal industry proposed by the general committee of bituminous coal operators.

That was the contention of Henry Warrum, general counsel of the United Mine Workers of America, in a letter sent today to Secretary of Labor William N. Doak.

Warrum charged the plan of the mine owners is a clear violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

SOLOMAN HEARS FATE FRIDAY

Charles Soloman, of 1618 Bedford avenue, who as assistant city treasurer, embezzled $3,000 collected in taxes and who pleaded guilty last April 28, will learn his fate next Friday, District Attorney Andrew T. Park has set the case for final disposition then.

In 11 counts of a charge of embezzlement and fraudulent conversion, Soloman was indicted after City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley and his chief investigator, Arthur G. Burgoyne, had testified before the grand jury. Soloman, it was testified, had gone among persons waiting in line to pay their taxes, accepted the money and issued bogus receipts. After pleading guilty, sentence was postponed to October 15 to permit restitution.

Wife-Beater Sings As Celebrating Mate Is Jailed

CHARLEROI, Pa., Dec. 15.—Her husband serving a 10-day sentence for wife-beating, Mrs. Anthony Kinczinski, Monessen, and her 20-year-old daughter, Mary, were also in jail after what was termed by police as a wild party in their home. Five men were also arrested.

Police had to threaten Kinczinki with an additional 10-day sentence for cheering and singing in his cell, when they notified him of his wife's arrest.

Forfeits were posted by the party participants.

Wife Beater Sent To Whipping Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Ten lashes at the whipping post was the punishment prescribed today for Joseph C. Carlton, Takoma Park, Md., carpenter, on a charge of wife beating.

BRIDE OFFERS TO QUIT PRINCE

BELGRADE, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Mme. Jana Lucia Delet), pretty commoner bride of Prince Nicholas, of Rumania, is reported to have offered to lay her love on the altar of sacrifice for her husband.

Informed circles here say she has expressed a willingness to give up the Prince to save him from losing his royal title, and that she sent a message to King Carol declaring she is willing to recognize an annulment of the marriage.

She could never forgive herself, she is said to have told the King, if because of her Nicholas suffered all the disadvantages of being expelled from the family.

RAILWAYS NAME PAY CONFEREES

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—A committee appointed by the Eastern Presidents' Conference today made arrangements to meet railroad union representatives to "negotiate to a conclusion" on wages and employment.

Authorization for this action was given the committee after a protracted meeting of the conference, which, with other railroad managements, seeks to reduce employes' wages 10 per cent.

The committee is composed of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, and Charles E. Denney, president of the Erie.

The western and the southeastern railroad managements were to meet this week to consider similar action to that of the eastern roads, which was taken at the instance of Railway Labor Executives' Association.

Daughter Kills Mother in Quarrel

PRESTONSBURG, Ky., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Mrs. Bertha Burchett, 35, mother of three children, shot and killed her mother, Mrs. Xelle Thompson, 70, at her home today during a domestic quarrel.

After the shooting Mrs. Burchett surrendered to Sheriff W. A. Dingus. She told the authorities that she had to shoot in self-defense.

"You needn't tell me —I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!"

Here's why they're FRESH!

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

THERE is of course a sound reason why the Camel Humidor Pack can deliver to Camel smokers a cigarette that is genuinely fresh.

Camels are made fresh to start with, fresh with natural moisture — blended of the choicest, delicately mild, full-mellow, sun-ripened tobaccos that money can buy.

The full natural goodness of these fine tobaccos is safeguarded at every step in their handling—they are never parched or toasted—the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we can say with every assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh — not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

The delights of a genuinely fresh cigarette are so rare and desirable that Camel popularity continues to mount daily to new highs.

Test these delights for yourself—see what true freshness means in cool, slow-burning, delicate mildness—switch to Camels for just one day, then leave them — if you can.

LOU GEHRIG SETS RUNS-BATTED-IN MARK

Yellow Jackets to Send Changed Lineup Against Stars Tonight

YANKEES DRAW 748 PASSES FOR RECORD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Lou Gehrig, siege gun of the Yankees, established a new American League record for runs batted in as he led the circuit for the second consecutive year in the past season. Official figures issued today disclose that the clever firstbaseman sent 184 tallies across the plate to break the mark of 175 which he compiled in 1927.

Lou Gehrig

Twelve players, including Joe Cronin, former Pirate, were over the century mark. The shortstop star of the Senators totaled 126 runs batted in.

Earl Webb, once a Cub, proved a distinctive sensation for the lowly Red Sox as he batted in 103 markers.

Johnny Vosmick, the hard-hitting young star of the Cleveland club, smashed in 117 runs as he rode to fame. Ben Chapman, of the Yankees, recorded 122. Lynford Lary, of the Yankees, made the grade with 107. Other features disclosed by the Howe News Bureau follow:

Ruth was second with 163 runs driven in, this being the tenth season he has sent 100 or more teammates over the plate. Ruth also received 128 base on balls, the tenth year he has been the recipient of 100 or more free tickets to first. By striking out but 51 times the Babe set a new low mark for himself in his perennial battle with the pitchers.

Ruth led in base on balls, with 128, while Blue accepted 127. The only other players honored by the pitchers with more than 100 tickets were Gehrig, with 117, and Max Bishop, with 112.

New York set a new world record by receiving 748 base on balls, the previous high being 681 by Detroit in 1915. April 15, in a nine-inning game, Henry Johnson and Roy Sherid, of New York, struck out 15 Boston players.

Local Swimmers Try Out for Team

Twenty-five swimmers, representing Pitt, Tech, Homestead Library, Coyne A. C., Kennywood Park S. C. and the P. A. A., competed for places on the all-Pittsburgh swimming team which will meet the University of Michigan natators here Saturday, at the tryouts held yesterday at the Natatorium.

An added feature of the meet with Michigan will be an attempt by Lenora Kight, of Homestead Library, to break the women's record for the 220-yard free style. The present record of 2:53 2-5 was established by Josephine McKim in 1925, who at that time also represented the Homestead club.

Navy Retains Rip Miller as Coach

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Rip Miller, football coach of the Naval Academy, and his staff of three assistants will be retained for next year. This was Miller's first season.

Reports current here today said the annual classic which Army and Navy held for charity in 1930-31 under an official status, would be continued without any mention of the three-year eligibility rule which caused their split.

Kirchner Named St. Vincent Captain

LATROBE, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Manny Kirchner, Lancaster (Pa.) quarterback, will be the captain of the 1932 football team at St. Vincent College, it was announced at the annual football banquet last night.

Kirchner was selected by Head Coach Clem Crowe, former Notre Dame star. Heretofore the captain was elected.

CARDS TO KEEP HACK WILSON

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—President Sam Breadon, of the St. Louis Cardinals, has announced he has decided definitely to keep Hack Wilson and the former home run slugger of the Cubs would be given every opportunity to "come back."

"Of course," Breadon said, "if some club were to make a sensational offer for Wilson, we would consider it and might accept. But I expect no offer that would make us part with Wilson."

DUKES QUINTET WINS, 46-38

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 15.—In a lightning fast game featured by heavy scoring on both sides, Duquesne University defeated the Central Parking Atlantics, 46 to 38, on the Paulist hall floor last night.

Although Duquesne was not overtaken, the locals forced the scoring in the latter part of the first half and were within three points of the visitors midway in the second half.

The long shooting of Poole and Cavalero featured the game. Brenner, with five baskets, led the scoring for Duquesne University. The lineup:

Cen. Parking 38.		Dukes 46.
Poole	F	Zerilla
Cavalero	F	Irwin
Shoemaker	C	Brenner
Donohoe	G	Davies
Bayer	G	Wilder

Substitutes: Feldman, McDougal, Mc-Grever, Moore, Foster. Field goals: Zerilla 2, Feldman, Irwin 2, McDougal, Brenner 5, McGrever 3, Moore, Wilder, Foster 3, Poole 5, Cavalero 4, Shoemaker 3, Bayer, Foule, Duquesne 4, each of 15. Central Parking 12 out of 25. Referee—Kummer.

Catone Is Honored At Swissvale Fete

Joe Catone, fullback, was chosen honorary captain of the team at the annual football banquet tendered Swissvale High gridders in a Wilkinsburg hotel last night. More than 100 attended, and honored guests and speakers included Murray Armentrout, Carnegie leader, and Eddie Hirshberg, Pitt captain.

Dr. Kennedy was toastmaster, and speakers were Supt. of Schools C. C. Kelso, Jock Rosenberg, Rankin High coach, and L. Rogers, Stewart Davis and Dr. L. M. Smith, of the Swissvale School Board.

GORDY FRASER BACK IN ACTION FOR LOCALS

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 15.—The Stars, local International Hockey League representatives, will attempt to vault out of the circuit cellar at the expense of the Yellow Jackets when they meet the Pittsburgh skaters here tonight.

A victory will enable the Stars to pass London and advance into sixth place in the standings. The Jackets, deadlocked with the Windsor Bulldogs, who also play tonight, for fourth place, can advance into a tie with Cleveland for third place by turning in a triumph.

STARS IN SHAPE

The local warriors held the Indians to a 1-1 deadlock in Cleveland in their last start, and they are in fine condition, both mentally and physically, to give the visitors a warm welcome.

The Stars battled the Jackets to a 2-2 tie in their only other meeting this season in Pittsburgh in the opening game of the campaign.

When the Steel City icemen arrived here today, Charley Reid, their coach, brought bad news in the form of an announcement that Gordy Fraser, defense ace who has been out of the lineup with a knee injury, would return to action tonight.

TO CHANGE LINEUP

Rodden, who has been the starting pivot, is suffering from a hip injury, and he is to perform on the first reserve front line until he regains top form.

The probable lineup:

Pittsburgh		Syracuse
Cox	G	Miller
Fraser	G	Tessier
Merritt	R. W.	Prentis
E. McCaw	L. W.	Smith
Arbour	C.	Marks
Ingram	C.	Rodden

REFEREE AL GRAYBER WILLIE DAVIES

N. Y. U. ADOPTS NEW POLICY

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—A new athletic policy, aiming to eliminate subsidization and recruiting of football players and generally reducing emphasis on football, has been announced by New York University.

The new athletic program, officially adopted last January, will determine the selection of the successor to John F. (Chick) Meehan, who resigned the office of football coach on Sunday.

FOUR OBJECTIVES

The principal objectives of the policy are:

1. Elimination of spring practice.

2. Shortening of the fall practice period.

3. Elimination of all recruiting and subsidization.

4. Extension of the intramural sports program and the sport for sport's sake idea.

The statement issued under the name of Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown with the concurrence of the board of athletic control, frankly admitted the error of New York University's policy in the past.

No effort was made to place the responsibility on Meehan's shoulders. The outlining of the program was made in conjunction with an acknowledgment of Meehan's withdrawal from the coaching department.

DI MEOLO SILENT

Luby DiMeolo, former Pitt guard star and captain of the undefeated Panther eleven of 1929, who has been assistant coach to Meehan at N. Y. U., for the past two years, is being considered as Chick's successor according to reports from New York.

DiMeolo, interviewed at his home in Corapolis this morning, was noncommittal and refused to discuss the matter, explaining that he knew nothing about the situation and had no plans for the future.

crew blood from the nose, mouth and right ear in the first eight-rounder, but the judges voted for Silas as the winner, while the referee, whose vote did not count, called the bout a draw. McArthur was clearly the winner, despite a desperate closing rally by Silas, who was cut up so badly that Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, announced he would use Tiger Joe Randall as a substitute for him against Marty McHale, of McKeesport, in his main bout Thursday night. Both McArthur and Silas scaled in at 140 pounds.

FLANAGAN BEATS TRACEY

Billy Flanagan, of Braddock, 160, rallied from a knockdown for a count of eight in the second round to outfight Jack Tracey, Negro, of the North Side, 159½, in the six-round second bout, flooring Tracey for a count of two in the fourth round. In an earlier meeting Tracey won by a knockout over the blond belter.

Eddie Kennedy alternated with Al Grayber as referee, and the judges were Frank Brown and Frank Ferris, with A. C. Couch and Norman Borland doing the timing and Bill Shuster acting as the announcer.

Between Rounds

E. B. Carpenter, of New Kensington, boxes Frankie Brown in the six-round main bout of a show in Cleveland. Three days' night, Johnny Buff and Jack Portney get head a card there the following night.

The Alvin, where the Professional Players are sponsoring that charming play, "The House Beautiful," attracted such throngs of people last night and there were so many lovely gowns, I don't know quite where to begin.

Caroline Mitchell represented the season's debutante set, graceful in a gown of scarlet lace and stiffened net, with which she wore a wrap of black velvet having an ermine tippet.

A dinner gown of black crepe with a bodice of powder blue satin was worn by Mrs. Benedict Greenawalt Annan and I caught a glimpse of her sister Helen Lewis.

Mrs. Gordon Eaton in a gown of black and gold lame was with her mother Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock who had chosen black velvet for her costume.

Martha Edmondson I saw and the A. C. Martins of Greensburg with Mrs. Martin in King's blue broadtail velvet. Mrs. Arthur P. Woodlock's gown was of red crepe with a wrap of lame and sable.

I noticed Mrs. A. Pollard Brice as she entered the house and the junior George L. Craigs with Mrs. Craig in yellow crepe and a black velvet and ermine wrap.

Mrs. T. M. Jones III was stunning in a peacock blue crepe gown having a flowing skirt and a jacket with long bell sleeves prettily banded in Kolinsky. Mrs. H. C. Bushman, Jr., chose a small model in deep cream satin having long flowing sleeves banded with mink and a long mink scarf.

Black velvet was the choice of Mrs. Elizabeth Vernooy and Yellow satin with a knee length wrap of black velvet trimmed with white fox [illegible] Mrs. Charles [illegible] Hilliard Evans chatting with the lovely debutante Jessie Wescott in scintillating black satin and Laura Evans in black crepe having the neckline [illegible] with ermine and Mrs. R. Keith Barnsdall in white crepe.

Mrs. Francis Bacon Rodgers was charming in black chiffon having a peplum at the hipline and an electric blue velvet wrap. Her mother Mrs. James Francis Bacon were black lace and chiffon with a black velvet wrap. And I caught a glimpse of Miss Alice Grey in black crepe and velvet. Mrs. Leonard S. Monge the former Nancy Allderdice was regal in green satin and Mrs. Wallace Hunter Rowe Jr. chose beige velvet. I also noticed Mrs. George Wittmer III.

Mrs. Gordon Knight's gown was of black velvet with an ermine wrap and Mrs. Harris Williams of black georgette. Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III was among the audience in black lace as were the Junior H. H. McClintics. Mrs. McClintic was in blue satin. Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson chose black crepe and Mrs. Harvey Childs III black velvet. Mrs. A. Rex Flinn I saw in brown crepe and Mrs. T. Howe Nemick chatting in the foyer wearing wine velvet. Mrs. John F. Walton chose black satin with a bodice of rose-beige satin, and I saw Mrs. George H. Love in blue and silver lame.

A gown of green lace was the choice of Mrs. Frederic Ickes Metzler and brown and beige printed crepe that of Mrs. B. F. Jones III. Mrs. Lewis A. Park wore claret velvet with a mink coat.

I saw Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby wearing black velvet with a mink coat and the Edward Purcell Mellons II, with Mrs. Mellon in black crepe and lace and a black velvet and ermine wrap. Mrs. Frank Weiderman chose beige and black lace, with the bodice of beige lace having a peplum. And I noticed Mrs. Raymond D. Evans and Mrs. Flora Friday Ahlberg.

Pageant, Movie and Santa Claus Party Entertain Members And Their Children

Three separate events marked the Christmas meeting of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club in the United Presbyterian Church yesterday. In one assembly room the women themselves gathered for their Christmas program, a pageant entitled "The Hope of the World," while downstairs their pre-school children were entertained at a movie and a Santa Claus party. Then, when school was dismissed for the afternoon, the older sons and daughters came trooping in for their share of the good time.

The pageant, which was written by Mrs. Robert P. Kunz, was produced by her with impressiveness, the splendid singing of the club choral, with organ accompaniment, adding greatly to the effect. The somewhat unique scenery was the work of Mrs. H. D. Arlen and was augmented by firs and ferns. The costumes, too, were original and were well conceived, especially those of the Wise Men.

Among the principals in the cast were Mrs. Harry Swartz, Mrs. Harold Bucher, Mrs. B. H. Conaway, Mrs. Kaye Estep, Mrs. A. C. Beltz, Mrs. Louis Mackey, Mrs. James Townsend, Mrs. H. M. Leathers, Mrs. J. V. Gilfillan, Mrs. Eugene Lynde, Mrs. Ernest Giles, Mrs. Arthur Klein, Mrs. E. R. Merrill, Mrs. G. R. Day, Mrs. R. S. Godard, Mrs. Herman Hofmann, Mrs. C. L. Hickling, Mrs. A. M. Ramsey and Mrs. T. H. Wilson. The entire choral took part and a number of small daughters were "the heavenly host."

The Woman's City Club has been forced to cancel the reading of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which Chester Marvin Wallace was scheduled to give this afternoon at the drama tea. In its place Elmer Kenyon, head of the drama school at Carnegie Institute of Technology, is discussing O'Neill's new play, "Mourning Becomes Electra."

At the tea tables are Mrs. Robert E. Withers, Mrs. Carl L. Peirce, Jr., and Mrs. Edwin J. Searles. The aides include Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby, Mrs. Edwin F. Scheetz, Miss Katherine MacCloskey and Miss Mary Louise Succop. The hours are from 4 until 6 o'clock.

Miss Celia Razovsky, executive secretary of the department of service for the foreign born, National Council of Jewish Women, will address the Pittsburgh section on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Y. M. and W. H. A. Miss Razovsky, who has achieved international fame and distinction for her work in connection with the foreign born, has chosen for her subject "Problems of Immigration and Adult Immigrant Education."

Mrs. W. D. Reid, president of the Bellevue Woman's Literary Club, is hostess this afternoon for the club's Christmas party. For the program Mrs. W. H. Gorman is discussing Christmas customs in other lands and Mrs. J. Smith Christy is directing a double quartet in Christmas music from those lands. Santa is making an appearance during the social hour which is in charge of Mrs. John L. Gerber and her social committee. Gifts of warm clothing and canned goods, brought by the members, will be distributed among the poor.

In response to roll call at yesterday's meeting of the Monday Club of Carnegie, each member contributed a package for Christmas distribution among the needy. Mrs. James Scott was hostess for the meeting in the Y. W. C. A. Christmas carols by Mrs. David Tully and Mrs. E. W. Steinmetz, accompanied by Mrs. John Bisham, and reading of Van Dyke's "Story of the Other Wise Man," by W. F. H. Wentzel, made up the program.

A novel feature is being arranged for the annual charity ball of the Southern Club, which will be an event of December 28 in the Hotel Schenley. Mrs. C. Perry Kiefer has adapted "The House of the Dolls," which will be presented by a number of daughters of the club and their friends, each of whom will be a doll or toy in the colorful, attractive sketch. The dance numbers are being directed by Karl Heinrich, and include a dance of the wooden soldiers and a doll dance as well as several solos. The supper-room, off the ballroom, will be transformed into the doll shop by means of balloons and many toys.

An open forum on immigration, a paper by Mrs. Florence Swift on illegal immigration and one on migration by Miss Elizabeth L. [illegible] made up the literary portion of yesterday's program for the Literary and Musical Club. The music was by Miss Winona Hill, Mrs. F. J. Hartman and Mrs. George D. Ewart, pianos, and Mrs. C. B. Duff and Mrs. C. Ellsworth Parker, who sang Christmas songs.

John Mason Brown, dramatic critic, author and lecturer, who spoke at the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning, believes the general depression has not been without some good results in the theater. Broadway, he said, has been overpopulated by people who thought they must do something for the arts. Numerous bad actors have gravitated towards Hollywood and have proved their mediocrity, and a number of small theaters have been closed. But one survival which Mr. Brown regards as a threat is that audiences have become rational-minded and anti-theatrical and the theater fails to receive the emotional response which it should.

Mr. Brown also commented on the changes which the stage has undergone since the war. The actor is no longer the dominant feature, except in a few cases. In speaking of Eugene O'Neill, Mr. Brown says he disregards the theater and makes it bow down to him, writing each play in a new manner. Mr. Brown discussed the latest O'Neill play "Mourning Becomes Electra" at length. He paid a tribute to Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, saying they have no counterparts in generosity; that each plays to show the other off, not to show him up, and that they acted as individuals, taking advantage of their marriage license.

A number of current plays were discussed most interestingly.

A personal greeting card from the president, Mrs. Garnet E. Cooper, was given to every member of the Homewood Women's Club at the Christmas meeting yesterday in Homewood Carnegie Library. Santa, in the person of Mrs. John Taylor, was present with a sack full of gifts and the program was entirely in keeping with the season. Christmas carols were sung by the audience, Miss Pearl Cyphers accompanying, and also by the choral of the Wilkinsburg Civic Club, with Mrs. Bertha Gross King at the piano. Mrs. King and Miss Louise Sickenberger gave a piano duet and a trio consisting of Doris Eades, piano; Helen Willman and Kathryn Rice Letterman, violin, offered several selections, the entire program being presented by Mrs. F. H. Fulmer.

Boy Hero of Fire In Greene Dies

The boy, son of Mrs. Mary Zimmerman, of St. Paul, Minn., was visiting the Charles Ruppenburg home here December 1, when fire broke out in Ruppenburg's store. Zimmerman tied several sheets together, called to Victoria Flechish, who was asleep in another room, assisted her down the rope of bedclothing and then collapsed of burns.

SEVEN COACHES TO TEST PITT SYSTEM

IF EVER A basketball coach had a chance for a conclusive test of himself and his system against the best sort of opposition in the country, that man is Dr. H. C. Carlson, University of Pittsburgh mentor, whose team, with a game against the University of Wisconsin five in Milwaukee tonight, will start the toughest trip ever undertaken by a collegiate quintet. No fewer than seven coaches whose names are well known wherever basketball is played will pit their teams against the Panthers and their systems against the Carlson system.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

Three of the leading teams of the Western Conference, year in and year out—Wisconsin, Indiana and Purdue—will be met in the first three contests on the long tour tonight, tomorrow night and Friday night, and in these games such famous mentors as Meanwell, of Wisconsin; Dean, of Indiana, and Lambert, of Purdue, will try their respective methods against those of the Pitt coach.

TO WIND UP the first week of the trip, Butler University will be encountered in Indianapolis Saturday night. And two years ago Butler, under the coaching of Hinkle won the National championship. Then on to Kansas City, where Forrest Allen's Kansas team will be met in a three-game series.

The next two noted coaches to shoot the works against Carlson and the Panthers will be Nibs Price, of California, and Sam Barry, of Southern California. Then on the return trip, the Carlsons will stop at Syracuse to battle against the system which Vic Hanson has drilled into the Orange team. No coaching style has ever been more severely tested against strong and varied opposition during a similar period of time than will the methods of Carlson between now and the next home game with the Dukes on January 13.

ON AT LEAST one major league baseball club the pay of the average player will not be reduced. President Clark Griffith of the Washington club gives that assurance to the Senators in discussing the reduction plan adopted by the magnates for next year.

Griffith announces that only those Washington players receiving top-heavy wages will have their pay scaled down for 1932 and that the run-of-mine athlete will not be affected by the proposed salary slicing.

THE CHIEF OWNER of the Senators intimates that the same policy will be followed by all the clubs. "The resolution adopted at the joint meeting was aimed primarily at the heavily paid players," he said. "There are some who are being paid out of all proportion to the service they give. For a time the club owners were prone to value certain players too highly. Now, with the magnates more reasonable in their valuations, some of the big boys in the game will have to take it—and like it, too." According to Griffith, among the players who have been drawing from $5,000 to $8,000 per season, only those who have failed to produce satisfactorily will feel the ax. He declined to commit himself when asked about raises for players who had an exceptional season in 1931.

Burleigh Grimes

WHEN IT WAS announced before the consummation of the Grimes-Wilson trade that the Cleveland club was trying to make a deal for Grimes there was an inclination in some quarters to brand the report as absurd on the ground that there would be no chance in the world to obtain the waivers required to send Grimes out of the National League.

It develops, however, that the rumor was far from being ridiculous, and that only one National League club stood between the Indians and a successful dicker for Grimes. For when the Cardinal management asked waivers on the veteran spit-baller he was passed up by the four clubs for which he had previously worked, and also, for salary reasons, by the Reds and Phillies. Chicago was the only National League club to put in a claim for him.

IT IS ALSO charged now that the St. Louis club had planned to make a grandstand play with Grimes, the original aim having been to send him to Brooklyn as manager. "We hate to part with Grimes, but rather than stand in his way when he has a chance to become a manager we are willing to make the sacrifice," was to have been the baloney handed to the public.

But the "magnanimous gesture" was blocked when Max Carey was signed to manage the Dodgers and the fact that the Mound City chiefs immediately turned around and swapped Grimes to the Cubs shows how little truth there would have been in the proposed statement about letting Burleigh go to Brooklyn only because he had a chance to become a pilot. The Card bosses were determined to get rid of Grimes at any price.

THAT THE REDBIRD management will stick to the decision to keep Hack Wilson, announced by President Sam Breadon last night, also is open to question. Where could they use Wilson to advantage? Breadon himself stated only last week there is no intention to take Chick Hafey, leading hitter of the National League, out of left field. You can imagine what chance any player would have to get Pepper Martin's job in center, and as the only left-hand hitter in the trio George Watkins may be considered pretty certain to stay in right field. Breadon probably is only trying to coax out of one of the other clubs a better offer than he has yet received for Hack.

THE LATEST POLITICAL dope from the East is that Eddie Sullivan, city alderman of New York, has supplanted Lester Patterson as the holder of the inside track for the vacancy that will be created on the Empire State Boxing Commission when James A. Farley steps out on January 1. Gen. John J. Phelan, junior member, is slated for the chairmanship.

Sullivan, a boyhood friend of Gene Tunney and Mayor Jimmy Walker, worked with Kid McCoy on the boxing team of the 7th Regiment during the Mexican border trouble, and after the close of the World War he had charge of all boxing activities in the Rainbow Division. He enlisted for the World War as a private and came out as a captain, along with the D. S. C., the Croix de Guerre and three regimental citations. He was wounded at St. Mihiel. So they can't say he didn't know anything about fighting.

FOR THE FIRST time since 1921, the Kentucky Derby, foremost horse in America, will be run next year earlier than the Preakness, Maryland's famous stake, which also is for 3-year-olds.

Al Brown

The Derby is set for decision at Churchill Downs on Saturday, May 7, while the Preakness, instead of preceding the Kentucky classic by a week, as usual, will be run at Pimlico on Saturday, May 14.

WHEN HE RETURNS East after his non-title bout with Newsboy Brown in Los Angeles tonight, one of the first ring appearances of Panama Al Brown, world bantamweight champion, will be made in Motor Square Garden here, and Pittsburgh fans will see at once a great fighter and physical oddity. For though able to make 118 pounds, Brown has the attitude of a heavyweight, as he stands no less than 5 feet 11 inches in height and has a reach of 76 inches. As may be judged he is built like a toothpick. In that connection, the champion's bout on the Coast tonight will present a strange contrast, as Newsboy Brown is only 5 feet 1 inch in height. The champion will have an advantage of a head in height and 15 inches in reach.

PITT, BADGER FIVES CLASH

BUTCH WINNER AS BOUT IS STOPPED

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

To Mose Butch Oakland southpaw goes the credit for handing Willie Davies, veteran flyweight and bantamweight star of Charleroi, only the second knockout defeat of the latter's career and the first in a local ring. It was of the technical order and occurred last night in the scheduled 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden when Referee Al Graxber had to call a halt at the close of the opening round, with Willie seated in his corner, his upper lip gushing blood from a long, deep cut.

The only other time Willie failed to finish a bout was early in his career when a little-known boxer named Vick won by a technical knockout over him in a battle in Canada. You won't find the result of this fight in the record books. Willie revealed it in the dressing room after last night's defeat. The flow of blood had been stopped and he was adjusting his tie and decrying his luck.

PROTESTS STOPPING BOUT

He was sore because the bout had been stopped. He thought he should have been permitted to carry on at least a few more rounds in the hope that the wound would take care of itself and he might get his bearings. But he was more seriously injured than he himself realized. He had been punched groggy during the three minutes of fighting and was losing blood so rapidly that he would have been certain to faint from weakness if he were not fully knocked out before.

There was very little to the bout, witnessed by a small crowd. They sparred around a bit at the bell and then a left knocked Willie off balance to the floor for no count. Butch speeded up the pace and opened up an old cut on Willie's left eye and then nailed Willie with another left along the ropes and dropped the veteran cleanly. Willie got up at three, groggy and moved along the ropes in a dazed condition toward Butch's corner. Mose crowded in and backed him against the strands half way toward a neutral corner and belted away with both fists. Willie falling into the ropes and coming off with the blood streaming from his mouth. The bell rang soon afterward and Willie tottered to his corner on rubbery legs, a sorry sight to behold. The referee took one look at his cut mouth and called off the fight.

GOOD WIN FOR MOSE

It was tough to see such a grand gladiator as Willie has been moved out of the picture in this manner, but it was all for the best under the circumstances. It is sad but true that the popular little Welshman has seen his best days in the ring and has slowed down to a point where he no longer holds the edge he once boasted over his rivals even in the local field. The Davies that was is no more. He retains his old canniness, but the speed of eye, foot and arm are gone.

For Butch it was a fine win, one that will look good in the records. Mose originally was slated to box Al Brown, the world bantamweight champion, last night, and was promised the crack again if he defeated Davies. Some one in authority should see that he is not given the runaround again. Mose is rugged and can box and punch and has done everything asked of him. He has beaten Jackie Rodgers twice in recent months, among other things. The Garden is big enough to bring the best here for him and it should be made to do it, after having fed him up on promises for weeks.

SPEIGAL LOSES TO GROVE

Joey Speigal, of Uniontown, 144½, did too much holding and it counterbalanced his leading in the eight-round semi-final with Davy Grove, of the North Side, 143, who finished strong to win the decision in their eight-round semi-final. It was Speigal's first defeat as a pro.

Benny McArthur, of McKeesport, lefthanded Sid Silas, of the North Side, almost to death and cut him on both eyes and also

Carlson Scribe For Sun-Tele On Jaunt

Good news for the followers of the fortunes of the Pitt basketball team, which left last night on an extended trip which will carry it to California and back.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's correspondent on the jaunt will be none other than Dr. H. C. Carlson, coach of the famous Golden Panthers.

After each game, Dr. Carlson will wire his version to be published under his name.

For this exclusive feature you will have to read the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE SUPPLIANT SADHU—The story of Daavadja is intensely interesting. In 1900, a young Frenchman of a mystic turn arrived in Bengal. Presently he became immersed in the teachings of Hindu ascetism and assumed the tortuous position I drew. This most hapless of Hindu penitents has spent 16 years of incredible martyrdom, and is the only case of which I am aware of an Occidental identifying himself with these practices. His arms and legs have withered from inactivity, he commands the respect and devotion of the faithful, but I cannot help wondering whether the memories of another civilization have been completely effaced from his mind. JOSE LLERA—Pvt. First Class Jose Llera, United States Marine Corps, is a native of Porto Rico, where he enlisted in the United States Army. After two years, when that enlistment expired, Llera went to St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, and enlisted in the United States Marines, where he remained for another three years before he ever saw the United States. Llera now is at the marine barracks in Washington, as instructor of Spanish. FRED ART WORKED UNDERGROUND FOR 75 YEARS—Frederick Art, of 211 Stafford avenue, Scranton, Pa., started to work as door tender in the Sandy Banks anthracite coal fields when he was only 7 years old. Since that time he has held numerous underground jobs, such as mule driving and track laying, but he never has cut coal. And during all of his 75 years of active toil in the mines he always has worked on the same section and never has been injured.

BADGERS WON'T GET CRISLER

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 15.—(AP)—H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, in a formal statement today, said he would remain at the University of Minnesota as athletic director.

Crisler said he issued the statement because of reports he planned to go to the University of Wisconsin or return to the University of Chicago.

Rumors concerning the Wisconsin situation arose again yesterday after the resignation of Athletic Director Little and reports that his successor would handle that position and be head football coach as well.

Crisler has held both positions at Minnesota for nearly two years, but henceforth will be athletic director only. B. W. (Bernie) Bierman, now head coach at Tulane, has been named to the football position, effective January 1.

Venneri Is Named On Opponent Team

Player	Pos.	College
White	end	Chattanooga
Wood	end	Furman
Venneri	tackle	Duquesne
Camp	tackle	Mercer
Keyser	guard	Chattanooga
McNabb	guard	Mercer
Koeninger	center	Chattanooga
Sinkowsky	quarterback	Mercer
Weller	halfback	Haskell
Johnson	halfback	Haskell
Aiken	fullback	Furman

VINCE DUNDEE COPS

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Vince Dundee, Baltimore contender for the mid-dyweight championship, scored a technical knockout over Ernesto Ragusa, champion of Chile, in the ninth round, here last night.

Ripley Scores 'Scoop' in Cartoon

The foremost aim of every scribe and editor, to "beat" a rival newspaper on some point of interest, has been remarkably accomplished by Robert L. (Believe It Or Not) Ripley, genius at portraying the unusual—and proving it!

Three days less than a month after Ripley drew a monstrous puff ball weighing 21 pounds 14 ounces, which had been found in the garden of A. B. Taylor, of Great Valley, Cattaraugus County, N. Y., the story was sent out as a news dispatch to papers all over the country.

Ripley, by his keen, unerring sense of the bizarre, had scooped the American press by nearly a month on one of the most interesting stories of the day. Not only did one paper, 30 days later, print the facts about the huge puff ball which Ripley had given to the world a month earlier, but one of the leading press associations carried the story on its wires.

Daugherty Picked On Irish Eleven

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 15.—(AP)—For a very good reason, Southern placed three of its stars on Notre Dame's all-opponent football team for 1931. The three, Baker, Mohler and Arbelbide, were big factors in halting Notre Dame's great victory march this fall. The team, selected by Notre Dame coaches, scouts and players, for the official football review of the university:

Baker	left guard	Southern California
Daugherty	center	Pittsburgh
Underwood	right guard	Navy
Drew	right tackle	Army
Arbelbide	right end	Southern California
Mohler	quarterback	Southern California
Gentner	right half	Northwestern

COAST TO CUT GRID PRICES

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Voting to bar newspaper photographers from athletic fields and expressing unanimous sentiment for a reduction of ticket prices in 1932, representatives of the 10 members of the Pacific Coast Conference opened their three-day annual winter meeting here yesterday.

Dreyfuss Consults New York Specialist

Barney Dreyfuss, Pirate owner, who has been ill for two weeks with a heavy cold, made an unexpected departure for New York this morning, accompanied by Mrs. Dreyfuss and their daughter, Mrs. William E. Benswanger. Dreyfuss's local doctor advised him to consult with a certain New York specialist concerning his health.

In the event he feels sufficiently strong, the Pittsburgh magnate will hold a conference with John A. Heydler, president of the National League, relative to the 1932 playing schedule. For many seasons, Dreyfuss was the principal schedule maker of the league. The drafts of last season were so unsatisfactory that he has been asked to work with the committees.

SPORTS WRITER DIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Frances Creed Stewart, 77-year-old assistant sports editor of the Sun, died in St. Luke's Hospital today of injuries received when he was struck by a taxicab yesterday. Stewart was rounding out a career of 60 years in sports writing and was among the oldest, if not the oldest, of the active workers in this field in the city.

BUSH CANCELS TOLEDO BID

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—President Thomas J. Hickey, of the American Association, has been advised Donie Bush, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, and W. E. Clauer, of Indianapolis, have dropped their plans for the purchase of the Toledo franchise. Clauer formerly was secretary of the Indianapolis club in the American Association. Wade Killifer, formerly connected with the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League, remains in the field as a bidder.

STEINECKE GOES WEST

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The Fort Worth Club, of the Texas League, has announced the acquisition of Bill Steinecke, 26-year-old 180-pound catcher, from the Binghamton Club, of the New York-Pennsylvania League. The deal was made through the Pittsburgh Pirates. Steinecke had a hitting record last year of .361 in the Class B loop and was credited with 19 base thefts.

Haus Girls Win In New Kensington

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—The Haus Girls, of Pittsburgh, defeated a local team, 1822 to 1696, in a bowling match here last night. Miss Stelter, of the Pittsburgh team, rolled 453 in three games to top her team, while Miss Dunlap featured for the locals with 386.

PIRRONE SUSPENDED

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Paul Pirrone has been fined $200 and suspended from Cleveland rings for 90 days by the Cleveland boxing commission for his fouling of Lou Brouillard, welterweight champion here last Thursday night.

PANTHERS OPEN LONG TOUR TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER.

There is more or less unimportant basketball activity going on around the section tonight. There is nothing popping in the city, but Geneva, Westminster, St. Vincent, California Teachers and Pitt are in action out of town.

Pitt opens its long journey to the Pacific by tackling the very formidable Wisconsin Badgers at Madison. Having taken Temple in the inaugural Saturday night, the Panthers had their confidence secured and they started off last night on the long trip westward in great mental and physical trim. They may not beat the Badgers tonight, but they'll let the Big Tenners know they've been in a ball game.

Westminster inaugurates a busy week by meeting Ohio University tonight. Tomorrow, the Titans engage a team of all-stars at Sandusky and Thursday clash with Wooster College. Saturday, the big Blue and White team will show its wares here in Pittsburgh, battling the Schneiders.

GENEVA IN ACTION

Geneva completes a short road jaunt against independent teams in Akron, squaring off with the powerful Akron Goodyears, the same team that held Pitt to a 27-26 score a week ago. St. Vincent and the California State Teachers put on a show at California to complete the evening's program.

Westminster will be closely watched this week. A power in tri-state basketball circles for the past five or six years, the Titans present somewhat of a problem this season. John Lawther is back again as head coach, and has lost most of the stars from last year's strong team. It will be interesting to see whether he can turn out another championship aggregation with the material at hand.

Down at Bethany, where coaching is something to keep one awake at nights, John Knight is laboring arduously to whip a Bison team into shape that will carry on as Bethany quints have in the past. No matter how drab the football season may have been at Bethany, the West Virginians always have sported crackerjack basketball clubs.

BISON STARS LOST

Knight lost heavily from last year's star squad by graduation and ineligibility. Telfair, Ruth and Flading are gone, and filling their shoes is hardly a task to be relished, even by a chap as optimistic as Knight.

So far, the Bison mentor has not selected a varsity, but he has a pretty good line on his material and is counting on drawing heavily on his freshmen candidates. He's willing to take a few losses this year to construct a good foundation for crack teams in the future.

Meanwhile, Buzz Hogan is working diligently with his Tartans, prepping them for their initial collegiate tussles of the year against Kentucky Wesleyan, Kentucky University and St. Xavier of Cincinnati, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week.

Hogan is well fixed for players, having a strong first team and capable reserves. Jagnau, Bob Smith, Eddie Stentz, Jimmy Leonard and Red Fergus loom as likely starters, with Silverman, Freedl, Logan Webster, Seigal, Burns and clever Jackie Raudabaugh in reserve. Tech is in better shape, as far as reserve strength goes, than either Pitt or the Dukes, which gives the Skibo an edge over the Panthers and the Irish in the coming duels for the city title.

UPSETS MARK CUE PLAY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Two upsets radically changed the standings yesterday in the national billiard tournament. Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, the defending champion, bowed to Onofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn, 125 to 83, and Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., fell before Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, 125 to 11.

The Taberski-Ponzi contest, second match of the night session, lasted only seven innings because of a spectacular run of 87 made by the Philadelphian in the fifth frame.

Lauri apparently blasted Rudolph's hopes of retaining his crown with his 11-inning victory. In other matches Benny Allen, of Kansas City, bested Spencer Livesey, of Los Angeles, 125 to 120, in 21 innings, and Robert Lindblom, of Seattle, defeated Al Miller, of Racine, Wis., by the same count in 15 frames.

COX DEFEATS VON ELM IN GOLF FINAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Wiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, took the measure of George Von Elm, Los Angeles businessman golfer, 6 and 5, to win the 36-hole final of the $7,500 national match play open championship yesterday.

The tall campaigner from the East, who won the last North and South open title and was a member of the American Ryder Cup team, started out with a 5-up lead in the second half of the match, postponed because of rain.

His lead never was threatened. At the end of the first nine yesterday, the twenty-seventh hole of the match, Von Elm had won back a hole to cut his opponent's lead to 4 up. Cox made it 5 up again at the twenty-ninth and clinched the match on the thirty-first with a par 5 to Von Elm's 6.

As a result of his victory, Cox received $1,540, while Von Elm received $1,027. Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, Mexico, 1930 winner of the tournament, and Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., national open champion each received $308 as third-round losers.

By JULIUS LEVIN

While the sectional races in the W. P. I. A. L. do not get under way until January 5, followers of scholastic basketball are being treated to some excellent preseason contests.

Carl Glock

Sectional winners of last season and previous years are slated for action on Western Pennsylvania courts today. Two of last years contestants in the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations are slated to clash at Duquesne, where Coach Henry's Section VII champions oppose New Kensington, former state champion and winner in Section I last winter. Carl Glock's valley machine handed Duquesne a lacing in a game at New Kensington, 23-16, and the home boys will be out for revenge.

SCOTT AT HOMESTEAD

Another "natural" features the tussle between Johnny Reed's state champion, Scott High, and Homestead, coached by Bill Campbell. This battle will take place on the Homestead floor. These two schools seldom fail to put out a winning team and this year's products are no exception.

Reed's passers, despite the fact their team has been riddled by graduations, face one of the toughest schedules of the season this week. After the Homestead duel tonight, they meet New Castle in New Castle Friday and Erie in Erie on Saturday.

Wilkinsburg and Norwin, both former sectional champs, clash at Irwin in another game that should prove a thriller. Norwin has dropped out of the W. P. I. A. L. fight due to a change in its section, but nevertheless has a team capable of giving Wilkinsburg a tough argument on the floor.

RANKIN IMPRESSIVE

Rankin High, boasting one of the best teams in its history, faces a sectional rival in Ed Paulie's Swissvale quintet at Swissvale. Rankin, under the coaching of Jock Rosenberg, showed a lot of class in swamping Johnny Coleman's East Pittsburgh High machine, 43-5, and is certain to command a lot of attention this season.

Etna, a member of Section XI, engages a non-league rival in Shady Side at Shady Side. Blacksville plays Waynesburg, Scottdale at Vandergrift, Ford City at Arnold and Worthington at Dayton Vocational in other school games today.

Elizabeth set down Bellevernon High, 28-10, and Tarentum Alumni defeated Tarentum's current quintet, 20-13, in yesterday's school affrays.

School Notes

Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, coach of the University of Pittsburgh (modern Panthers, will be the principal speaker at the banquet to be given the undefeated Sharon High eleven in Sharon tomorrow. The Sharon eleven won eight straight games during the past season, nearly winning the Mercer County championship.

Dick Schumaker and his Carnegie High gridders will be guests of honor at a banquet to be given by the Rotary Club Thursday evening in Carnegie.

Kreuing and Mike Marshall, loom as the mainstays in Jim Hudson's Braddock quintet this season. Both showed up well in the game with Munhall.

George Krul and Tony Phillips are helping North Braddock basketball fans forget Timko, Nunn and others who helped place Scott on the basketball map by the manner in which they are assisting Johnny Reed's team in early season victories. Wilkinsburg was unable to stop this pair.

Elmer Layden, Duquesne University athletic director, will be the main speaker at a banquet to be given the Donora High School grid squad in Donora tonight.

HERRERA TOPS MASSEY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Tony Herrera, Chicago Mexican lightweight, battered Lew Massey, of Philadelphia, about the ring last night to win a judges' decision in the feature 10-round bout of the Arena fight card. The victor held a three-and-a-half pound advantage.

TENNIS CHIEF CRITICIZED

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The Eastern Lawn Tennis Association, a storm center at intervals for several years, has another internal fight on its hands.

P. Schuyler Van Bloem, president, has called for the support of association members against a faction headed by Holcombe Ward, organizer and chairman of the "committee of 100."

Criticism of the Eastern Association by the committee, said Van Bloem, is being used as a smoke screen to hide its real purpose, which he defined as an effort to see that "the control of the national association continues in the hands of a small highly-organized group of individuals on the eastern seaboard, most of whom come from New York City.

Van Bloem charges Ward with a policy of non-cooperation with the Eastern Association and with unjustly accusing him (Van Bloem) of helping organize a campaign to oust Louis J. Carruthers, president of the U. S. L. T. A.

Ward, who said other members of the committee of 100 included Jones W. Mersereau and Carruthers, added he possibly would issue a formal reply to Van Bloem's charges.

WESTMORELAND TOURNEY SET

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—The Westmoreland County Coaches' Association again will sponsor the annual county scholastic basketball tournament this winter, it was decided at the winter meeting of the organization last night. The meet will be held in Greensburg High School and will start March 11, will continue March 12 and will end March 18.

A total of eight games, four in class A and four in class B, will be staged the first day. Trophies are to be given final winners in each division.

Fight Results

At Motor Square Garden, Mose Butch won by technical knockout over Willie Davies (foul stopped at end of first round because of badly cut lip). Tony Grosso defeated Pete Spargo, 8 rounds; Sid Sims defeated Benny McArthur, 6 rounds; Billy Flanagan defeated Jack Tracey, 6 rounds; Tom Galligan defeated Teddy Mancuso, 6 rounds.

At Johnstown, Nora Kleinwood defeated Lou Petrone, 10 rounds; Ken Hargreaves defeated Bobby Vogel, 8 rounds; Jimmy Young knocked out Stanislaus Joe Lavasseur, 2 rounds (foul); Adams defeated Young Barney, 6 rounds.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

STOCK LOSSES REDUCED OR REGAINED

ome Shares Show Gains Of 1 to 3 Points After List Weathers Selling

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—After several sessions severe buffeting the securi s markets moved into some- hat smoother seas today.

Although further waves of ling were encountered dur the earlier hours of trad the stock market was able to ke considerable upward progr s after mid-day. Numerous ses of 1 to 2 points were re ed or regained, and some res registered advances of 1 to re than 3 points.

United States Steel dropped 2 nts to a new low under 40 then overed partly. Advances of 1 2 points appeared in such is as American Telephone, Du t, New York Central, Allied emical, Case and Coca Cola. mestake Mining pushed up to new high up 3, and similar an- ces appeared in Eastman and burn.

With the idea of December ally at hand one source of sell was removed. Today was the e of the final quarterly pay- nts on taxes on 1930 incomes. t was pointed out that tax ng to establish losses in 1931 omes might continue for the ainder of the month although he brokers felt that the main tion of this type of selling had r accomplished.

Wall Street was inclined to take more hopeful view of the rald situation as eastern execu- s announced appointment of a mittee to negotiate to a con- sion" the wage controversy and became known that bank loans ed on the higher revenues to derived from the increased ght rates may become almost mediately available.

Dividend uncertainty has pre- ably been a factor in the sell- of United States Steel com- n, which at its low was close the bottom level of 1915, in ich year no dividend was paid. se comparisons, however, do take into account changes in italization.

United States Steel's preferred e has broken under par to the est level since 1908, but im- tant banking quarters feel that represents a thin market and ed liquidation, since in view the corporation's vast cash re- rces, the preferred payment is arded by important bankers as ure.

WHEAT PRICES TAKE DIP

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Wheat ces tended downward early to- y, taking a cue to some extent m action of the New York stock rket. Adverse harvest weather Argentina, however, making it ficult to obtain dry wheat fit ship across the equator, con- ued to operate as a check on lers. Opening unchanged to ¾ , wheat afterward sagged a ll ung. Corn started unchanged ½ higher and subsequently re- ed somewhat, but then scored general upturn.

Rallies from early downturns ed wheat at times to well above sterday's finish. The rallies re simultaneous with advices at export interests had been ive buyers of futures at Win- eg. There were also estimates at the amount of wheat in the nds of Canadian farmers ounted at present to only 25,- 1,000 bushels.

IANNINI GETS COURT ORDER

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A. P. Giannini, California ancier, has taken to the courts aid in his struggle to regain trol of the $1,000,000,000 nsamerica Corporation.

Judge Lyle T. Jacks yesterday nted in Giannini's behalf a porary restraining order re- nable in Superior Court next nday preventing use of facilities the corporation and the Bank America, which it controls, in aining proxies for the present poration administration headed Elisha Walker, of New York. Both the Giannini and Walker ups are seeking proxies to de- mine control at a stockholders' eting scheduled next February.

Wall Street Expects Unfavorable B & O Dividend Action

Directors of Baltimore and Ohio are scheduled to meet this week for dividend action. The action of the stock has led many Wall street interests to look for some- thing unfavorable from this meeting. There is quite a large short interest in the issue and covering may be- come a factor as the time of the meeting ap- proaches.

An official of one of the leading industrial companies which has not made any change in its dividend rate thus far, in giving his views on dividend distributions, points out that he favors making payments when such action is possible. He says: "I think the whole country would be stimulated and buying improved if the corporations that still have money in the bank would continue to make some distribution to their stockholders. There is not very much satisfaction to the stockholders as an example to be told that the company in which he has an investment has millions of dollars in the bank which they are keeping for a 'rainy day,' and at the same time the stockholder has trouble in paying his rent."

The situation in Coca Cola is in sharp contrast with that existing in other organizations. Whereas downward revisions are being made in the earlier estimates of earnings for many of the companies in the various activities, there is no change in the predictions for Coca Cola. It is still estimated that the company will show in the neighborhood of $11.75 a share this year, compared with $11.15 in 1930.

Placing of an embargo on gold exports by Japan naturally has aroused a good deal of fresh interest in that phase of the financial picture and has turned attention again to our gold position. A study of the figures reveals we are still mighty well supplied in the way of metallic reserves, and that even after the heavy export movement of October and early November our coverage remains high. On September 16 last, when our gold holdings reached their peak at $5,015,000,000 the total of money in circulation was $5,087,000,000, showing an indicated metal coverage of 98.6 per cent, after the heavy gold loss, part of which incidentally has been regained, a high measure of coverage is still intact. gold holdings of $4,427,000,000 on the last available figures, being equivalent to 81 per cent of the $5,507,000,000 money in circulation as of December 9.

Considerable interest was aroused recently by the increased number of stocks sharing in some of the daily transactions. Several of the market interests who are anticipating a technical recovery of good proportions in the near future are pointing out that toward the end of every move in either direction more stocks appear in the daily tables than in normal times. When the market was rushing ahead wildly in 1929 just before the break, sales were made in a record number of issues. They are hoping that the expansion in the number of issues represented in the dealings now may mean that a turn is not so far away.

With industrials, railroads and utilities in new low ground for the major decline, the liquidating movement in stocks over the last two years entered its sixth phase during the past week. In breaking below 80, the industrial compilation showed a recession of more than 200 points, having dropped from the record high of 381.17 on September 3, 1929. This compared with a decline of only 55.72 points in the 1919-21 major decline and of 40.98 points in 1912-14. A factor has been present in the current period of concentrated liquidation that never existed heretofore when primary downward movements were approaching their culminating stages. This is the existence of investment trusts, and the selling from this source has intensified the pressure recently resulting from tax offerings, and year-end readjustment of security loans held by banks.

November Motor Registrations Off

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The first 19 states to report passenger automobile registrations for November showed a total of 23,143, a decrease of 26.38 per cent from the 31,436 registered in October, and 12.88 per cent below the 26,556 registered in November of 1930. On the basis of these figures, R. L. Polk & Co. estimates total registrations of passenger cars during the month at 76,000 to 81,000, and truck sales between 14,600 and 15,800.

WELL HE TOLD ME-
$1000 A MONTH! IMAGINE! PAYING THAT TO A MAN WHO, ALTHOUGH OF COURSE HE WONT ADMIT IT, KNOWS NOTHING ABOUT MINES, EXCEPT POSSIBLY, THAT WHEN YOU TURN THE LIGHTS OUT IN THEM IT'S DARK.
WELL I SUPPOSE THE MINING PART OF IT ISN'T SO IMPORTANT TO HIM RIGHT NOW. ALL HE HAS TO DO HE SAYS IS SIT IN A BIG LUXURIOUS OFFICE AND GIVE ORDERS.
I KNOW HE'S CONSIDERED VERY IMPORTANT AT THAT OFFICE BECAUSE WHEN I CALLED UP TODAY I HAD TO TALK TO THREE PEOPLE BEFORE I GOT HIM ON THE PHONE. IMAGINE THAT THREE PEOPLE! I WAS SIMPLY STUNNED.
THE CONCERN HE'S WITH IS VERY RELIABLE. I'VE HEARD OF IT BEFORE.
WELL PEGGY I JUST DON'T KNOW WHAT TO THINK ABOUT IT. ESPECIALLY ALL THAT MONEY. $1000 A MONTH AND THE WAY YOUR FATHER LOOKS AT ME WHEN I SAY ANYTHING ABOUT HIM GETTING SO MUCH FOR ONE MONTH. AND HE TALKS AS THOUGH HE ACCEPTED THE $1000 MERELY BECAUSE HE WAS TRYING TO BE POLITE. IMAGINE!

HEARST STOCK PAYING YULE DIVIDEND

Investors Receiving Sixth Regular Payment; New Purchase Boosts Value

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—Christmas dividend checks, the sixth consecutive payment since the initial public offerings of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., Class A" 7 per cent cumulative participating preferred shares, were received today by thousands of stockholders throughout the United States and abroad.

Of especial importance is the highly satisfactory showing of Hearst Consolidated Publications Inc., despite the abnormally poor business conditions all over the world during 1931 and in the face of current dividend curtailments being evoked by scores of national corporations.

Since the original announcement months ago of William Randolph Hearst's customer-employee stock ownership plan, more than 9,000 stockholders have been enrolled on the books of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc.

Another notable achievement of Hearst Consolidated Publications Inc., was its recent acquisition of the Los Angeles Evening Express through the purchase of the Los Angeles Evening Herald, one of the outstanding properties owned by the corporation. Through this union of interests the Herald becomes one of the greatest evening newspapers in the United States.

Why Not Form Investment Trusts Now?

—By B. C. FORBES—

WHY AREN'T the newspapers and financial and business periodicals full of advertisements announcing the formation of new investment trusts and inviting the public to "come aboard?" Such developments were altogether too numerous at the wrong time, the very worst time imaginable.

Mr. Forbes

Now that the ideal time has arrived for acquiring investments at absurdly low prices, hardly a peep is heard.

The reason? Perhaps apparently every last individual connected with the financial world has lost confidence in everything, including the United States.

ISN'T THIS lamentably childish? Isn't it absurdly shortsighted? Isn't it a sad commentary on the judgment, the foresight, the courage of the people who would logically launch such enterprises?

The nation's mountains of savings have been reduced almost none at all. The announcement was made this week that there were no fewer than 18,860 new accounts opened in New York state savings banks alone last month, an extraordinary large number. Not only so, but there are millions of idle money hoarded in homes which could be appealed to by the right kind of sponsors of the right kind of investment trust.

Just as losses were inevitable by buying stocks at the height of boom prices, so profits are equally inevitable by making purchases at the phenomenally low quotations now current.

Security bargains won't forever stay within reach.

THOMAS B. MACAULAY, of the Sun Life Assurance Company, whose mammoth Canadian insurance company has for years consistently invested in American stocks, tells me that he hasn't sold a share this year but has, instead, taken up whatever "rights" have been offered. There's something worth pasting in your hat.

This veteran authority looks upon stocks as cheap beyond all reason. He says that it looks as if Wall street and all connected with it had lost their heads. This famous Canadian has more faith in the recuperative power of America than Americans are today exhibiting themselves.

WOULD IT astonish you to learn that there is developing public agitation that the New York Stock Exchange suspend all dealings to afford time for calm reflection?

The contention is that both bond and stock values have been forced viciously below their intrinsic worth and that, if pressure be continued much longer, bank loans throughout the country will be further and further impaired and borrowers compelled to sacrifice their investments at ruinous prices, thus tending to depress quotations still further and to dislodge fresh avalanches of necessitous selling.

FIRST MORTGAGE AND LEASEHOLD 6½% SINKING FUND GOLD BONDS OF COMAGO SMOKELESS FUEL COMPANY

Notice is hereby given as provided in Article IX, Section 2 of the deed of trust dated February 15, 1928, securing the above bonds, that sealed offerings will be received until 3:00 o'clock P. M. January 15, 1932, at the office of the Trustee, Central Trust Company, Charleston, West Virginia, to sell to it all or any part of the above described bonds for the purpose of cancellation and retirement at a rate not exceeding par and accrued interest.

Such offerings shall be at a flat price for each bond with February 15, 1932, and subsequent coupons attached, together with the scrip, if any, issued August 15, 1928, and February 15, 1929, in respect of coupons of such bonds maturing on those dates.

Such offerings as are accepted will be those of the lowest bidders in an aggregate of Four Thousand Dollars ($4,000.00), which is the amount allocated to the sinking fund for this purpose. Should two or more holders of bonds bid the same lowest price, the numbers of bonds taken from each will be as nearly as practicable pro rata. Successful bidders will be advised promptly of the acceptance of their bids, and payment will be made on surrender and transfer of the bonds on February 15, 1932.

The Trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids as in said deed of trust provided.

Proposals should be endorsed "proposal for the sale of bonds of Comago Smokeless Fuel Company," and addressed to

Col. Ayres Sees Continued Low Commodity Prices

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE POSSIBILITY THAT business recovery may not be tied up with a general rise in commodity values was suggested today by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Union Trust Company of Cleveland, in his monthly comment on financial conditions.

Col. Ayres declared that the three major price inflations in the history of this country have been caused by great wars. After the World War it has taken wholesale prices 11 years to drop back to their prewar levels. It took somewhat longer than that for them to make the same relative decline after the Civil War and not so long for them to do it after the War of 1912.

The important characteristic of this price decline is not its rapidity, but the fact that it has come in two sudden installments, the first in 1920 and 1921, and the second in this depression, with a nine-year plateau of stabilized prices and prosperity in between. The two post war deflations of our earlier history were not of that sort. On those occasions the price movements after once getting well under way followed irregular but almost continuous declining trends until the bottom levels of relative stabilization were finally reached.

Advance Would Solve Problem

IF COMMODITY PRICES should promptly regain much of their recent losses, the problems of readjustment would largely disappear, in Col. Ayres' opinion. He declared, however, that it would be unwise for us to expect that even a good measure of business recovery and increased industrial production will be accompanied by important general advances in the average of commodity prices. Such a general advance would have to be an international advance to prove durable and there is little in the history of the past to lead us to hope that a general world-wide price decline following a war inflation is likely to be promptly followed by a world-wide peace time price inflation.

If Col. Ayres is correct in his analysis of the situation, a continuance of the adjustments now taking place may be expected. Industrial costs will have to be put on a low basis permanently. Rents will have to be retained at the reduced levels now being established. This means that some of the shrinkage in the value of real estate will be permanent, at least until national expansion increases values through the growth of communities. This in turn might affect the value of real estate leases, mortgages and real estate bonds and might entail reductions in local taxes to levels which the properties can sustain.

Sees Hope for Rails

OTHER ADJUSTMENTS WILL be difficult, Col. Ayres suggests. Price declines increase the burden of debts. Many governments and municipalities are finding this to be true at present and industrial corporations with bonds outstanding will come to the same realization.

A brighter prospect was seen for the railroads and the public utilities by Col. Ayres who declared:

"Railroads and utilities will be less seriously affected, if they can get adequate volumes of business, than will manufacturers and distributors. The railroads and utilities sell services at rates that were previously fixed by commissions, and which fall slowly, and they buy commodities and carry through construction projects at new and lower levels of prices. If they could get back the old volume of business, the lower price levels might actually aid them instead of hurting them, just as they help people receiving fixed incomes as, for example, government employes."

Col. Ayres declined to make any definite prediction of the prospects for 1932 but he stated that the force of continued credit contraction by banks in a struggle for liquidity appears to be on the wane. It is not to be expected that credit expansion will develop merely because the climax of fears concerning credit has passed but he expressed the opinion that the changed attitude of the public has made credit expansion possible instead of impossible. In 1921 the bottom of the depression was passed when bank deposits stopped shrinking and started to increase. He declared that it seems probable that the bottom of this depression will have been passed when deposits begin to increase and when declines in the volume of money in circulation indicate that hoarded funds are flowing back to banks.

MAKE YOUR TRIP TO FLORIDA
BY BOAT-AND-RAIL THIS YEAR

Start your Florida vacation with a delightful, invigorating, and healthful ocean voyage. It costs you no more to make part of your journey by sea, on a comfortable, well-appointed ship. An overnight trip by rail brings you to New York or Baltimore, where you embark within a few hours for your southern destination.

The next day you awake to the balmy breezes and warm sun of the tropical gulf stream, a pleasant contrast, indeed, to the disagreeable winter weather you have left behind. If you are planning a trip to California, by all means make the journey via the Panama Canal—a never-to-be-forgotten cruise through America's tropics—a restful, comfortable, stimulating voyage. Harvey Obtains Release of Laurel and Intoxicated Driver From Jail

CHAPTER XXII

"I'm not tight, I tell you, sir!" protested "Vulcan" vehemently. "I'm cold sober!"

"What! You dare to stand there and bluff it out! You dare to refute the evidence of that bottle!"

"What's that to do with you?"

The owner of the damaged property was furiously indignant.

"You'll find out just how much after a night in the cells," as "Vulcan," stepchild of the car, he was trembling with anger.

With great presence of mind Laurel stooped down and seized the incriminating bottle. She thrust it—unnoticed at the moment—into the deep, inner pocket of her raccoon coat.

Then she, too, got out.

The car had come to rest in a great bed of asters. They lay there in the moonlight, crushed under the wheels, those lovely flowers. They stared up at her with reproachful faces.

And behind was a long, desperate trail of ruin. Two young trees down! At least 20 smashed rose bushes!

This was a nice mix-up! She tried to placate the owner of the garden.

But he would not listen to anybody's excuses.

"It's time the law stepped in. There's too much going on at those roadhouses!"

He telephoned for the police. She would have to make the best of it . . .

But how?

They'd have to spend a night in the cells, she and this idiotic "Vulcan"!

Dad took the local paper, and the news would be in the sheets tomorrow morning.

That would be good hearing for all the spiteful cats at the country club—and what of Connie?

But what of Bruce Harvey?

WORRIED ABOUT WIFE

But that would hardly be playing fair by poor, stupid "Vulcan" . . .

And all HE could think of now was of his WIFE. He couldn't meet her train. WHAT would she say? And think of him?

Well, this was all one got for making whoopie with a married man . . . !

They were in the hall of the home by now. The irascible owner was at the telephone.

If only that idiotic fool would stop babbling about his WIFE!

"If you're so crazy about her, why did you take me out at all? Why did you haul me into this mess?" hissed Laurel.

The mumbled answer was unintelligible.

"Better pull yourself together before the police arrive, or that charge of Drunk and Disorderly will certainly go through," went on Laurel, sotto voce.

The one important thing was get rid of that BOTTLE!

A ruse came to her mind. "I feel a little faint. Would you mind opening the front door?" she asked the butler.

He hesitated. He was suspicious of the young lady—pretty as she was.

But she did look rather sickly at this moment!

Gingerly he walked past her and opened the door a few inches.

Then he returned. She edged herself nearer and nearer the opening.

Then, just at the moment when the owner of the house hung up the telephone and turned to speak to his servant—she slid through the aperture.

HIDES BOTTLE

Shove it in the thick ivy that twined all over the front of the house . . .

The roots were thick there—python-like.

If only she could slip poor "Vulcan" one? There must be liquor on his breath. And the police had noses like bloodhounds!

Such a contrast to Vulcan's Hispano Suiza!

That was stuck so deep in the soft soil of the aster-bed that it would take Hercules to budge it . . .

A nice ending to a beastly day!

The "prosecuter" was furiously balked in that he had been unable to hand the bottle over to the bluecoats.

"It's my belief that woman took it!"

"You can search me!" said Laurel tranquilly as the ill-assorted quintet bumped over the country roads. At the same time she contrived to slip into the palm of "Vulcan" the much-needed "pep-o-mint."

It would get one nowhere . . . except a night in jail. And thereafter . . . Laurel shivered . . . maybe quite a stiff sentence.

I tell you my eyesight's bad and I mistook that darned white carriage-entrance for the main road," Vulcan declared as he leaned over the railing in the police station. "And if that fellow there—" he pointed at the prosecutor—"says I'm tight, I say he's a darned liar."

"You'll have to prove it," said the magistrate.

"How? I can do that easily. Call up Bruce Harvey, Manor 6021, and tell him to breeze over here. He'll okay what I've said. He is a DOCTOR!"

Brought to the local station by the police, Laurel's eyes fairly popped out of her head at the mention of Bruce Harvey.

She tugged at "Vulcan's" coat. "Say, leave HIM out of this, will you?"

"Don't interfere. The chap's an A-1 doctor."

"Since there's no bottle to be found, and the young lady's okay, and your wit's seem working fairly well, we won't press the liquor charge right now," said the magistrate, eyeing them. "But I'll need $50 bail . . . that's only fair, considering the damage to property you've done."

But "Vulcan" wasn't listening to her. And already someone had gone to the telephone at his behest.

And shortly thereafter appeared Bruce Harvey.

The money was paid over. "Vulcan" drove straight to his home by taxicab, leaving the Hispano Suiza where it was, for the time being.

"I'm so sorry—and ashamed," regretted Laurel as she sat by the side of Bruce Harvey in his car that was taking her home. "I was bored at the club, you know. And so—like a fool—I consented to go out to that roadhouse with 'Vulcan'."

"He's married anyhow, and I don't think it was very—well—never mind—it isn't for me to criticize—"

"I wish you would! I'm such a damn fool!" And to her own consternation, Laurel burst into tears.

She murmured: "Bruce—I've been so wretched—and so lonely—I just can't help it."

Then: "Do I have to go in court? Will it all be in the papers?"

"What?"

"About me—and 'Vulcan'—and our running down those darned rose bushes and raising the devil."

"YOU hadn't anything to do with it. You weren't at the wheel."

"You can be pretty certain it won't get in the papers. But you are a silly little goose! You need a good spanking."

"You're so high-hat! You patronize me so! And the beastly thing is that you're always in the right of it . . ."

"Meaning that I'm a darned prig?"

"No. Yes. Meaning I like you an awful lot, Bruce Harvey."

"And I do you—"

"But you haven't any real use for me!"

"Why, Laurel, you seem so young. You're just like—you know?—a little sister."

"Sister be darned! I never was strong on this family stuff. I think it's a lot of hooey!"

He laughed again.

"Maybe. D'you know I never had any brothers or sisters, either?" he told her.

"No?"

"If I'd had, maybe I'd have had more horse sense knocked into me."

"You're all right as you are. I—I don't think I want you a particle different."

Was that her own voice speaking? Had she gone crazy?

Was it the cocktails in her head? Or the intoxicating presence of Bruce Harvey?

All these weeks she'd thought of him—wanted to see him—and now they were side by side in his parked machine in the glamorous moonlight . . .

"You've been busy so long—absorbed in your work—"

"Isn't that the right way for a young man to be, I ask you?"

"I s'pose so. The Stoic creed! I mean—so altruistic—"

City Overwhelmed Them!

Nevis and Bill were small town youngsters. They started their married life in New York, where opportunity, like a mirage, lured them into a desert of futile social activity and artificial ambitions. Bill merrily followed the trail toward destruction. Read where the trail led him in the absorbing new serial story, "City Wed," by Faith Baldwin, in which the author of "The Office Wife" and "Make-Believe" turns her brilliance as a writer on the problems of modern marriage. Don't miss it.

"City Wed" begins Thursday in the Sun-Telegraph.

"You're mixing things up, dear child. And you've got the stick by the wrong end, anyhow!" smiled young Harvey.

"Well, you're looking out for the greatest happiness of the greatest number of people. It's like something in the Greek philosophy, isn't it? Or was it the Christian?"

"Both. But please don't put me on a pedestal. I'm very—human."

"I shan't tell you what I think of you. But—" she couldn't keep the personal equation out. "I know you look on me as just another little psychopathic!"

"Good heavens, Laurel! Where on earth do you get that stuff?"

She said, trying to seem prim and learned: "From an eminent German sexologist."

"You read that sort of thing, At your age?"

"Well, I've got to keep up with the crowd, or I'm a backnumber."

"Nothing of the sort. You're only a young girl—"

"With no one to care for me. Isn't that so?" And she fluttered her long lashes up at him provocatively.

Synopsis

Laurel Oakes is invited by her friend Imogen Gay to attend a "wild party" held in an old deserted farm house. The party gets too "wild" for Laurel, and she escapes to her roadster. She finds the tires slashed. Running down the road, she is picked up by Bruce Harvey, young physician, who takes her home. Later she goes with Imogen and Freddie DeLargo to Timmy Towson's, a friend of Imogen's who is staging a party at his pent house. Here they meet Sam Schumph, with whom Imogen begins a flirtation. Laurel goes to the Country Club and does an exhibition tango with Diaz, a Spanish dancer, with whom Constance Oakes, Laurel's mother, is infatuated. Laurel's costume catches fire and Dr. Harvey saves her life. Laurel, recovering from her burns, overhears love passages between her mother and Diaz, standing under her window. Laurel goes for a machine ride with a friend, a married man. They have some drinks. Returning home, the car crashes into a garden and is wrecked.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

By THE SUPREME GRAND JESTER

What a day we had Saturday! We had been told that a new chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club was to be organized at the State Theater, Washington, Pa., and just dropped in to see the fun.

The theater was almost filled with boys and girls when we arrived. On the stage, Manager M. M. Wear was explaining about the new club and it was as orderly and as attentive a group as we have seen.

Great preparations had been made for the first meeting. A program had been arranged under the direction of Miss Irene Fisher, organist of the State, and through the cooperation of Ralph Shaffer, announcer, a 30-minute program by the youngsters was broadcast from the stage over WNBO, Washington.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

Musical numbers were given on the air by Verna Bridges, Betty Jane Haught, Jimmy Reich, Genevieve Van Derber, Evelyn Van Derber, Roberta Baker, Rose Anne Hinbaugh, Thais Bowers, James Raymond, Fred Copp, Velma McVhiel, Dorothy Baker, Frank Runco, Stanley Wolfe, Freida May Anderson, Billy Lisle and Annabel Hamilton. Anyone tuned in on that radio hour certainly had a treat.

Donna Fay Walker and Mary Walters did some acrobatic stunts that were little short of amazing.

One of the popular favorites in the Washington, Pa., younger set seems to be a little fellow by the name of Billy Brownlee. Billy did handsprings, walked on his hands and whistled for us.

When it came time to elect officers, it seemed a draw between Billy Brownlee and Roger Doyle for Grand Jester, but Roger was finally elected.

Roger will make a great boy for the office. He is about 13 years old and has been conducting his own orchestra, "Rogers Rowdies," for a year. Now he has promised to organize a new group to be known as the Junior Komic Club Orchestra.

There was plenty of excitement over the election, but when the smoke cleared away, the following members had been chosen:

Grand Jester—Roger Doyle.

Board of Governors—Billy Brownlee, Fred Copp, Charles O'Brien, Alice Gloady, Margaret Rosetta and Estelle O'Brien.

A big electric train was awarded to Grace Kelly—and how thrilled she was! No wonder—wouldn't mind finding one like it under my own tree on Christmas morning!

Manager Wear then announced that the Warner Theaters and Sun-Telegraph would give a free show for children on Thursday morning, December 24 at 10 o'clock. To insure no one being disappointed, if necessary, a second free show, beginning a few minutes later, will be given in the Washington Theater, just across the street.

Santa Claus has sent word to manager Wear that he will be at the State Theater to welcome members of the new chapter, on December 21, 22, 23 and 24, at 4 o'clock.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

The Warner Theaters-Sun Telegraph Junior Komic Club sends greetings to the following boys and girls of the club who will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow.

An Unfair Comparison

When Will the Other Cities Learn Pittsburgh Is Not as Black as It Is Painted?

The orange growers of Southern California were burning udge pots in their groves recently to warm the air and otect the fruit.

A Pittsburgher spending the winter there has sent the n-Telegraph a clipping from the Los Angeles Times in hich the complaint is made that the orange growers with their udge pots are making the place "dirtier than Pittsburgh." e resents the "dirty crack."

The conditions complained of are, of course, exceptional. outhern California normally has golden sunshine and clear, ean air.

But our correspondent has good grounds for objecting to e use of Pittsburgh as the last word in a dirty city.

When will the rest of the country learn that Pittsburgh has ade progress in combatting the smoke nuisance and is now t nearly so black as it is painted?

Carbon Monoxide

Dangerous Product of Combustion Can Be Made Harmless With Fresh Air.

A motorist whose car stalled while he was crossing a ollen creek yesterday was reported killed by fumes from r engine.

A death laid to fumes from a gas stove was reported iday. The next day two persons were reported as overcome fumes. Many such accidents are likely to occur this winter iless people learn to admit fresh air when gas or gasoline is ing burned.

Carbon monoxide, the lethal agent in the fumes, causes any fatalities. It is odorless and invisible and may overcome id kill you, like a blow from a sledge hammer, before you e aware.

Carbon monoxide can make the air in a small, closed arage in which an automobile engine is running deadly within ree minutes.

We have had deaths from carbon monoxide in the Pitts. urgh district not only in homes and garages, but also in auto obiles in which the windows were closed. The only way be safe from carbon monoxide is to admit fresh air into our room and your garage and your car.

Carbon monoxide seeks more oxygen. If not enough fresh r is present to supply its demand it will take oxygen from e blood and lungs of the human beings with whom it comes contact, thus killing them.

The Drive Goes On!

Failure Cannot Be Admitted in the Campaign for the Welfare and Emergency Fund.

When the workers in the Welfare Fund and Emergency ssociation campaign met yesterday for what had been announced would be the last time their reports showed the total bscriptions were still $564,008 short of the $5,981,184 goal.

Moreover, the $5,417,176 reported as having been raised cluded a $750,000 donation pledged on condition that the st of the money required should be obtained.

It looked as if the campaign had failed by a wide margin. he prospect for the unemployed and destitute of Allegheny ounty was gloomy. The city's prestige had suffered a severe ow.

But never say die! The workers refused to admit that e campaign had failed, they refused to admit defeat.

The drive goes on—goes on until the goal has been ached.

That is the right spirit. It is a nuisance, of course; it ould be much more satisfactory to have the job over and done ith. But the community cannot let people suffer because it is nuisance to collect the money needed to relieve their distress.

Anaesthetic by Air

Many Would Prefer Old-Fashioned Chloroform.

An anaesthetic for every sort of pain will soon be avail. ble, so modern surgeons believe. For pain in the dentist's air, one says that distraction is as good as any drug.

That's an old remedy. Old-time dentists, when about yank out a tooth, used to have an assistant jab a pin in the tient's leg, to distract his attention from the main issue.

Perhaps the radio will prove a great distractor. Accord. g to a sales report, thousands of dentists have radios in their fices.

While being worked upon, you can be begiled with a speech the League of Nations, a saxophone solo, or a high pressure count of some sporting event. Though most of us would r, far prefer a little whiff of old-fashioned chloroform.

Rothschild's Recipe

Still Good.

In these melancholy depression days, Americans with a w dollars and a few brains may be interested in this.

During the Franco-Prussian War, when the mob ruled aris and the gutters ran red with blood, Baron Rothschild as asked by a frightened friend:

"My God, Baron, what are you doing to protect your interests!"

Rothschild answered:

"Well, if you can keep a secret, I'll tell you. I am buying real estate for half what it is worth."

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

2—Rapid Transit.
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.

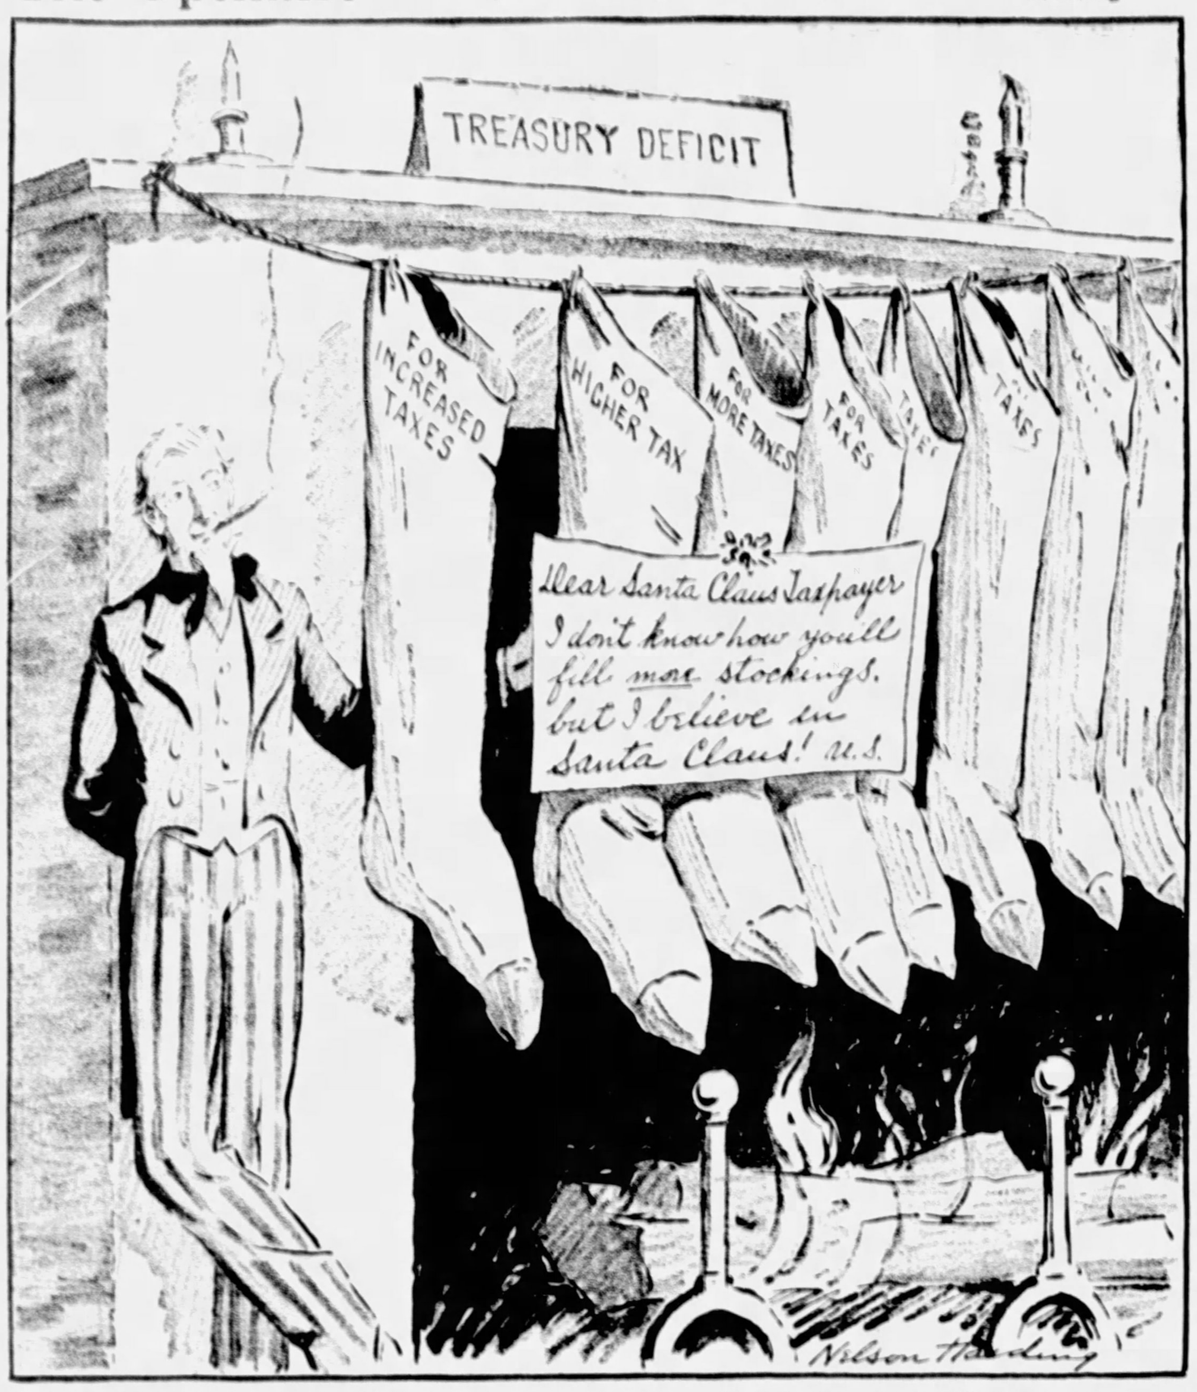
9—Electrification of railroads.

The Optimist

By Nelson Harding



Our Uncle feels the Yuletide glow
And hangs his stockings in a row.
He's asking Santa Claus for more

But what is such a lengthy list
Of presents to an optimist
Who never in the past had cause
To doubt there is a Santa Claus?

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Your Money—Or Your Love!

There's a lot of good philosophy in that popular jingle, "I Found a Million-Dollar Baby in the Ten-Cent Store!" A man usually values a woman in inverse ratio to her money.

A million dollars—or Perfect Love? Which would you choose? When this startling question was put to a group of women university students, 92 per cent of them unhesitatingly cast their ballot for Perfect Love. The rest admitted that they'd prefer the money, on the theory that with a million, you can buy any brand of love, in any quantity.

On the contrary, a lot of money can stand between a woman and love. It can wreck her chances of ever finding real love! Because, somehow, a woman's money so dazzles a man, that he simply cannot SEE the woman behind it. No matter how beautiful, how sweet or how fascinating she may be, she looks only like a bank account to the average man.

That is why so many gilded girls, wealthy widows and rich or successful women have lived and died without ever having found Perfect Love. Or even lasting love.

* * *

Take the lovely and fascinating women in the public eye, for instance—the women whom every other woman envies or hopes to emulate—

The exotic and beautiful Mary Garden—who has never married.

Or to go back into history—what did the all-powerful Queen Elizabeth get? Nothing worth marrying. Or the great Catherine of Russia? Or Messalina? And didn't Cleopatra get a SWELL deal?

* * *

Oh, yes, I KNOW! There are exceptions to this rule—but, it's still the RULE. No millions, no fame, no success ever brought love! They are always a handicap. It's the "beggar maid" who always captures Prince Charming and lives happily ever after—in song, in story and in life.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—One of the Rialto's rugged characters is off to a new start after a bankruptcy bath. He is Al Woods, bluff, keen and often sardonic, whose wits were sharpened on the lower East Side flagstones. He is one of those puckish souls with a fat cigar and a swagger.

Born Albert Herman, he bid for theatrical recognition with such mawkish melodramas as "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl," and "Edna, the Pretty Typewriter." His heroines were tossed over cliffs and strapped to railroad tracks by heavily mustached villains.

With an array of ten-twenty-thirts, Woods garnered a stake and became "an uptown boy," competing with such legitimate luminaries as Belasco, Frohman and Savage. He acquired yachts, several theaters, including one bearing his name, and otherwise basked in a largesse of luxury.

His biggest money-maker was Julian Eltinge, whose success was the keystone of Woods' spreading showmanship. Eltinge was female impersonating in vaudeville when Woods astutely saw his starring possibilities in legitimate. In gratitude he called one of his thespic temples—The Eltinge.

Woods never shook off downtown mannerisms, nor did he try. Evenings he tilted in front of one of his theaters in a backless kitchen chair for gossip with passers-by. He called his intimates "Sweetheart" with an impish and side of mouth gusto.

He possessed an enormously certain flair for dramatic punches, gave his audiences "Bowery thrillers in Fifth avenue dress," and they ate them up. For years his press agent was Samuel Hoffenstein, celebrated as a poet, and his panegyrics to Woods became legends in newspaper shops.

A creature of whims, Woods was forever starting for Europe and leaping off the boat as the gang plank raised. Or, finally reaching the other side, pursuing the same tactics in shoving off for America. A Rialto without Al Woods is an East Side without Al Smith.

The fashionable Casino in the park now offers an oyster bar—an Urbanesque ash-paneled and pink-lighted splotch of modernism—where diners meet and uniformed myrmidons shuck and spice oysters for top-hatted gallants and their ladies. There are onyx tables with spindly legs of chromium for backgammon. At one men were using backgammon dice for a few flings of rolling the bones. In an anteroom I heard a gentleman ask a lady the whereabouts of her husband. She retorted with a high-nosed sniff: "He's in the other room pitching craps."

The Casino suggests its twin restaurant of great popularity in the mauve decade—The Claremont. Perched atop a knoll in the desolation of Grant's Tomb, it still carries on. At night it is hopefully ablaze with light, but the chief patronage is at tea. It has the fitful splendor of the Cafe de Madrid or Armenonville in the Bois, but prohibition has vanquished much of its erstwhile glory. If memory serves, it was once the home of Theodosia Burr. If I were young—and don't giggle, children, at your withered pappy—I would select a window table at the Claremont some moonlit, owl-haunted night, with the twinkling Hudson lazing by and the necklace of Palisade light across and pop that certain question to the only girl.

At a luncheon the menu offered: "Partridge (shot through the head.") I ached to snaffle a bite, eject a splatter of shot on the table, sneer "Bum marksmanship," and stalk stiffly from the room.

* * *

Among guests were a marquis, a countess and a princess. Suddenly Grantland Rice clapped hands softly like a petulant child and cried: "I want a duke!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

One of those spicy bedroom things? Anything but. An old play, written in 1857 by Dion Boucicault. An old play with an old plot—and old props.

Hissing Villyun—

Gallant hero who rights all wrongs—

Innocent heroine, dressed in white, with fluttering eyelashes n' everything—

And a love story that comes out right in the end, with the Villyun getting properly socked as he should be.

Would you think that wise-cracking N'Yawk would take a thing like that to its bosom—laugh over it—snuffle surreptitiously—go home beaming, warmed to the cockles of its heart?

No, you wouldn't. But New York has.

Two years ago a similar phenomenon occurred — equally strange. Onto Broadway's blase boards strolled a troupe of Negroes, playing Marc Connolly's "GREEN PASTURES." No "high yallers" from Harlem night clubs—these. Simple, friendly, black folk—staging a darky's dream of heaven.

Not a select, shining heaven . . . for smart ones, or the Specially Good, but a glorified picnic ground for tired workers, home at last from the fields and the kitchens and the dusty streets. Fat, fretty old Mammas—gossiping and medling, even in Paradise. Foolish, gin-nipping old Papas—sitting around a-resting their weary feet. Giggly little children, all dressed up in Sunday-go-to-meeting white.

And in the midst of it all, strolling up and down, patting the babies' kinky heads, smoothing out the old Mammy's frets, dispensing good "five-cent seegars," strolls Ole Marse God.

Ole Marse God, shabby and weary and wise—who understands everything and forgives everything and leads all good darkies home at last, to heavenly "fish fries."

"Green Pastures"—all New York flocked to it. Sat there, with its supercilious power forgotten—round-eyed, wet-eyed wistful as a child, watching Ole Marse God.

Now why was that?

Why should New York—who sits up nights trying to devise new ways to be wicked and wild—be suddenly entranced by those two plays?

Why should all we satiated moderns, who scoff at sentiment and sneer at simplicity—feel a throb rise in our throats when someone sings "Annie Laurie?"

BECAUSE, AT HEART, WE ARE REALLY LIKE THAT.

Under the scoffing and the smartiness—the assumed boredom and unbelief—we are all children, believing the old, sweet fairy tales.

Believing that virtue should triumph—that vice will surely be punished—

Believing that Love and Goodness and Innocence and Gallant Courage are better than rubies and diamonds and earthly honors—

Believing that somewhere there are Green Pastures waiting—

And the "fish fries" we have missed and the friends we have lost in this sad life below—

And our babies standing waiting—dressed in white as when we said good-by . . . with the tears of that last sad dressing washed away forever.

Somewhere we will find them—those Green Pastures—we are sure. And there in the middle will be Ole Marse God—knowing all, forgiving all . . . putting his great arm around our tired shoulders . . . leading us safely home.

Never mind what we say . . . never mind what we do . . . that's what we really believe.

(Copyright, 1931, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

The average friend is the man who hopes that he can use you before you can use him.

America, Pack Horse For World's Debts?

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The President's message on the moratorium and the debts is universally interpreted as a move looking to further reductions and ultimate cancellation of the debts. Most of the Washington correspondents are agreed on that intent; most of them comment on the "cautious" manner in which the subject is treated; and in Congress it appears taken for granted that the cancellation of the debts is the ultimate goal.

This is all the more remarkable in view of the President's direct statement that he does not "approve in any remote sense of the cancellation of the debts to us." The assumption, notwithstanding that the purpose of the proposed revival of the World War Foreign Debt Commission is to provide as the last one did, for reductions in the debt, is a bit uncomplimentary to the President.

This might have been obviated had the President not been so vague as to the functions of the proposed commission which he would appoint. Or had he been less mysterious and unsatisfying in dealing with the visits of Laval and Grandi. We are quite convinced that they did not come here merely on a friendly visit for a peaceful chat; but both the people and the Congress are left to their conjectures as to the conversations.

The Moratorium Is A Curtain Raiser

The President requested that Congress act almost immediately on the moratorium. Congress was not consulted in the matter in the first place. Had it been necessary to act almost immediately after the regular session of the Congress met, the duty of the President, to which his attention repeatedly was called, was to summon Congress in extra session the first of November.

The representatives of the people, who have their responsibility on their oaths will take whatever time is now required to acquaint themselves properly with its full significance and intent.

The President makes it quite clear that the one-year moratorium will have to be extended; and just here he will face stout opposition—under the leadership of Senator Borah.

The impression is general that the moratorium is a curtain-raiser to cancellation or further reductions in the debts which will be transferred to the backs of the taxpayers of America.

Conditions in America Are Shocking

We wish the President had not baldly said in his message that "the worldwide depression has affected the countries of Europe more severely than our own." It does not make for confidence in his complete frankness, and this means a lack of confidence in his leadership of the American people.

It simply is not true that "the world depression has affected the countries of Europe more severely than our own." It is absurd to say, and keep on saying, that France has been more seriously affected than this country. There is no great deficit there to match our enormous deficit here; there is no proposal there to increase taxes enormously and drag almost two million more taxpayers into the net, as here; agriculture there is highly prosperous compared with agriculture here; and there are less than 300,000 men out of work in France as compared with 6,500,000 idle here.

Had the President said "some of the countries," and few at that, are more seriously affected than we are he would have been within the record. In a state paper there should be meticulous fidelity to the actualities.

The conditions in America are so shocking, as disclosed in the President's own report, that the press of the whole of Europe is astonished.

M. Laval Has Not Changed His Mind

Then, too, it is unfortunate that just as the President's message was being discussed along with his assurance that nothing is more remote from his thought than the reduction of the debts, Ambassador Claudel, of France, acting on instructions from the government in Paris, should be calling on Secretary Stimson with the notification that there will be no revision of the reparations that is not accompanied by a corresponding reduction in the debts.

With Mr. Hoover earnestly insisting that there is no connection between the reparations and the debts, M. Laval serves notice that there is a direct connection as far as France is concerned.

And these instructions from Laval to Claudel have, on orders, been transmitted to all the other nations involved.

It does seem passing strange that after the long conversation between M. Laval and Mr. Hoover the latter should have been left in any doubt as to the former's position. Of one thing we are quite sure—M. Laval has not changed his mind.

'The United States Is Very Sick'

It is also strange that since his return to Paris, and his report to his people it has been understood in France that there is to be a reduction, if not a cancellation, of the debts. We learned from the French papers, not from the White House spokesman, that the arrangements were for the President to ask for the revival of the World War Debt Commission which would advise reductions. That must have been the impression M. Laval carried away with him.

Well, the President is asking for the revival of the commission; to that extent M. Laval understood aright.

That is one of the reasons that the President's message on the moratorium is so generally interpreted as meaning what M. Laval evidently thought their conversations meant at the time they were held and after he returned to Paris.

Where there is so much confusion it is just as well that Congress ascertain what it is all about before taking action. The one year moratorium will be ratified by Congress; but there is not a chance for an extension now; and not the most remote chance for a cancellation or further reduction of the debt. As the London paper says, "the United States is very sick" financially and certainly not in condition to become the pack horse for the war debts of the world.

Do Wise Creditors Cancel Debts?

We do not know to what extent, or if, indeed, at all, the President, in his secret conversation with the representatives of England, France and Italy, has compromised the American position on the debts. The position of France, and of other nations owing us billions, is that they will reduce the reparations in proportion as we reduce the debts. That does not take a penny out of the pockets of these nations; it takes all of the money out of the pockets of the American people. The American people into whose pockets the government is going to dig deeper to get the money to balance the budget in a few years!

"I am suggesting to the American people that they be wise creditors in their own interests and be good neighbors."

Do wise creditors cancel debts or reduce them and assume them? Is that the plan of the bankers who have their private loans in Germany?

And as to the "capacity to pay:" We should like a report on the tax rate in France, for example; on the condition of the treasury in France; on the economic condition of the people in France. And then a similar report on the tax rate here, on the condition of the Treasury here, and on the economic conditions here. And then we would like to read the reasoning that concludes that we not only have the capacity to pay our debts—of billions, and on a two-billion dollar deficit—but the capacity to pay the debts of France and 13 other nations.
